HAIG'S FUNERAL PARADE IN LONDON BRILLIANT DISPLAY OF MILITARY POMP

King's Sons and Allied Chiefs of Great War March Behind Casket of British War Hero.

CROWDS IN STREETS WATCH IN SILENCE

After Service in Westminster Abbey Earl's Body Is Sent by Train to Scotland for Burial.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Three sons of the King marched in the three-mile procession from St. Columba's Church to Westminster Abbey, when the body of Field Marshal Earl Haig was borne through the streets of London today in one of the greatest military pageants in the history of the British capital.

The casket was wrapped in a weather-worn Union Jack which had covered the coffin of the Unknown Soldier, and was borne on the gun carriage on which had been mounted the gun which fired Britain's first shot in the World War. It was the same gun carriage, too, on which the body of Britain's Unknown Soldier was carried to the National Memorial where it rests.

Men's heads everywhere were bared as the casket passed.

To the muffled music of a military band whose strains the Field Marshal had loved, the procession moved through silent streets crowded with tens of thousands of men, women and children. There were many weeping women, most of whom wore black and carried little bunches of Flanders poppies made of red paper—symbolic of heroic sacrifice and devotion.

There were numerous medaled men along the line of march and other veterans who had fought in France and Flanders under Marshal Haig. Many of them made no effort to hide their emotion.

Foch Leads Pallbearers.

Behind the casket were the pallbearers chosen from among the great leaders of the allied forces. They were headed by Marshal Foch, Generalissimo of the allied and associated armies in the war and Marshal Petain, Commander of their French armies. Both wore the long light blue coats of the French army and caps of red and gold.

Lieutenant-General Baron de Ceyninck, representing the Belgian army, came next with Field Marshal Lord Methuen who was alert and firm of step despite his 82 years, marching with bowed head.

Admiral Earl Jellicoe and Admiral Earl Beatty walked side by side, while Sir Hugh Trenchard, in royal air force blue, represented the flying service.

Then came perhaps the most touching spectacle of the procession as seen by the public—Earl Haig's batman (personal servant), for nearly 30 years, Sergt. Secrett, who was with the Field Marshal when he died.

Sergeant Secrett marched with military bearing, but at times there were tears in his eyes.

Another faithful servant marched with the Sergeant — it was Earl Haig's old horse with empty saddle and drapings of gold and black with the Field Marshal's crest upon them. At either side hung empty riding boots. The Earl had ridden that horse during the tempestuous days in France. It had been kept ever since in the King's own stables.

The bearers of the Earl's insignia followed—nine men of high military rank who served him in the war and were his close friends in peace.

Royalty in Procession.

Next came the three Princes representing King George; first the Prince of Wales, wearing the full dress uniform of a Colonel of the Welsh Guard and on the sleeve of his gray coat a black crepe band. Then the Duke of York and Prince Henry in uniform while behind them were Prince Arthur of Connaught, representing the Duke of Connaught, and other representatives of the royal family.

The family mourners were next in the procession. Immediately after the royal Princes came the lonely figure of a woman dressed in deep black. It was the Countess Haig, walking with bowed head. She went quietly to her place in the choir as the procession entered Westminster Abbey.

Following were war veterans. Many wore top hats and their

COURTHOUSE CORNERSTONE LAID BY MAYOR MILLER; BOX OF RECORDS SEALED IN

Photographs of City and State Officials, Lindbergh Medallion, Newspapers and $77.10 Cash Placed in Container.

In a program which consisted largely of speech making, the cornerstone of the new $4,000,000 civil courthouse, facing the projected Memorial Plaza, was laid this afternoon. Within a year, the 374-foot high structure is expected to be completed.

An arrangement committee headed by City Register Grosse, invited about 300 citizens, city officials, jurists, lawyers and others, who had space provided within the courthouse framework on the main floor. Surrounding ground, in the block bounded by Twelfth boulevard and Market, Chestnut and Eleventh streets, was occupied by spectators. The Fire Department band played "America" and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Mayor Miller laid the cornerstone, on the west front of the skyscraper. It is 11 feet long, six feet high and 30 inches wide, of white stone. In it is an aluminum box measuring 16x34x30 inches, donated by the contractor for the aluminum roof. Within the receptacle is preserved a record of the times and the building itself, which is expected to be in good condition a century or two hence, when posterity may open the stone in the march of progress.

Record of Controversy.

One part of the record is a complete account of the controversy over the removal of the courts from their present home at Broadway and Market street. Legal, sentimental and economic points were involved in that discussion, and this record may be of value in a similar argument of a future day.

Other articles in the box are: Medallion of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, complete set of the building plans, photographs of the progress and construction and of the plaza site, list of the subcontractors, city charter, city journal, revised municipal code, zoning ordinance, copies of the local newspapers, program of the ceremony, $77.10 donated by city officials to preserve the money of the time, including all coins from penny to $20 gold piece and all currency from $1 to $20; photographs of Gov. Baker, Attorney-General Gentry, Mayor Miller, Judges and court attaches here, city officials, members of the bar association and members of the Police Board.

City Officials Speak.

Speeches were delivered by Mayor Miller, President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, Attorney-General Gentry, Presiding Judge Daues of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, Ernest F. Green, president of the Missouri Bar Association; Lon O. Hocker, president of the St. Louis Bar Association; Presiding Judge Frey of the Circuit Court, City Counselor Muench, Circuit Judge Rutledge, who headed the organization which upheld the plaza site for the courthouse; Albert G. Burgess, a Negro lawyer, and President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service.

"In world history," said Kinsey, "American cities are relatively new. St. Louis now is emerging from the class of new cities into the class of established cities, with its own civic hopes, aspirations and standards. We have heard much of the 'Spirit of St. Louis;' let us make this Memorial Plaza an exhibit of the 'Culture of St. Louis.' Beyond any doubt whatsoever, the new St. Louis has arrived."

All of the speakers were lawyers except Kinsey, an engineer. Regrets were received from Gov. Baker, Chief Justice Walker of the Supreme Court of Missouri and Silas H. Strawn, president of the American Bar Association.

ARCHITECT'S $5700 FEE AGAIN IS TURNED DOWN

Estimate Board Declines to Pay H. G. Clymer for Redesigning Engine Houses.

For the second time the Board of Estimate and Apportionment today rejected the recommendation of Director of Public Safety Brod that an architect be paid a $5700 fee for redesigning fire engine houses.

The architect is Harry G. Clymer, who also is a member of the Board of Adjustment in zoning law cases. Director Brod said he hired Clymer with the approval of the Board of Public Service and after talking it over with Mayor Miller. He did not know approval of the Board of Estimate was necessary.

Comptroller Nolte said there were architects on the city payroll, making it unnecessary to pay fees to outsiders. Nolte said it was his understanding that, when the salary of Brod's subordinate, Building Commissioner Christopher, was raised to $6000 a year ago, Christopher agreed to do architectural work for the city without fee. Christopher maintains a private office downtown and, among other jobs, drew plans for the Richmond Heights City Hall and fire engine house.

Besides Comptroller Nolte, members of the Board of Estimate are Mayor Miller and President Neun of the Board of Aldermen.

Clymer formerly was on the city payroll as a member of the Efficiency Board, but retired more than a year ago.

BILL TO END 'LAME DUCK' SESSION AT TOP OF CALENDAR

House Committee Gives Amendment to Change Inaugural Date Preferred Status.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The constitutional amendment to change the presidential inaugural date and the convening date of Congress was given preferred legislative status in the house today by its Rules Committee.

The measure would prevent what are known as "lame duck sessions" of Congress, in which men serve who have been beaten at the polls.

Mayor Thompson Injured in Auto.

Poor Water Supply Hampers Firemen—Minor Injuries Only Casualties—Other Towns Send Aid.

By the Associated Press.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 3.—The Fall River business district is in ruins today. Only a few walls stand in an area of five blocks, swept by fire last night and early this morning. The loss was estimated by the Mayor and Police Chief as between $7,000,000 and $12,000,000. Some insurance men thought it might run as high as $25,000,000.

There was no loss of life. Several firemen and others were slightly injured by falling walls and the effects of smoke. Two thousand workers in offices, banks, hotels and stores were without employment today.

Starting at the corner of Pocasset and Main streets, the flames swept northward to Bank street and eastward to Rock street. They destroyed three hotels, six banks, two theaters, a church, newspaper plant and several office and store buildings.

Other Cities Send Firemen.

Firemen from all cities and towns in this vicinity and from cities as far away as Providence and Boston helped in the all-night fight. It was 2:30 a. m. before they were assured that the flames would not spread into the residential district.

The fire started about 6 p. m. yesterday in what was formely the No. 1 mill of the Pocasset Manufacturing Co. The four units of this abandoned textile plant were in process of demolition.

It was the oil-soaked floors of the old mill that gave the flames their tremendous force at the start. A strong wind carried burning embers long distances.

Theaters and Hotels Evacuated.

Almost immediately the Fall River fire department realized that it could not cope with the fire and calls for help were sent out. That was early in the evening. Downtown theaters were filled. Warning was given to the audiences and they filed out without disorder. Guests at hotels in the path of the flames were notified in time to leave before the fire reached them.

The wall of flame pushed forward into the heart of the business district. At the height of the fire all communication with outside points was cut off. The Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies lost their quarters.

The telephone exchange was saved, but the operators were ordered out when it appeared that the building would go. They returned this morning to find everything intact but a church wall was leaning against one side of the building.

Principal Buildings Burned.

The principal buildings destroyed were: Mohican Hotel, largest in the city, with 400 rooms; Wilbur Hotel, Bay State House, Massasoit-Pocasset National Bank, an eight-story building; Metacomet National Bank, Citizens' Savings Bank, Fall River Co-operative Bank, Troy Co-operative Bank, People's Co-operative Bank, Granite Building, largest office building in the city; Buffington Building; Old Fall River Herald building, plant of Fall River Independent, French language newspaper; New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad bus terminal and Temple Beth-El.

Fall River has a population of 131,000.

Soldiers and Police on Guard.

Members of the 241st Coast Artillery company were called out to supplement a force of 20 State policemen rushed from the Holden Barracks. In addition every member of the local force was on duty but there was no looting and an almost total absence of disorder.

The guard room at police headquarters was turned into an emergency hospital where many persons, including firemen, who had been slightly injured, were given first aid treatment.

Ice formed quickly on the ruins as tons of cold water quenched the glowing debris. Fire apparatus, hose lines and even one fireman froze to the pavements. The fire-

SENATE ORDERS ARREST OF STEWART FOR HIS REFUSAL TO TESTIFY

HICKMAN INSANITY OF WORST TYPE, ALIENIST ASSERTS

Youth Said Providence Guided Him in Murder, Dr. R. O. Shelton Testifies.

MOTHER TELLS JURY HOW SON CHANGED

Declares He Was Good to Her Until Return After Conviction as Forger — Father Also on Stand.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3. — Defense alienists testified today in the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman, kidnaper and killer of 12-year-old Marian Parker.

Dr. R. O. Shelton of Los Angeles, former member of the San Diego Lunacy Commission, resumed the medical explanation he began late yesterday of the reasons for his opinion the defendant was suffering from dementia praecox, which he described as "one of the worst types of insanity."

Dr. Shelton testified he had examined the defendant on four occasions. Hickman's judgment, the alienist said, was "extremely bad" because of his "insane delusions and faulty emotion." The witness cited Hickman's expressed belief in "divine guidance," as one "insane delusion."

A conversation the physician held with Hickman in the county jail was quoted.

Dr. Shelton testified Hickman declared the killing of Marian Parker was at the direction of Providence to bring "attention of the world to me;" that if his mother had "stood in the way of Providence" he would "have killed her without emotion," and that he "was the only person in the world entirely free of emotion."

A written relation of these claims, asserted to have been penned by Hickman, was offered in evidence by Attorney Walsh.

Keyes Calls It "Tommyrot."

District Attorney Keyes protested against the introduction of "tommyrot written after the prisoner had confessed the crime and been incarcerated in jail for several weeks."

Judge J. J. Trabucco ordered, "No argument," as Walsh hotly replied to Keyes. The Court glanced ove rthe written sheets and quickly ruled, "Objection sustained." Walsh retrieved the papers.

Hickman declared that if he was hanged there would be a great catastrophe, or earthquake that would shake down the jail, the witness testified under cross-examination.

Hickman was "very serious" about his delusions of divine guidance, but at the "same time would laugh in telling about it," the witness declared to Keyes.

The State attacked the witness' declaration that Hickman's insanity was "an early and not a tail end case." Keyes asked him if he had not testified that the disease began when Hickman was about 12 years old. The witness stammeringly admitted he had.

"That's eight years of development of the disease, isn't it?" "Well, I don't know; well, I couldn't say how fast it had developed," the witness testified.

"But eight years wouldn't be called an early case?" "Well, I couldn't say.

Insane, Says Second Doctor.

Dr. A. L. Skoog of the University of Kansas, staff member of several hospitals in Kansas City, Mo., the next defense alienist, testified to examining the defendant six times between Jan. 25 and Feb. 1 and that on his diagnosis he "believed him to be insane."

Coming into court with his guard, Hickman flashed a grin at newspaper men who sat with their telegraph operators at the table directly behind the prisoner's courtroom seat.

Before the close of yesterday's court session two of the three expert witnesses for the defense had started to draw from the evidence the conclusions with which his attorneys will attempt to convince the jury of eight men and four women that Hickman was unable

RALLY FOLLOWS SHARP BREAK ON NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

Prices Drop Because of Rise in Rediscount Rate, Then Rebound to Higher Level.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—A sensational rally followed a sharp opening break in today's stock market. Prices dropped one to six points in the early trading on selling inspired by the unexpected increase in the New York Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate, but the marking down of the renewal rate on call money to 4¼ per cent started a general buying movement which reduced, or wiped out, the early losses and sent about a dozen stocks up three to nine points above yesterday's final quotations.

As the close approached, prices were quite heavy under a new wave of selling.

DEPUTIES CHEER POINCARE'S 8-HOUR SPEECH ON FINANCES

Premier Says Time Has Not Yet Come for Stabilization of Franc.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Premier Poincare had a majority of the Chamber of Deputies on their feet cheering this afternoon when he finished an eight-hour speech dealing with the country's finances.

Deputies of all parties excepting the Socialists and communists showed full approval of the Premier's effort to restore the French financial structure and the results obtained and they demonstrated effusively that they were in hearty sympathy with the formidable oratorical effort of the 68-year-old statesman.

Poincaire disposed of the idea that the Government was ready for immediate stabilization of the franc. He said, "The hour of stabilization has not yet dome."

7-CENT SUBWAY FARE SOUGHT

Interborough Company Prints Notice of Change March 3.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The Transit Commission yesterday began preparation of its reply to the Interborough Rapid Transit Co.'s petition for a 7-cent fare.

The Interborough distributed among its station masters new sheets to be inserted in their schedules announcing the seven-cent fare on both subway and elevated lines, effective March 3. An Interborough official pointed out that the date could be changed easily and restated the company's intention to seek relief in the courts if the Transit Commission's decision is adverse. It is virtually certain that the Transit Commission will deny an increased fare.

$540,000,000 Office Bill Passed.

By the Associated Press.

JUSTICE F WINNER IN $50,000 RACE

Beats Field of Sixteen Horses to Capture New Orleans Handicap.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3.—Justice F., owned by William Daniel of Chicago, today led a field of 16 to win the $70,000 New Orleans handicap, receiving the winner's purse of $50,000 and a gold trophy. The presentation was made by Mayor William H. Thompson of Chicago.

Jock, owned by E. B. McLean, ran second and Sea Rocket, the property of C. O. Koyle of New Orleans, third.

More than 25,000 persons saw the race.

Justice F. was favorite, at 8 to 5, although Jock had a strong following at better odds.

SPANISH WORKERS STRIKE AGAINST INCOME TAX

100,000 Men Reported to Have Joined Walkout; No Disorder Reported.

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, France, Feb. 3.—Advices reaching thsi frontier city from Barcelona, Spain, indicate 70 per cent of the workers there are on strike in protest against the latest income tax. The strike is said to be spreading rapidly, but without disorder.

The newest Spanish income tax applies to wages of 3250 pesetas (roughly $550) a year. Ten days ago, however, the Government agreed to go into the question further in response to representations of the Workers' Union. It also was agreed to apply the tax only to salaries exceeding 3250 pesetas.

SUPREME COURT OF ILLINOIS UPHOLDS 1927 PRIMARY ACT

Decision Eliminates Need of New Legislation and Clears Way for Petitions.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 3.—Validity of the primary act of 1927 was upheld today by the Illinois Supreme Court.

Called into special session for that purpose, the court announced its ruling late this afternoon, thus obviating the necessity of new primary legislation for which the general Assembly has been called together, and clearing the way for filing of first primary petitions tomorrow and for the State-wide primary April 7.

Chief Justice Heard announced the decision.

VICE PRESIDENT DAWES SIGNS THE WARRANT

Standard Oil Official, Persisting in Refusal to Discuss Bonds, Faces the "Common Jail."

3 CONTRADICT HIM ON IMPORTANT POINT

Dawes' Brother, Former U. S. Senator and Humphreys Jr., Deny Conferring on $1.75 Price.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The arrest of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, was ordered late today by the Senate because of his refusal to answer questions in the Teapot Dome oil investigation.

Vice President Dawes immediately signed a formal warrant for Stewart's arrest and handed it to David S. Barry, the Sergeant-at-Arms with structions to serve it forthwith.

Senator Walsh of Montana, the committee prosecutor, obtained unanimous consent for the presentation of the report, which was read. It recited the questions Stewart refused to answer yesterday and today relating to his knowledge of the disposition by the Continental Trading Co., Ltd., of Canada, of Liberty Bonds bought from profits made in the purchase and re-sale of American oil.

Stewart had been ordered to remain in Washington at least until tomorrow and it was assumed that the warrant would be served upon him at his hotel here. The Senate remained in session after the warrant was issued continuing its consideration of an appropriation bill.

It was the expectation that it would not adjourn until Stewart had been arrested and brought before its bar.

As Barry was getting ready to leave the Capitol for Stewart's hotel, the Senate recessed until noon tomorrow, this action making it impossible to bring the oil man before the bar of the Senate today.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Within 48 hours Robert W. Stewart, head of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, may be a prisoner in the custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, held for contempt as a result of his refusal to tell what he knows about the distribution of the Liberty bonds which comprised the $3,000,000 corruption fund amassed prior to the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair.

The Teapot Dome Investigating Committee, in executive session this afternoon, decided to ask the Senate to immediately order the Sergeat-at-Arms to arrest Stewart and hold him until he is willing to answer the questions.

Stewart can apply to the District of Columbia Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus and have a hearing in that court.

Senator Walsh said that unless he could show cause why the Senate should not proceed against him he would again be remanded to the custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senafe for such punishment as the lawmaking body might decree.

The penalty under civil law is imprisonment in a common jail for not less than one month nor more than 12 months and a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1000.

Favor Swift Action.

Both Chairman Nye and Senator Walsh said they were in favor of swift and drastic procedure. As soon as Stewart had left the witness stand today, and before the committee had adjourned, Nye informed the Post-Dispatch corre-

VOTES $1,500,000 FOR A SECTION OF DES PERES SEWER

Bond Supervisory Committee Takes Step Toward Enclosing Drain Through Forest Park.

WORK LIKELY TO BE DONE NEXT SUMMER

Third and Last Part of Tube to Be Left Until Next Year—Purchase to Clear Plaza Approved.

Steps toward the construction of the next to the last closed section of the River des Peres sewer were taken yesterday when the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee approved an appropriation of $1,500,000 for section E of the concrete tube, to run through Forest Park from a point near the Union boulevard entrance to within about a block east of Skinker boulevard. The distance is about 7000 feet, paralleling the northern boundary of the park, and deviating from the present meandering course of the stream.

It is planned to let the contract for this section next summer, after the appropriation is made by ordinance. Construction of the first closed section—a double tube through the eastern end of the park, from the point near the Union boulevard entrance and south to a point near Kingshighway and Manchester avenue—has been started. The last closed section, from the northwestern corner of the park to the city limits north of Delmar boulevard, will probably be begun next year.

The open section has been built through industrial territory south of Manchester avenue, but the improvement of several miles of open channel downstream remains to be done.

Wanted St. Louis Labor Only.

One vote in the Supervisory Committee was cast against the section E appropriation, by Harry G. Lindeman, president of the Building Trades Council, who said he wanted a guarantee that St. Louis labor would be employed on the project. Contractors for other sections of the river job hired out-of-town workers, he complained. Alvin G. Carpenter, acting chairman, ruled that the committee was interested only in seeing that contracts were let to the lowest responsible bidders, and had no authority to go farther.

On motion of Lindeman, an appropriation of $45,050 for placing an asphalt surface over the cracked concrete of Watson road, between Southwest and Fyler avenues, was held up for inquiry. Lindeman declared that many other streets were more in need of repair than this.

To Clear the Plaza.

A recommendation to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment that the city acquire the property between the municipal auditorium site and Clark avenue and between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, to give better access to the projected building and remove eyesores from the plaza civic center, was voted by the committee. The auditorium site, included in the Memorial Plaza condemnation suit, runs south from Market street, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth, but leaves a strip 140 feet wide between its southern line and Clark avenue.

James L. Barngrove, president of the Real Estate Exchange, and Frank H. Gerhart, committee members, favored the additional purchase, saying it would cost more after the civic center is completed than it would if it were made now. No funds are available for this purpose. President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service told the committee its idea was desirable but not essential, and maintained the city could not pay for extra land. He estimated the cost of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co. factory at the northeast corner of Fifteenth and Clark would be $750,000. It was pointed out that Clark avenue, as well as Market street, might be widened, making the intervening strip a blot on the plaza district.

The Supervisory Committee approved appropriations aggregating $154,250 for the purchase of four pieces of property elsewhere in the plaza site.

man had to be chopped free by his comrades.

Numerous narrow escapes from serious injury marked the progress of the blaze. One fireman saved his life by jumping beneath his truck when a wall of the blazing Temple Beth-El crashed, showering masonry about the apparatus.

At the Western Union office operators worked feverishly to send out news of the fire until their own building was in flames. The record in the log of the office said the men "stuck until their shoes were burned."

Water Pressure Weak.

Lack of water pressure was a constant handicap to firemen who also suffered from the cold wind which whipped the flames before it.

One newspaper lost all its equipment while another suffered severe damage. The plant of l'Independent, French language newspaper, was destroyed. The Herald-News, which had just moved into a new building, was a heavy loser. The basement of the Fall River Globe was flooded by water. The old Herald-News building was one of the burned structures.

Hastily summoned employes succeeded in removing cash, securities and records from all the banks that were burned and similar other banks when it appeared they might be in danger.

Numerous small blazes in the residential districts were caused by flying embers but these were extinguished without difficulty. One fire, however, destroyed the tower of the Merchants' Mill, two miles from the business district.

Many families prepared themselves against the possibility of having to abandon their homes.

Boy Scouts and Salvation Army workers supplemented the efforts of other authorities in giving first aid and serving food to the firemen.

Fire Chief Sullivan today declared that when his men arrived at the blazing plant of the Pocasset mill where the fire started, they found the buildings without sprinklers. The buildings were in process of dismantling. "In the light of the enormous and unnecessary loss caused by this terrible fire in our city it seems to me almost a criminal matter that these buildings should not have been protected as long as possible by the sprinkler system," Chief Sullivan said.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3.—The Republican State Central Committee this afternoon indorsed Senator Frank B. Willis as Ohio's choice for the Republican presidential nomination by a vote of 19 to 1, with one not voting.

Opposition to the indorsement was expressed by two Cincinnati committeemen.

Move for Hoover in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3. — Leaders representing all factions in the Republican party in California have united in an appeal to citizens to support Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination for the presidency. The appeal was headed by William H. Crocker, Republican National Committeeman from California, and carried the names of numerous members of the Progressive wing of the party which was started in this State by Hiram W. Johnson.

Senate Orders Arrest Of Stewart for Contempt

spondent that he would call an executive session this afternoon to decide upon action.

"I don't think that here is any doubt that Stewart is in contempt of the Senate," he said. "Contempt proceedings seem to be the committee's only recourse. The record is perfectly clear. The Senate instructed the committee to learn to what use these bonds were put. We have asked Stewart what he knows about it, and he has twice refused to answer. The issue between Stewart and the authority of the Senate seems clearly drawn."

Threatens to Walk Out.

The burly oil "Czar" surprised those who had expected that a night's reflection, coupled with legal advice, would cause him to reconsider and repent. He was even more defiant than on yesterday. On one occasion, feeling himself affronted by the questions of Senator Cutting (Rep.) New Mexico, Stewart brandished a massive fist and threatened to walk out of the Committeeroom.

His mood had not been improved by the circumstance that three witnesses who preceded him briefly on the stand had contradicted his testimony of yesterday on an important point.

It has been shown that the then Secretary of the Interior, Albert B. Fall, got $233,000 in Liberty Bonds from Harry F. Sinclair a month after he secretly leased the Teapot Dome Naval Reserve to him. Those bonds were bought with the profits which the Continental Trading Co., Ltd. of Canada made by purchasing 33,333,333 barrels of oil in 1921 from the late A. E. Humphreys at $1.50 a barrel, and selling it on the same day at $1.75 a barrel to the Sinclair, Standard and Prairie Oil & Gas interests.

Scathingly Questioned by Nye.

The mystery of the whole transaction lay in the fact that Stewart and H. M. Blackmer, head of the Midwest Refining Co., a Standard subsidiary; had been negotiating with Humphreys for several months and it appeared that Stewart could have had the oil at $1.50 if they wanted to. His motive in allowing the Continental—a dummy corporation—to step in and take a profit of 25 cents a barrel, was scathingly questioned by Senator Nye, who said, in dismissing Stewart for the day:

"The committee can only conclude that you and your associates must have known the purpose of the Continental before it was organized. If there is anything further you can say to dispel that impression, we will be glad to hear it."

Stewart said he had nothing to add.

Nye also warned the imperious magnate that the committee expected answers to its questions, and in thinly veiled language indicated that drastic steps would be taken against him. It did not move him.

Again Declines to Answer.

"Oh, yes, Senator, I know you expect me to answer, and I am just as regretful as I can be that I have to be so reluctant here, but for the reasons which I gave yesterday and for other reasons which may appear in the future, I must again respectfully decline to answer."

He made it plain that he would rather take the risk of going to "the common jail" than make the disclosures which he was asked to make.

Rumors as to what became of the $2,770,000 in bonds which remained of the Continental's profits after Fall was "paid off" have been numerous and sensational, the most widely known being that a large number of the bonds were given to the Republican National Committee to pay off the debts incurred in the election of Harding and Coolidge in 1920.

In his testimony yesterday, Stewart said that he "Did not personally give, or cause to be given, any of the bonds to any political organization."

Today Walsh asked him just what he meant by that statement.

"Oh, I have seen something of that sort in the newspapers—that some of the bonds were used for that purpose—and I just wanted to make it clear that I didn't do anything of the sort," was the reply.

Stewart said it didn't matter to him that someone took a profit of 25 cents a barrel on the oil between Humphreys and himself, so long as the price to him was satisfactory.

Blackmer Behind Continental.

"In view of the relations and the correspondence that had gone between yourself and Blackmer, did you feed that he had a right to grab the oil and hold you up for a profit on it?" asked Walsh, after Stewart had hinted that he believed Blackmer was behind the Continental.

"Absolutely," was the reply. "He owed no duty to me or to the Standard. He had a right to step in and take the profit if he wanted to. As a matter of fact, I had always felt that he was representing Humphreys more than he was representing me. They were old friends."

However, Walsh pointed out that Blackmer, in all his letters to Stewart on the subject, used the terms "we" and "us" and asked if he thought Blackmer meant himself and Humphreys. Stewart was compelled to admit that the text made it very plain that Blackmer meant himself and Stewart.

Stewart interjected, however, that he did not know for certain that Blackmer was behind the Continental. He didn't know who was behind it. Replying to another question, he said he was not consulted about the purchase of the Liberty bonds.

Walsh spread the deadly dragnet again, with an embracing question—"Did you know anything whatever about the purchase of these bonds by the Continental?" It was too broad to be escaped through an oblique answer, and Stewart settled back into his old defiant formula: "With the greatest deference to the committee and the Senate, for reasons which I have stated, I must respectfully decline to answer."

"Were you consulted about the distribution of the bonds?"

A long silence ensued, followed by a shortly-spoken "No."

"Why did you hesitate?" inquired Walsh. Stewart reared in his chair. "That's my business—why I hesitate," he shouted. "I have a right to take my own time about answering these questions."

Then, quickly subsiding, he added: "With all due respect, Senator, I don't think that's a proper question—to ask me why I hesitate."

Walsh declined to be ruffled in the slightest by Stewart's outburst. Upon Walsh as upon the other listeners, it had long since dawned that Stewart's rages bore a distinctly theatrical tone and there was a very general suspicion that they might be calculated to craate a diversion when the questioning became too painful. In other words, they might be intended to throw the questioner off the track by making a scene.

Had Read the Resolution.

Walsh carefully read to him the resolution upon which the committee is acting, pointing out that it conferred the fullest authority to inquire into who got the bonds. He asked him whether he understood this when he refused to answer. Stewart replied that he had read the resolution.

"And when you refused to answer, you understood that the bonds which we were asking about were the bonds referred to in the resolution?" interposed Senator Bratton. "I did," was the firm rejoinder, and the net settled more closely down upon the thick shoulders of the oil magnate.

It was then that Walsh asked what Stewart had meant by saying he had 'not personally" caused any of the bonds to be given "to any political organization," and received the somewhat general reply already described. Walsh signified that he had no more questions.

Grateful to Walsh.

"I want to thank you, Senator Walsh, for the personal consideration you have shown me in this inquiry," said Stewart, smiling wanly. "We were friends a long time ago, and practiced law together in the old starvation days out in South Dakota." He mused a moment and added: "It is very different with both of us now."

Different, indeed, had been the time when Walsh and Stewart, both struggling mining lawyers and unknown, except in the pioneer territory where they lived, battled in the territorial courts over placer claims and squatters' rights, and considered $25 a good, round fee. Now the husky, iron-gray man in the witness chair was one of the towering industrial captains of the world, and the old adversary, who faced him across the green table, was the famous Senator from Montana—who was just about to put him in jail.

Senator Bratton (Dem.), New Mexico, had some questions to ask, however. In response to one of them, Stewart made the astonishing declaration that he had never heard of Teapot Dome until he heard that Sinclair had leased it. It was the more astonishing, because the Teapot adjoins the Great Salt Creek field, in Wyoming, which is operated largely by the Midwest Refining Co., which Stewart's company owns outright.

Senator Kendrick (Dem.), who is a Wyoming stockman, asked Stewart if it was not true that, by all ordinary codes of business practice, Blackmer had broken faith by negotiating in conjunction with Stewart for the purchase of the oil, and then grabbing it and holding Stewart up 25 cents a barrel for commission.

Denies Blackmer Jobbed Him.

Stewart reiterated his denial, insisting that Blackmer had a right to make what he could for himself.

"Yes, but there is supposed to be honor and honesty even among oilmen," rejoined Kendrick. "You had played the game fair and square with Blackmer up to that point. Don't you think if he was behind the Continental, that he crooked you?"

Stewart was unwilling to indorse such an opinion. Kendrick, a very quiet man, slow to any expression of emotion, reddened and with great intensity of feeling, said: "Col. Stewart, I want to say to you that, in my opinion, your story of this transaction was very plausible and consistent until you came to explain this Continental transaction, but after that—well, I can only say that I cannot understand your attitude."

"I am sorry, Senator," was the non-committal answer. "I have the same feeling toward you personally that I have for Senator Walsh. We have been friends a long time, and I want you to know that it is not easy for me to sit here and take the position which I have been forced to take. I have done the best I could to explain it—there is nothing I can add."

At this juncture, Senator Cutting (Rep.), New Mexico, justified his name by slicing in with the keen inquiry: "If, as you have said, Blackner was acting more in Humphreys' interest than in yours, why did he give Humphreys only $1.50 a barrel for the oil when you were perfectly willing to pay $2 a barrel for it?"

Stewart floundered under this unexpected thrust, and his final answer was wholly hazy, and Cutting did not press him to clarify it.

Stands on Record as Trader.

When Cutting inquired why Stewart didn't demand that he be allowed to purchase the oil at $1.50 and save the Continental's commission, Stewart, with teh patronizing air of a man who knows that he is the head of the Standard Oil Co., responded: "It may be, Senator, that you are a better business man than I am, and that you could have made a better trade, but I am not required to defend my business judgment here, and I'll simply say that I made what I thought was a good trade. Of course, you may be justified in assuming that I'm a poor trader, but I'll have to stand on my record."

"Oh, we might assume that you are a perfect imbecile"—— Cutting began, when Stewart interrupted him to say contemptuously: "You can assume that, too, if you want to."

"Or we might assume that you are committing perjury"—— but before he could complete his statement Stewart was on his feet, smashing the table with great glows, and bellowing: "What's that; why, you"—— He stopped for words, then appearing to collect himself, he thundered: "Let me say to you ,sir, that no such assumption is warranted. I resent it as an insult, and I will not endure it."

Turning to Chairman Nye, he added: "I will leave this room instantly if that sort of thing is to continue."

Cutting explained that h ehad intended to say that the committee could assume that Stewart was an imbecile, or a liar, but that it did not wish to accept either conclusion, and hence would be obliged to Stewart if he would furnish an explanation which would make either assumption unnecessary. Obviously, this was a correct statement of Cutting's purpose, but it was not obvious whether Stewart had seized another opportunity to create a divorsion, or whether he had actually considered himself insulted.

Blackmer Independent of Stewart.

Nye called Stewart's attention to the fact that Blackmer was head of the Mid-West, which the Standard owns. Stewart replied that at the time of the Continental transaction Standard had not acquired full control of the Mid-West, and declared that Blackmer consequently was independent of Stewart, but he could not explain, on this hypothesis, why Blackmer habitually referred to "we" and "us" in speaking of himself and the Standard interests. He reiterated that he did not feel Blackmer had broken faith with him.

"Well," said Senator Walsh's icy comment, "I want to say that if I had carried on such a correspondence as was carried on between you and Blackmer and I found him in the end holding me up for an $8,000,000 profit, our relations would be considerably less cordial thereafter."

Nye completed the grim business of lashing Stewart to the mast. He allowed him to repeat his refusal to tell who got the remainder of the Liberty bonds after Fall's cut had been paid; he again asked him whether he had discussed the distribution of the bonds with Sinclair, Blackmer and O'Neill. When he felt that he had nailed Stewart down on the contempt issue beyond all possibility of future denial, he allowed him to go, as has been related.

Contradict Stewart's Story.

The first witness to contradict Stewart's story was former Senator Charles Thomas of Colorado, who acted as Humphreys' attorney in the negotiations with the oil men, and was present at the famous meeting in Hotel Vanderbilt, New York, at which the Continental deal was put through. He said he did not hear any declaration of the sort described by Stewart. In fact, he declared, he and Humphreys supposed to the very moment of drafting the contract that Sinclair, Standard and Prairie companies were to be the purchasers at $1.50 a barrel and it was when he started to draw up the contract that he discovered the purchaser was the Continental. He was followed to the stand by a witness who corroborated that testimony.

Beman G. Dawes, brother of Vice President Dawes and president of the Pure Oil Co., which purchased a half interest in the Mexia property, testified he was in the room at the Vanderbilt and heard no such conversation as that described by Stewart.

"When did you first hear about $1.75 a barrel being paid for this oil?" asked Walsh. "It must have been three or four years later, at the time of the Senate or grand jury investigation," was the reply.

Dawes indicated he supposed the Sinclair, Standard and Prairie companies were the buyers and that $1.50 was the price.

Even more devastating was the testimony of A. E. Humphreys Jr., another who attended the famous conference. He declared that, until the time came for drafting the contract, both he and his father supposed they were selling the oil to the Sinclair, Standard and Prairie companies and that he personally never knew until the grand jury investigation, three years afterward, that a commission of 25 cents a barrel had been collected and that the oil had cost the Sinclair, Standard and Prairie companies $1.75 a barrel.

"Were you in the room throughout the conversation?" Walsh asked. "Practically all the time."

"And you heard no conversation of the sort described here by Col. Stewart?" "I did not."

Humphreys said that neither himself nor his father had ever heard the name of the Continental Trading Co. until they were informed at the drafting of the contract, that it was the purchaser, and that they would not have signed it unless it had been guaranteed by Sinclair, Stewart and O'Neill of the Prairie.

Stewart had declared that when he got the oil for $1.75 he was getting it under the market price and, therefore, he didn't care if somebody was getting 25 cents a barrel out of it.

Humphreys, however, explained that the price of the oil was low because it was in a field not connected with a pipe line and had to be shipped in tank cars. It was another breach in Stewart's story.

The witnesses called to contradict Stewart said they did not hear mentioned at the conference a price of $1.75 for the oil. Stewart said yesterday H. M. Blackmer, head of the board of the Midwest Refining Co., had told him this price would have to be paid by the Standard Oil interests if they wanted the oil.

Replying to Walsh, Stewart yesterday said the contract of sale by the Continental to the Sinclair crude and the Prairie Oil was executed at the same time.

"Were all of these gentlemen present?" Walsh asked, referring to the various oil men mentioned as participants in the conference.

"Oh, I don't think so. It was about the same time, as my recollection is, I went back to Chicago from the new York meeting and presented the contract to my board of directors."

Dawes Bought at $1.

Dawes was recalled after Stewart left the stand and testified that his company in the summer of 1921 purchased oil from A. E. Humphreys at $1 a barrel, delivered in tank cars.

The witness said that when the Continental contract was made it was the understanding that the Pure Oil was to get one-half of the Humphreys output. It had a stock ownership of 30 per cent in the Humphreys companies.

"Were you to pay the same price as the Sinclair Crude and Prairie?" Walsh asked. "Yes. It was about $1.50 a barrel."

"Did you participate in the conferences at New York?" "Not except that I was present when the final negotiations were made."

"Tell us what happened at the New York conference." "Those gentlemen had agreed at a previous conference that the Sinclair Crude and the Prairie were to take half of the oil. I was there to see that no hardships were to be worked on the Humphreys companies."

"When did you learn about the Continental Trading Co.?" "At that conference; I think right at the end. It was suggested by Mr. Blackmer (H. M. Blackmer of the Midwest Refining Co.). I think that took Senator Thomas by surprise, as he said, 'Well, this introduces a new element.'" Thomas was acting as an attorney in the case.

"Do you know anything about the Continental Trading Co.?" "Nothing whatever."

"And about these bonds?" interposed Nye. "Not a thing."

Dawes was then excused.

H. L. Phillips, president of the Sinclair Crude, and George H. Taber Jr., of Tulsa, Ok., were called but failed to answer.

BARTENDER SLAIN IN $61 ROBBERY ON S. BROADWAY

Louis Ottenad Found Beaten in Saloon in Luxemburg, Dies in Hospital of Injuries.

SECOND CARONDELET TOWNSHIP MURDER

Iron Stove Poker, Believed to Have Been Used by Intruders, Missing—Victim 40 Years Old.

The second murder in Carondelet Township in eight days was recorded with the death last night of Louis Ottenad, bartender in the saloon of Fred Lehmkuhl, 9401 South Broadway, Luxemburg.

Ottenad was found unconscious in a storeroom between the saloon and Lehmkuhl's living quarters in the rear, by Lehmkuhl's housekeeper and his 12-year-old son when they returned home shortly after 10 o'clock. Ottenad's skull was crushed and his nose fractured, where he had been struck by a blunt weapon.

An iron stove poker is missing from the saloon. Presumably robbery was the motive. No money was found at Ottenad, and $61.80 was gone from the cash register, $4.10 remaining. Attended, wearing an overcoat, apparently was locking up for the night when struck down. He died 10 minutes after being taken to City Hospital, without making a statement.

Ottenad, also known as Autenaud, was 41 years old, and resided with his wife and three children at 606 Roosevelt place. He had been employed at the saloon for seven years.

Lehmkuhl had gone to Clayton early in the evening, leaving Ottenad in charge of the bar. Lehmkuhl's son and housekeeper went to a neighbor's birthday party.

Constable Jacob Pfeiffer of Carondelet Township today arrested a roadhouse employe for questioning. He is the last man known to have been in the saloon with Ottenad. He says Ottenad was preparing to close when he departed, half an hour before Ottenad's body was found.

Bloody finger prints discovered on a door knob at the saloon were photographed.

James Haley, former bartender in the saloon of "Jelly Roll" Hogan at 9025 South Broadway, was shot to death Jan. 25. His body, wrapped in a blanket, was found at Green Park and Reavis road, a mile south of Point Breeze.

GALLO'S $26,090 SUIT AGAINST TENOR TITTA RUFFO DISMISSED

Impresario Indicates He Will Appeal From Decision of New York Court.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The damage suit of Fortune Gallo, opera producer, against Titta Ruffo, Metropolitan Opera Company singer, was dismissed today when the Court ruled out the last of three grounds upon which the action was based. The original action was for $26,090.

Gallo sought to collect for salary and expenses paid Ruffo as a member of an opera troupe he took to Havana in 1923. Ruffo, he charged, has called him a "piccolo impresario," had misrepresented his drawing power in Havana, had forced the producer to sign Yvonne D'Arle, soprano, as a member of the company, and had forced extra performances for himself and Miss D'Arle at which the producer lost money.

Counsel for Gallo indicated that he would appeal.

RELIC OF TYCHO BRAHE HELD

U. S. Customs Officers Seize "Astronomical Ball of Sweden."

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. — The "great astronomical ball of Sweden," a solid silver sphere dating from the sixteenth century, was temporarily impounded for appraisal yesterday by customs authorities. It was brought here on the liner Drottningholm for exhibition here and in Washington.

Customs appraisers ordered the ball held after learning that it was valued in Sweden at $108,000. It was said to have been made by Tycho Brahe, famous Swedish astronomer, 400 years ago. Its owner, Sigfrid Ralamb, received permission to send it to America after 10 years of protest by the Swedish Parliament.

Hickman's Mother, Father and Brother, Witnesses in His Behalf to distinguish between right and wrong when he kidnaped and murdered the Los Angeles school girl.

Mrs. Eva Hickman and her son, Albert. Below, Thomas Hickman.

To the evidence was added a mother's story of grief, a father's tearful account of his married life and a brother's matter-of-fact idea of the prisoner's mental status as well as the testimony of a police officer.

It was the latter and a newspaper photographer who brought into the court records the morgue photographs of the girl's dismembered body and the big jackknife which Hickman declared was the weapon he used.

Two Alienists Testify.

As the afternoon session came to a close Shelton declared from the witness stand that Hickman was insane—a victim of dementia praecox, paranoid type, a sufferer of delusions of grandeur and megalomania.

Dr. J. M. Fettus of Los Angeles, was the other expert called by the defense. Hickman, he said, was undersized and had low blood pressure. Dr. Fettus also declared the defendant suffered from "serous meningitis," or inflamation of the brain covering.

The final witness for the defense will be Dr. A. S. Skoog, Kansas City alienist and considered by Hickman's counsel as their star witness.

Attorneys said it was possible that the prosecution would start rebuttal evidence before the close of court today.

The appearance of the prisoner's mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman of Kansas City, on the witness stand was one of the dramatic events of the trial. His father, William Thomas Hickman of El Paso, Tex., and the defendant's brother, Alfred, had preceded her.

Mother Says Son Changed.

"He is my son," said the mother, identifying the youth in whose defense her own past and alleged mental weakness have been paraded through the trial. "He was good to me and then he changed," she continued. That change, she declared, occurred following his return to Kansas City after his arrest and conviction of check forgeries here.

That change also was noted in the testimony of the brother. He declared the accused youth seemed to have things on his mind which he did not want to tell about. He said that he didn't think the fact that Edward, as he was known in the family, had murdered a man here in December, 1926, had any part in causing him to be sullen when he returned to Kansas City last summer.

Thought Wife Insane.

In contrast with the relative composure of mother and son on the witness stand, Hickman's father testified in a voice that trembled and tears rolled down his face as he told of his married life. He told of threats made against his life by his wife, and declared he believed she was insane and her father "rational but peculiar."

He admitted that, after leaving his family while William Edward was a small boy, he married again in Northern Mexico.

Hickman's father denied that his relations with other women, which had been mentioned in defense depositions, had anything to do with his wife's mental condition.

An intimate picture of Hickman's early Arkansas home life, was given by his father, mother and brother, who testified in support of his plea that he was insane when he killed the Parker girl.

Mother Tells of Suicide Attempt.

Pursuing the trial of hereditary insanity outlined by the defense, Mrs. Hickman, the gray-haired unemotional mother, in sharp metallic accents, testified she remembered "a few times" when she threatened to kill her husband. She also remembered attempting suicide some 15 years ago because "nobody seemed to want or care about me" and she "might as well die."

The prosecution did not cross-examine Mrs. Hickman and her stay on the stand was of brief duration.

She had been preceded by her estranged husband, whose testimony of his family unhappiness was interrupted when he broke down sobbing. He testified the early life of his son had been affected by a melancholy, weeping mother.

Said Wife Threatened Family.

He related the asserted threats of the "nervous and peculiar" mother to kill him and their five children. He told of her showing signs of insanity from their early married life down to when her doctors told him she was "crazy."

The witness said he and his wife had lived together 27 years. Asked pointedly on the question of her insanity, he replied: "Well, she was insane." Hickman said he woke up several nights finding her watching him with a "knife or a hatchet."

Albert, 21-year-old brother of the slayer, spoke rapidly and freely from the witness stand. He told of outbursts of anger by his maternal grandfather, Paul Buck, which led the witness to believe that at times he was insane.

He had the same comment to make on some of his mother's actions and, under a stiff cross-examination, he maintained that following the failure of the prisoner to win an oratorical contest in the Kansas City schools he, too, developed an inability to distinguish between right and wrong.

In reply to one question, the witness turned his eyes on his prisoner-brother as he said: "My brother told me his ambition in life was to become a great public speaker and leader."

Alfred asserted Mrs. Hickman had been worried and distraught by her burdens after the father left the family when he was 13.

Under cross-examination, Alfred testified his mother "tried to be good to us and worked as hard as she could."

Women Jurors Affected.

When the heavy knife with which Hickman dissected the body of the child victim after strangling her was filed as an exhibit in the case the women jurors were visibly affected. The weapon and morgue photographs of the slain girl's body were passed to them for inspection. These exhibits were introduced by the defense.

While the father was on the stand he was cross-examined by Prosecutor Keyes, who drew from him the statement that before his wife some years ago was sent to an Arkansas asylum for a short period, he had told the officials who committed her that he never had seen signs of insanity until she made the suicide attempt.

THEATER BOMBED WITH THREE MEN ON GUARD INSIDE

Explosion Wrecks Wall of Idlewild Picture Show in East St. Louis and Rocks Neighborhood.

An explosion of dynamite damaged the Idlewild Theater, 2200 Illinois avenue, East St. Louis, and awakened residents for several blocks around, last midnight. The dynamite had been placed in a side wall, about 20 feet of which was blown away, hurling two sections of sheet iron, which formed portions of the wall, 70 feet away into a vacant lot.

Police attribute the explosion to labor difficulties between Grover C. Thomas, proprietor of the theater, and some union organizations of the East Side.

Three watchmen who, armed with shotguns, have been on duty at the theater each night, had moved their cots to another part of the building. The explosion occurred at a point in the wall directly alongside where the men had been sleeping and lounging. They had taken their cots Wednesday night to the operator's booth, a small window of which looks out on the street.

Two of the watchmen, George Marner, 443 North Twenty-first street, and Charles Evans, 450 North Twenty-first, told police the proprietor had explained to them he had been having trouble with union officials for a year.

He said he could not afford to hire a union movie operator, as had been demanded, they told police.

The theater is a neighborhood picture house. Damage was estimated at $200.

CUCKOO GANGSTER FINED $400 ON AUTO ACCIDENT CHARGES

James Dormondy, 19, Fails to Appear in Court; Woman Says He Struck Her.

James Dormondy, 19-year-old Cuckoo gangster, who has been arrested 56 times, was fined a total of $400 by default yesterday in Police Judge Rosecan's court in connection with two automobile accidents last Nov. 13. Following one of the crashes, he struck a woman motorist over the head with a crank handle. He did not appear in court.

Mrs. Charles W. Schroeder of 223 West May avenue, St. Louis County, testified that Dormondy's car ran into the machine she was driving in the 1300 block of South Seventh street. In an altercation following the accident, the gangster hit her with a crank handle, she said, jumped into his machine and drove away. In making his escape, Dormondy' machine also crashed into a parked car. He was arrested later.

Judge Rosecan fined him $250 for disturbing Mrs. Schroeder's peace, $100 for leaving the scene of an accident and $50 for careless driving. Dormondy's case had been continued three times, and his counsel asked for another continuance, before testimony began this morning.

Columbia Students Hiss Cosgrave.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—William T. Cosgrave, head of the Irish Free State, while viewing the buildings of Columbia University under the personal escort of President Nicholas Murray Butler, was hissed by a small group of students today. As the party came on a balcony overlooking the gymnasium where an examination was in progress, the hissing broke out and gave way to applause, which changed to even stronger hissing as the party turned away. Prof. Timothy A. Smiddy, Irish Free State Minister to the United States, was a member of the party.

Farmer Killed Hunting Hawks.

By the Associated Press.

MOBERLY, Mo., Feb. 3.—Arthur Brown, 50 years old, a farmer living near Madison, killed himself accidentally today while hunting hawks. The body, with discharged gun at his feet, was found hanging over a fence by a neighbor, Homer Martin.

$11,800 A YEAR BILL FOR CARE OF TOM MIX'S CHILD

Movie Actor's Divorced Wife Wants $18,000 Annual Allowance.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 3.—Just how much money it takes to meet the needs of the 16-year-old daughter of Tom Mix of the films is not a question which Judge Fletcher Bowron of the Superior Court cares to decide hastily. Therefore, he delayed decision on the plea of Mrs. Olive Stokes Mix, the actor's former wife, to have the amount paid by him for his daughter's support increased from $50 to $1500 a month.

The bill of yearly expenditures presented by the mother to the Court included $11,800, divided as follows: Dancing lessons, $1000; vocal lessons, $1000; piano lessons, $1000; clothing, $4000; groceries and milk, $1200; rent, $2400, and tutor, $1200.

Mix, on the witness stand, said he was "willing to do the right thing," but that he didn't want his former wife to profit by his generosity. He thought a $2000 automobile would be good enough for Ruth Jane. He admitted he made $7500 a week. He appeared in court in cowboy attire and gave his occupation as a "horseman."

Judge Bowron ordered that, pending the appointment of a guardian, Ruth Jane be placed in a girls' boarding school.

KING'S SONS LEAD FUNERAL PARADE FOR MARSHAL HAIG

medals displayed proudly, and in each case the symbolical red poppies. The men of the "old contemptibles," as England's first army in France was called, carried a red, white and blue banner draped in black.

In academic robes were representatives of the universities followed by officers of the fighting services. One of the most impressive sections being a large contingent of men of the British Legion carrying enormous poppy wreaths labeled "For Remembrance."

The services began at St. Columba's, the little church which Earl Haig attended. Then the body was conveyed in procession to Westminster Abbey.

Inside Westminster Abbey a hushed assembly awaited as the casket was carried in on the shoulders of soldiers while the organ played Chopin's funeral march. For an hour the coffin rested on a bier before the chancel, the congregation joining in the services and singing the hymns, "Abide With Me," and in conclusion, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Just before the service was concluded, Scottish pipers in a far part of the Abbey sounded the plaintive notes of "The Flowers of the Forest."

Envoys of all the nations of the world were in the crowd in the abbey, among them Alanson B. Houghton, American Ambassador to the Court of St. James's.

After the abbey service, the great cortege again formed outside the ancient edifice and with the casket replaced on the gun carriage retraced its steps across Parliament Square, then swung to the right past the high clock tower of Parliament buildings and across Westminster Bridge to Waterloo Station, where a special train was waiting to convey the body to Scotland.

Earl Haig will be buried in a vault in Dryburgh Abbey, near Bemersyde House, the Earl's Scottish home. Next to the Haig vault is the burial place of Sir Walter Scott.

Services in Other Cities.

Throughout the British isles at the same hour special memorial services were held in honor of the Field Marshal, the chief of these in the cathedrals at Edinburgh, York, Belfast, Glasgow and Newcastle. Many of the small provincial churches also provided an opportunity for their parishioners to honor the late commander.

All over London flags were at half staff, including those at the German and other foreign embassies.

While thousands of Londoners were able to pay last homage to Earl Haig by their presence in the streets as the procession to the Abbey passed, many thousands more in quiet homes throughout the country had an opportunity to join in the devotional service broadcast from the Abbey.

A special army order issued on the occasion of the funeral, paid tribute to the man "who has left to the army an imperishable memory and to the empire a glorious example."

GEORGE G. GIBSON, HIT BY AUTOMOBILE, DIES

Accident Verdict Exonerates Driver of Car; Funeral Services Sunday.

George G. Gibson, 5612 Cates avenue, died at St. Luke's Hospital last night of injuries suffered earlier in the day when he was run down by an automobile at Clara avenue and Delmar boulevard.

He was 82 years old, the founder of the New York Storage Co., and had been the head of the firm until his retirement from business three years ago. He also had founded and headed the Gibson Furniture Co.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today, exonerating Julius Hartig, an electrician, 6315 Alamo avenue, driver of the machine. Testimony was that Gibson stepped suddenly into the path of the automobile from in front of a bus which had stopped at the corner and that Hartig, who was driving slowly, had stopped immediately.

Surviving Gibson are a son, Julian M. Gibson, a vice president of the National Warehouseman's Association, and two daughters, Dr. Helen Frances Gibson, who formerly was a medical missionary to India, and Mrs. Anna G. Cavanaugh.

Born in Scotland, Gibson came to St. Louis when a young man. He was secretary-treasurer of the old Cass Avenue Railway Co., one of the independent lines which subsequently was merged with the city's general transportation system. He married Miss Anna Meyer, a daughter of the late Ferdinand Meyer, who had served as a police commissioner. Mrs. Gibson died several years ago. The funeral will be Sunday at 2:30 p. m. from the Gospel Tabernacle, on Union boulevard just south of Page boulevard, of which he had been a liberal supporter.

Anna Baras, 6, was run down and seriously injured by a machine, the driver of which fled, as she attempted to cross Sidney street near Broadway yesterday. Anna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Baras, 2616 South Second street. She is at City Hospital suffering from skull injury and severe bruises and lacerations.

Miss Sadie Bermi, 19, a stenographer, 5577 Vernon avenue, suffered a fractured skull, a fractured nose and internal injuries when knocked down by a mail truck near Vernon and Arcade avenues. The mail truck was backing in front of the Arcade Postoffice. Miss Bermi was crossing the street.

WARD CONVENTIONS OF BOTH PARTIES TO ELECT DELEGATES

Democratic and Republican City Chairmen Issue Calls for Meetings.

Calls have been issued by Chairman Mestres of the Democratic City Committee and Chairman Remmers of the Republican City Committee for ward conventions to select delegates to their respective party State conventions, which in turn will elect delegates to the national conventions.

The Democratic City Committee will meet Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the committee headquarters at Seventeenth and Locust streets, and the Republican committee at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in its quarters in the Planters building. Both State conventions will be in St. Joseph, the Democratic on Feb. 28 and the Republican March 26.

Congressional district meetings of State convention delegates will be held by the Democrats in St. Joseph the day of the State convention, but the Republican district conventions will be held in the districts on or before March 4.

ORIGINAL WRIGHT BIPLANE SENT TO BRITISH MUSEUM

Craft in Which First Successful Flight Was Made to Be Placed on Exhibition.

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., Feb. 3.—The original Wright biplane, in which the first successful flight was made at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903, has been shipped to the British National Museum at London, where it will be placed on exhibition for an indefinite period.

The plane left Orville Wright laboratory here secretly Wednesday, it became known today, and is on its way to England. Details regarding its shipment were not made known by Wright, who refused to discuss the matter, further than to confirm shipment of the plane.

The craft will remain in England for at least a year, the contract for its housing in the museum originally being written so that it would remain abroad for six years.

Recently a movement was started here with the completion of Wright Field, the engineering division of the Army Air Corps, to have the original Wright plane housed in a memorial building to be erected on the field in tribute to the achievements of the Wright brothers.

Orville Wright about two years ago had planned to present the original plane to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington for permanent exhibition purposes. A controversy arose with the museum officials relative to the proper designation of the plane. Wright objected to a tag being placed on the first Langley plane now on exhibition in the museum, which classes it as "the first plane to make a successful flight."

LONG LOST SILVER LODE FOUND

American Mining Concern Traces Famous Vein in Guanajuato.

Copyright, 1928, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (The New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

GUANAJUATO, Mexico, Feb. 3.—The main vein of the great vein of silver which gave Guanajuato the name of "The Treasure House of Mexico" when the Spaniards first worked it, has been rediscovered by an American mining company after several months of exploration and diamond drilling.

The vein was found 2000 feet down and within two miles of the heart of the City of Guanajuato. For 300 years the mother lode of Guanajuato was one of the chief sources of the silver supply of the world. The Indians had worked it for centuries before the Spaniards came, and the Spaniards themselves took out several hundred million dollars' worth of silver during their occupation of the country.

ALFRED C. F. MEYER WEDS HIS SECRETARY

Bank President and Bride to Cruise Caribbean on Honeymoon.

Alfred C. F. Meyer, president of the Lafayette South Side Bank and chairman of the directorate of the Twelfth Street National Bank, was married yesterday to Miss Edith O. Albrecht, his secretary, who is 20 years his junior. He is 52 years old.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Timothy Meagher, pastor of St. Pius' Catholic Church, at Meyer's country place, Ivy Tower, at Denny and Robyn roads, near Sunset Hill Country Club. Members of the Meyer and Albrecht families were present including Meyer's five adult sons, one of whom, John P. Meyer, a State bank examiner, was groomsman. Miss Lillie Albrecht, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

Mrs. Meyer had been Meyer's secretary for the past 10 years. She lived with two sisters at 3634A Connecticut street and the wedding was no surprise to members of her immediate family or of the Meyer family, who had known of the romance for several weeks.

Following the ceremony, Meyer and his bride left for Hot Springs, W. Va., where they will spend a week or 10 days before leaving for a Caribbean cruise. They will return to St. Louis in two months, making their home at Ivy Tower.

Meyer's first wife died about a year ago.

MINER WHO PLEADED GUILTY OF MURDER DENIED A TRIAL

Judge Refuses to Let Mike Kurant, Under Sentence of Death, Change Plea.

Mike Kurant, a miner, of Maryville, Ill., who last week was sentenced to be hanged on his plea of guilty of murder, lost his chance for trial by jury yesterday when Circuit Judge Brown, in Edwardsville, ruled he was not entitled to a new trial. His attorneys said they would appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Kurant was arrested early in January, when secretly visiting his wife and children in Maryville. He fled last June after the murder of Paul Budde, son of an Illinois farmer, in a holdup in which Kurant and two other men took part.

Kurant's attorneys—R. Guy Kneedler of Collinsville and Thomas Williamson of Edwardsville—contend that Kurant made his plea of guilty without having had advice of counsel, that his confession of the crime was not an "insistent" confession, and that Judge Brown, who heard his plea and sentenced him, was State's Attorney for Madison County when the crime was committed and should therefore be disqualified from sitting as Judge in the case.

NIGHT MAIL PLANE WRECKED

Pilot Lands by Light of Flares Near Kansas City, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 3.—Landing with a disabled motor in the light of two parachute flares, the Chicago-Kansas City overnight air mail plane, piloted by Charles E. Peoples, was wrecked when it struck two trees three miles west of Missouri City, northeast of here. Peoples was unhurt.

Flying nearly two hours late, Peoples' plane developed motor trouble southeast of Liberty, Mo., at 3 a. m. He released the two parachute flares and by their light made out a field on the bank of the Missouri River. Peoples landed, but the plane rolled too far and crashed into the trees. Three wings and the landing gear were smashed.

"MEAT SPECIAL" HITS BROKEN RAIL; 100 MULES ARE KILLED

23 Freight Cars Leave Track Near Mt. Vernon, Ill., Many Animals at Large.

By the Associated Press.

MT. VERNON, Ill., Feb. 3.—One hundred mules were killed or so seriously injured that most of them had to be destroyed, when 23 freight cars left the track in a wreck of Louisville and Nashville freight train No. 79, about 10 miles east of here Wednesday night.

Fourteen cars of mules were wrecked and many of the animals escaped and were running at large today. No one was injured in the wreck, which was caused by a broken rail.

The train wrecked, known as the "Meat Special," is one of the fastest freights in the country, making passenger train time between St. Louis and New Orleans with meat for export.

SENATORS CLASH OVER RADIO NOMINATION

"Fee" Paid Commisisoner by Former Employers Brings on Sharp Discussion.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — A sharp clash between Senators Couzens (Rep.) of Michigan and Wheeler (Dem.) of Montana marked the hearing today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee on the nomination of O. H. Caldwell of New York as a member of the Federal Radio Commission.

Wheeler questioned the acceptance by Caldwell of $7000 annually while a member of the commission from the McGraw-Hill publishers, with whom he was employed formerly at $17,000 a year. The radio post pay is $10,000 annually. Caldwell said the $7000 was paid with the understanding he would return to the McGraw-Hill company when he left the commission.

Couzens compared this payment to Caldwell with retainer fees paid members of the Senate as lawyers by some clients. Wheeler denied that he received any such fee and contended that the Senators rendered some service whereas Caldwell's money from McGraw-Hill was a "mere gratuity."

When Senator Couzens described retainer fees as "buying off," Wheeler heatedly declared "such is not true" and the Michigan Senator replied, "You might as well be frank about it."

"When you were with the Ford Motor Co. and employed lawyers," Wheeler questioned, "you didn't think you were buying them off, did you?"

Couzens said that "in effect" he so considered such transactions.

"I deny this on behalf of the legal profession," answered Wheeler.

"Why set your profession on the pedestal and condemn every other?" countered Couzens.

14 GANGSTERS ARRESTED IN NEW YORK SKYSCRAPER

Police Assert Paramount Building Has Been the Rendezvous of Members of Diamond Band.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb 3.—Acting on a tip that the big Paramount Building was the rendezvous of the gang of holdup men who killed Harry Bemish, a night watchman, in Brooklyn Tuesday night, detectives yesterday rounded up 14 men, said to be members of the "Diamond Gang," led by John T. (Legs) Diamond.

The prisoners were locked up at headquarters on a charge of homicide.

Most of the arrests took place in two offices of the Paramount Building, police say, as gang headquarters. The trail led there when four headquarters deetctives, aided by Detective James Fitzpatrick, spotted a half dozen men known to have police records and followed them into the building

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF STATE MOTOR BUS LAW ASSAILED

Question Raised in Suit to Halt Enforcement of Injunction in Boone County.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3. — Constitutionality of the State motor bus regulatory law is attacked in an application filed today in Supreme Court by the American Motor Stages Co., which seeks a writ of prohibition to restrain Circuit Judge Harris of Columbia from enforcing an injunction barring the company from operating busses through Boone County. This is the sixth legal action to have been instituted in Missouri courts in five days attacking the regulatory act.

Two appeals from rulings of the Public Service Commission have been taken to Cole County Circuit Court also. The Detroit-Chicago Bus Co. appealed denial of a permit to operate between St. Louis and Kansas City over Highway No. 40 and the Missouri-Pacific Railroad appealed from an order granting the Scofield Bus Lines permission to run busses between Birge Point and Poplar Bluff.

BILL WOULD CONVICT 'FENCE' BY TESTIMONY OF THE THIEF

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Conviction of a "fence," or receiver of stolen goods, would be possible upon the testimony of the person who stole and sold him the material under the provisions of a bill introduced in the Legislature today by the State Crime Commission.

Holding that the "fence" is a master mind of the criminal world, "if not the absolute dictator of crimes," the commission embodied in the measure a provision that the person who furnished the "fence" with the stolen goods shall not be deemed his accomplice and shall be free to furnish a jury with testimony.

Another bill introduced by the commission seeks to provide that a person who does not ascertain by reasonable inquiry that the person selling or delivering property to him has a legal right to do so shall be presumed to have purchased such property with the knowledge that it has been stolen.

Muskrat Skins Sell High.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The boy who used to sell his muskrat skins for 10 and 15 cents might be surprised to see skins no better than those he sold bringing as much as a dollar or two at the fur auction in New York.

Lesson No. 9

Question: Can rickets be prevented?

Answer: Yes, by assuring plenty of the rickets-preventing vitamin of cod-liver oil in the diet of mother and baby.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

contains all cod-liver oil vitamins in great abundance.

POLICEMAN WHO KILLED TWO IN HOLDUP TAKEN TO SANITARIUM

Sergt. Wm. Delaney of Hoboken Said to Be Deranged Over Fear of Gunmen's Friends.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Feb. 3. — Sergt. William Delaney of the Hoboken police department, who was decorated by his superiors and given $1400 by the Silk Association of America for frustrating the holdup of a silk truck last May, when he killed two gunmen, was taken to a private sanitarium in Stamford, Conn., yesterday, the prey of haunting fears of vengeance by the gunmen's friends. Police Inspector Kiely of Hoboken denied Delaney's mental derangement was more serious than a nervous breakdown.

Delaney's mind became more and more unsettled, according to his fellow-officers, since a week after the tragedy when he noticed a woman dressed in black patrolling the street in front of his house. On complaint of Delaney the woman was detained by police and questioned. She said she was Mrs. Peter Baurdius, widow of Peter Baurdius, one of the two men Delaney killed. She said she was curious to see the man who shot her husband, and that was her only purpose in watching Delaney's home.

Roy A. Young Confirmed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The nomination of Roy A. Young of Minneapolis to succeed Daniel R. Crissinger as Governor of the Federal Reserve Board was confirmed yesterday by the Senate. The nominations of Eugene Meyer Jr., George R. Cooksey and Floyd R. Harrison, to be members of the Federal Farm Loan Board, also were confirmed after three hours of debate.

YOUR ST. LOUIS

How Well Do You Know It?.

WHEELING CORRUGATING CO.

At 1006-8-10 Spruce Street is located the Wheeling Corrugating Company, a branch of the Wheeling, W. Va., manufacturer by that name. The St. Louis branch was established here in 1895, thirty-three years ago, just five years after the founding of the company.

The Wheeling Corrugating Company manufactures sheet metal and wire products for the home, farm and factory, and is numbered among the large industrial enterprises of America. Through its St. Louis branch, serving the retail merchant, hundreds of thousands of home-keepers throughout the middle-west are provided with fireproof building materials, metalware, such as pails, tubs, garbage and ash cans. To list the entire number of practical and essential articles of every day living which Wheeling manufactures would require much space. There are many more than a hundred of them, including ovens for kitchen ranges, woven wire fence for the farm, containers of steel for the shipper.

The Wheeling Corrugating Company of St. Louis has its own organization, including resident manager and assistants, warehouse employees and 20 salesmen.

Every day this space will be devoted to some one particular manufacturing plant or industry which is contributing to the dynamic growth of St. Louis.

DISPUTE SETTLED OVER PAPAL APPOINTMENTS

Czecho-Slovakia Gets Voice in Selections for Country's Catholic Hierarchy.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1928, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (The New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

ROME, Feb. 3.—Under a new agreement between the Holy See and Czecho-slovakia the Prague Government is to exercise some jurisdiction over the appointment of the Catholic hierarchy in that country.

The text of the agreement is published in the Osservatore Romano, the papal organ. It closes two years of difficulties arising from the Pope's recall of his nuncio, Msgr. Marmaggi, and scores a success for the Czecho-slovakian Government.

Pope Pius recalled Msgr. Marmaggi because he objected to members of the Prague Government attending the celebration of the anniversary of the martyrdom of John Huss, the Protestant pioneer. Besides, diplomatic etiquette demanded the nuncio's presence at these ceremonies as head of the diplomatic corps. In the future the nuncio will be excused from attendance at such ceremonies.

Gains More Points.

But Czecho-slovakia gains more substantial points. Henceforth the diocesan boundaries are to coincide with political boundaries, which will free Czecho-slovakian territory from German and Hungarian bishops.

Heads of religious houses, provincial superiors, army chaplains, bishops and archbishops will be nominated by the Pope, but the list will be sent to Prague for the approval of the Government. This safeguards the country from administration by foreign prelates. In addition the nominee before taking office must swear allegiance to the State.

For some time the Vatican opposed these conditions as derogatory to its prestige But when the Czech representatives convinced the Holy See that no agreement was possible on any other terms and failure to agree might cause dissension among Catholics, the Pope yielded.

Government Claims Victory.

The Czechs consider the agreement completes their religious as well as political independence. Foreign Minister Benes is claiming a victory because Czechs have always said that Hungarian and German prelates having parishes inside Czech territory carried on irridentist propaganda among Germans and Slovaks.

In a letter which the Osservatore prints with the text of the agreement Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, expresses the Pope's liveliest satisfaction" at the friendly spirit which animated the long negotiations.

J.S. COSDEN REPORTED TO HAVE RECOUPED FORTUNE IN OIL

Wall Street Leader Said to Have Organized New Company; Lost Wealth in 1920-21.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The New York Times declared Joshua S. Cosden, a leading figure in Wall Street and the oil industry, has recouped his fortunes and is reentering the oil business on an extensive scale. He is organizing a new company with the backing of Wall Street bankers to be known as Cosden & Co., with a capital of $5,000,000, the paper reported.

The control of his old company, now the Mid-Continent Petroleum Corp., says the Times, was wrested from him in the hectic markets of 1920-21. He sold his home on Long Island at which he entertained the Prince of Wales, and his villa at Palm Beach. The Times says that for the last year or so he has been successful in investments in oil properties in the Southwest.

HILL GARDENER TELLS OF SMOOTHING GRAVE

Son of Slain Woman Gave Him $2 for Work in Basement, Employe Says.

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Ill., Feb. 3.—Harry Hill, charged with killing his mother, Mrs. Eliza A. Hill, and burying her in the basement of their home, paid the family gardener $2 for smoothing the grave and relaying basement bricks, the gardener testified yesterday. His price was only 75 cents, he testified, but added that Hill gave him $2 and told him to return the following day and care for the lawn.

As he told his dramatic story, Peter Busch, the 73-year-old gardener, stilled the jammed courtroom, and then caused it to hear the cautions of bailiffs when they roared with laughter at his quaint expressions.

On the way to the Hill home, Busch asked Harry where his mother was, and Harry replied she had gone on a visit, the gardener testified. It was dark in the cellar and the old man's eyes could not find the pile of dirt and bricks. Harry lighted a lamp, Busch testified, and detailed the work to be done.

The extra dirt was to be carried into the alley and used to fill up holes, Busch said, and the grave was to be tapped down to a level with the brick. Nothing was to be dug up.

"Then I told Harry I understood all about it," said Busch, "and he took me home. I saw him again Friday and he asked me if the work was finished. I said, 'Yes, have you seen it?' Harry said he hadn't been back to the house."

"Didn't the State's Attorney or some of his men tell you you were accused of killing Mrs. Hill?" asked Defense Attorney Arthur Shay. "No! No! Dat's a lie, a lie!" cried Busch. "I know her many years. I didn't kill her!" he shouted.

Virtually the same story was related by Peter's wife, Mary. She refused to be confused by the questioning of defense counsel. The testimony of the pair climaxed two weeks of presentation of evidence by the prosecution.

Relentless cross-examination today failed to change the story of Busch. The defendant leaned languidly back in his chair during Busch's examination.

FINDS 1928 BUSINESS REVIVAL SLOW, BUT CONDITIONS SOUND

Although the industrial revival heralded for early this year still is "a matter of hope," industrial and financial conditions are sound and the outlook for the year is satisfactory, W. F. Gephart, vice president of the First National Bank, told the American Association of Wholesale Hatters in convention at the Missouri Athletic Association yesterday.

Prices of industrial commodities have been on the decline since 1923, he said, due to improved manufacturing methods and the increase of production capacity over consuming power. Producers, therefore, have been forced to cut prices and accept lower profits, he asserted.

"The price of farm products," he added, "has shown an improving tendency. With the tendency to decrease the price of other commodities, this brings about a better relationship between agricultural and other prices."

MORE AUTO DEATHS IN 1927

Increase of 1500 Over 23,500 Total for Preceding Year.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Automobile fatalities in the United States last year increased more than 1500 over 1926, the National Safety Council estimates from partial reports of cities and states. In 1926 deaths charged to automobiles aggregated 23,500.

Of the nation's eight leading cities four, Philadelphia, Cleveland, St. Louis and Boston reported fewer deaths. Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles show increases. New York is not mentioned in the incompleted survey. Massachusetts again reports a reduction from the 1926 figure.

Gift to New York Cathedral Conditioned on Raising $415,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—A conditional gift of $900,000 for the construction of one of the two towers on the west front of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, is announced by Bishop Manning.

The gift was made by a person who did not wish his name made public at present, the Bishop said. It was conditional on obtaining the balance needed for the other tower. Six pledges which totaled $485,000 had been made for the second tower, he said, and $415,000 more was needed.

AL BARNES BITTEN BY ZEBRA

Circus Man Severely Lacerated After Being Dragged.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—Al G. Barnes, noted circus man, was confined to a hospital here today following an attack upon him by a zebra.

Barnes was leading the animal about the winter show quarters yesterday when it became frightened and ran, dragging Barnes for some distance. In his struggles to regain control, he was severely bitten and lacerated on the head and shoulders by the zebra.

BLAINE RIDICULES HAVANA SPEECH OF PRESIDENT

Likens Administration's Latin-American Policy to 'a Craft Without a Rudder and Without a Captain.'

SAYS U. S. IS AT WAR WITH NICARAGUA

Declares Coolidge Talks of Self-Rule for Small Nations and Then Uses Force to Violate It.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—President Colidge's speech at Havana was the subject of ironic comment yesterday by Senator John J. Blaine (Ind. Rep.) of Wisconsin, in the course of a speech severly condemning the use of the Marines in Nicaragua and the whole Latin American policy or lack of policy, of the administration.

Replying to a suggestion that Senators ought to "stand by the President" in the Nicaraguan affair, Blaine said he would know better what to do if he could determine just where the President stood with relation to Central and South America.

"I have observed," he said, "that the administration on this question is very much at sea. It is a craft without a rudder and without a captain."

Says Coolidge Has No Policy.

Blaine declared that in the address opening the Pan-American conference the President had signally failed to give even a suggestion of a definite policy. Probing into the speech, Blaine brought forth what he said was "a few choice, sweet morsels." One of these was the President's assertion that the United States was animated by a desire to adjust differences not by force, but by application of the principles of justice and equity.

"So said the President at Havana," commented Blaine. "So said the President with Haiti and Santo Domingo in the background, and at the moment when without the consent of Congress, he was maintaining an army in the field (in Nicaragua) to crush a nation with which we are not a war."

Blaine quoted an administration apologist who had said that although the President would not have been authorized under the Constitution to send an army to Nicaragua, he was within his powers in sending the Marines.

"Wherein," asked Blaine, "is the distinction? Here were war vessels carrying all the implements necessary for war. Upon those vessels were men in the panoply of war. They were put upon the shores of a small, defenseless, disordered country, with field guns, machine guns and airplanes, and then it is said that this is not an act of war.

"I can see no distinction between armed forces, whether those forces be the army, the militia, the navy or the marines."

Cubas Has Not Her Sovereignty.

As another "sweet morsel" from Coolidge's spech, Blaine recited the portion in which the President declared Cuba to be her own sovereign and her people to be "free, prosperous, peaceful and enjoying the advantages of self government."

With special emphasis, the Wisconsin Senator took issue with the President on that point.

"Independence," he mocked. "Independence under a Platt amendment, free—the United States reserves the right to intervene for the preservation of her so-called freedom. Peaceful she has to be, or the United States Marines will step in as they have stepped in before. Cuba has not her sovereignty. It is denied to her, though she has made efforts to withdraw from the guardianship of the United States."

Blaine brought forth another of the "beautifully-spun phrases of the President" and held it up to scorn. This was the President's affirmation of the principle that the people "are better fitted to govern themselves than any one else is to govern them."

"What are the facts?" Blaine commented. "We relied on their intelligence to such a degree that we did not allow them to choose between two colored slips at the time the Haitian Constitution was adopted, but had the Marines hand them a slip of the proper color. Yes, we believe that they are fitted to govern themselves, but Haiti has not had a congressional election since the adoption of that constitution, a constitution written by the representatives of the armed forces of the United States and jammed down the throats of the people of Haiti at the point of a gun.

U. S. Imposes Force on Weak.

"The President said that it was better for the people to make their own mistakes than to have some one else make them for them. He said this in the face of what we were doing in Nicaragua.

"The President said that we had set a high example for the world in resolving international differences without resort to force.

"What has been the example? It has not been a history of arbitration. In the last quarter of a century the example of America—not of the people but of those who have represented America temporarily—has been a history of force imposed on small and weak nations unable to defend themselves.

"During the last 20 or 25 years, some 10 or 12 out of 20 republics to the south of us have had the hand of force placed upon their ambitions, their governments, their sovereignty, by those who were the temporary rulers of the United States.

"I say it is not the voice of America which has spoken, but the voice of those who have taken the position that commerce is more precious than liberty."

ESCAPED CONVICT BACK AFTER 23 YEARS TO EASE CONSCIENCE

HUNTVILLE, Tex., Feb. 3.—The notation, "gone 23 years, six months and eight days," appears on the commitment papers of Bert Creed, who has returned voluntarily to the State penitentiary from which he escaped almost a quarter of a century ago.

Creed was sentenced in 1903 to serve six years in prison for stealing a horse. He escaped after six months, and roamed over the United States, Canada and Mexico until a troubled conscience caused him to appear at the Sheriff's office at Longview, Tex., and surrender.

"I was always on the dodge and never had any peace of mind," he explained. "I want it over with now." Creed is 45 years old.

GEN. PETAIN'S RESCUER SENT BACK TO PRISON

W. L. Cunningham, Wearer of Two War Medals, Impersonated Federal Officer.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—William L. Cunningham, 48 years old, tall and military-looking, but gray, wearer of a Distinguished Service Cross and Croix de Guerre, was sent back to prison today to do three more years for impersonating a Government officer.

Cunningham, who gave his address as New York, was excoriated by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley for failing to be a "good sportsman," for not living up to the "rules of the game of life," and for setting a bad example for the younger generation.

The Illinois American Legion sent an attorney to plead for Cunningham. He presented a citation showing unningham got the D. S. C. for bringing down a German airplane which was about to bomb a French village in which American troops were quartered. At that time Cunningham was an American pilot with the Royal Air Corps Gen. Pershing credited Cunningham in the citation with having captured 10 Germans single-handed while commanding a relief force.

Cunningham got the French decoration for saving the life of Gen. Petain. According to the citation he carried the "defender of Verdun" into a shell hole just before a bomb exploded and killed 60 soldiers at the village of Boureville, Oct. 14, 1918.

On the other hand, in addition to the sentence of three years today, along with a $1000 fine, Cunningham's escutcheon bears these black marks: Six years of an eight-year term upon court martial conviction for stealing camp supplies, a conviction for forgery and an allegation of trying to escape from prison.

MOSBY URGES INDIVIDUAL PUNISHMENT FOR CRIME

State Commissioner of Pardons and Paroles at City Club Luncheon.

A rigidly supervised system of indeterminate sentences and paroles, based on individual treatment of criminals, is the only immediate remedy for Missouri's crime problem, said Thomas Speed Mosby, State Commissioner of Pardons and Paroles, in an address at the City Club today.

"You can't go on forever invoking the legislative panacea," he said. "Punishment must fit the man, not the crime. Criticism of paroles has been due to the administration, not to the system. In Missouri, as elsewhere in the United States, we have been too prone to rely too greatly upon mere severity of punishment, rather than upon certainty of detection."

He proposed the State take a hand in the social rehabilitation of criminals after they have left prison to prevent them from returning to crime.

JAIL FOR YOUTH, 18, IF HE DRIVES BEFORE 21ST BIRTHDAY

Herman O. Schulze Gets Stay, Two Others 30 Days for Being Drunk at Wheel.

Herman O. Schulze, 18 years old, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $100 today on charges of driving while intoxicated, the sentence and fine to be stayed on his promise not to drive an automobile until his twenty-first birthday.

Walter S. Rudolph of 510 North Whittier street, and George Lanham of 1113 Armstrong avenue, each were sentenced to 30 days and fined $100 on the same charge. George N. Frazier of 5901 Etzel avenue, was fined $100 when he pleaded guilty of driving while intoxicated. John Holt of 4416 Beck avenue, was fined $100 for reckless driving.

LUDWIG GUTMANN DIES AT 67

Inventor and Author of Electrical Engineer Textbooks.

Ludwig Gutmann, retired inventor and writer of textbooks on electrical engineering, died this morning of heart disease at his home, 4344 Forest Park boulevard. He was 67 years old.

Mr. Gutmann was born in Hamburg, Germany, and came to St. Louis in 1904 after he had been in this country about 15 years. He was formerly connected with the Wagner Electric Corp. He is survived by his widow and two brothers, Bernard Gutmann of Norwalk, Conn., and Hellmuth Gutmann of South Orange, N. J. Funeral services will be held Monday at Rockford, Ill.

BIDS UP MARCH 15 FOR LIGHTS

Will Cover Cost of Installing $1,250,000 Downtown System.

Bids will be received on March 13 by the Board of Public Service for installation of the $1,250,000 electric street lighting system in the district between Chouteau and Cass avenues and the Mississippi River and Jefferson avenue.

The ordinance for the improvement has been adopted.

Policeman and Motorist Fined.

After Dr. William H. Pauley, 5261 Paulian place, and Patrolman Williams of Wyoming Street Station each had been fined $5 on cross charges of careless driving and the fines stayed today, Dr. Pauley filed notice of appeal. Williams arrested him Jan. 24, after Dr. Pauley had pulled from the curb without signaling, causing his machine to collide with that of Williams, the policeman testified.

ROBBERS GET 30 QUARTS OF WHISKY FROM STORE

$155 in Cash and $1000 in Checks Also Taken From Ratz Hardware Co.

Robbers forced their way into the Ratz Hardware and Contractors' Supply Company, of 3229 Cass avenue, early today, and stole $155 in cash, checks amounting to more than $1000 and 31 bottles of pre-Volstead whisky.

Edward Ratz, the proprietor, told police his losses, including the whisky, were covered by insurance. He said the liquor supply consisted of 30 bottles of pre-Volstead Canadian Club and one bottle of the now rare Hill & Hill.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Weakness

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

Stomach Troubles Headache and Dizziness

If your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food, you lose strength and "pep," get thin and nervous and feel as tired when you get up as when you went to bed.

For 10 years Tanlac has improved the health and activity of many thousands who suffered just as you do.

Mrs. Edna F. Sawyers, of 1229 Fourth Ave., Huntington, W. Va., says: "I was seriously troubled with gastritis, constipation and terrific headaches. After two bottles of Tanlac I was eating everything and gastritis hasn't troubled me again."

Why not let Tanlac do for you what it did for this sufferer and for thousands of others? It is marvelous to see how it relieves the most obstinate digestive troubles—relieves gas, pains in the stomach and bowels. How it restores appetite, vigor and sound sleep.

Tanlac is made of roots, barks and herbs—nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

FASCISTS APPROVE BILL MAKING ITALY ONE-PARTY NATION

Council Indorses Measure by Which Only One Ticket Will Be Put in Electoral Field.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 3.—A bill abolishing universal suffrage in Italy and bestowing the right to vote only upon those who contribute to the progress of the nation was approved today by the Grand Council of the Fascist party. The project makes Italy a one-party nation.

Premier Mussolini took a leading part in the debate which preceded adoption of the plan and presided at the council meeting.

The Grand Council of the Fascist party last November ordered the Minister of Justice to draft a law which would effect a revolutionary change in the Government of Italy.

The project proclaimed that only one party exisits in Italy, namely Facism, and therefore there will be but one electoral ticket. The conception of the right of franchise as outlined at that time was that it was a privilege to be won by public service; the would-be voter must first prove that he was worthy to take a share in shaping the nation's destiny. The Council proposed:

To unify the country's economic forces into 13 great guilds of producers and workers.

To form the entire territory of the nation into a single electoral college.

To grant the right to vote only to those who on the basis of their syndicalist contributions showed themselves to be active elements in the life of the nation and those who are useful to the nation collectively.

To reduce the number of deputies from 560 to 400.

FIRM SUED IN BANKRUPTCY; PROGRESS OF CITY BLAMED

Kieffer Drug Co.'s Losses Laid to Widening of Franklin Ave. and New Union Market.

Civic improvements failed to improve the business of the Keiffer Drug Co., against which an involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed by three creditors yesterday.

For 70 years the northwest corner of Franklin avenue and Broadway was occupied by a drug store, the Keiffer Co. being there for the last 10 years. Then the old Union Market, a block south, was razed and replaced with a modern building and patronage of old-fashioned customers dropped off at both the market and the drug store.

Next, Franklin avenue was widened, leaving only 20 feet of the drug store. Lawrence McDaniel, attorney for the company, said this necessitated a move to the present quarters at 610 North Broadway, and business again dropped off. However, McDaniel says, the company is not insolvent and might weather the storm if no more civic improvements came along.

A petition alleging the firm is insolvent and has committed acts of bankruptcy by paying preferred creditors was filed by Allan & Co., S. Pfeiffer Co. and Charles E. Lane Co. the claims of which total $1130.

PROHIBITION PARTY CONVENTION

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The National Committee of the Prohibition party has issued a formal call for the party's national convention at Chicago July 10. Candidates for President and Vice President will be selected and a platform drafted by 1537 delegates, D. Leigh Colvin, national chairman, announced.

"The Prohibition party," he said, "extends an invitation to all good citizens who wish to bring about a new alignment and union in a party unitedly and patriotically devoted to the strengthening and enforcement of the prohibition laws. We invite them to aid in the construction of a forward-looking platform which shall not only exalt our constitutional principle of prohibition, but which shall promulgate the much-needed reform in our criminal law and its administration."

MOVIE CENSORSHIP IN CHILE

Minors Not Permitted to See Crime or Love Pictures.

By the Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 3.—The Minister of Interior has decreed motion picture censorship. Minors under 15 may see only movies of legends, historical voyages and comedies. They must not be permitted to view films portraying crimes or love scenes.

At the same time, the importation and showing of films which might cause ridicule or outrage against the authorities or against persons, or offend national pride and patriotism at home or abroad, or offend the morals or customs of foreign countries or religions was barred. Films aiming to point a moral by showing immoral acts or which might incite crime also were banned.

INSTANT SWANS DOWN

Home made cake . .

from package to oven in 5 minutes with Instant Swans Down

Instant Swans Down contains the finest cake ingredients—the famous Swans Down Flour, and highest quality shortening, egg whites, baking powder, sugar, and flavoring extract. These are perfectly measured and mixed in a "dry batter."

Just add milk {or water} beat—and the batter is ready for the oven. Only 5 minutes! And what marvelous results! Perfectly delicious cake. Soft. White. Tender and delicate in texture. And, best of all, baked by you—your cake! By varying the icing—or by adding different ingredients to Instant Swans Down—you can make almost any kind of cake!

THERE ARE TWO FORMS OF SWANS DOWN

Instant Swans Down is one. Swans Down Cake Flour is the other. Swans Down Cake Flour is the flour alone. You add and mix the other cake ingredients yourself.

But what a difference this cake flour makes in cake! Swans Down is 27 times as fine as bread flour. Of the flour made from 100 pounds of selected wheat, only 26 pounds are good enough for Swans Down. That means lighter cake, finer cake — cake that is tender and delectable! Always!

J. C. PENNEY CO. PLANS $2,500,000 WAREHOUSE HERE

Structure, at 14th and Poplar Streets, Will Be Distributing Center for 31 States.

FROM 300 TO 400 WILL BE EMPLOYED

Central Location of St. Louis and River Traffic Attracted Chain Store, President Says.

A warehouse of the J. C. Penney Co., a retail chain store organization, which last year did $151,954,621 of business, will be built on the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Poplar streets. The estimate of the cost has been figured at $2,500,000. Establishment of the warehouse here will make St. Louis the chief distributing point for 800 of the company's stores in 31 states.

Announcement of the selection of St. Louis over several other cities as the location of the warehouse was made last night at a dinner of the Industrial Club at Congress Hotel. The building will be 12 or 13 stories high and will contain approximately 826,000 square feet of floor space. Between 300 and 400 men and women will be employed.

Why St. Louis Was Chosen.

Glen G. White, president of the Penney Building Corporation, a subsidiary of the Penney company, who was guest of honor at the dinner, said one of the factors which caused the firm to choose St. Louis as its Middle West distributing center, is the projected development of inland waterways transportation. The central location of the city and its proximity to the textile markets of the South also were elements considered, White said.

Frank C. Rand, president of the Industrial Club, said the Penney Company, which soon will have in operation 1000 stores in 44 states, last year bought $14,500,000 of merchandise from manufatcurers of the St. Louis district. After the warehouse is in operation here this figure doubtlessly will be greatly exceeded, he said.

Financing of Building.

Erection of the building will be financed by a bond issue, arrangements for which will be made with some St. Louis financial institution, it is planned. Title to the building will be in the name of the Penney Building Corporation, which will lease the warehouse to the merchandising organization.

Announcement that the warehouse will be located here came after former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton had told the club of the advantages that will accrue to St. Louis industry generally, along with execution of plans for more general development of the inland waterways.

REINALD WERRENRATH AND VERNA NEIDIG MARRIED

Baritone and Bride on Honeymoon After Wedding in Office of Mayor of Weehawken, N. J.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Reinald Werrenrath, noted baritone, and his bride, the former Verna True Neidig were on their honeymoon today after a quiet marriage in Weehawken, N. J.

They were married by Mayor Emile Grauert with Werrenrath's mother and a brother of the bride as the only witnesses. Mayor Grauert, when asked concerning the ceremony, said he understood it was to have been kept secret.

Werrenrath's first wife was Ada Peterson of Hudson, S. D. They were divorced in Reno last year. Although no allowance for alimony was made by the Court, it was understood he had promised to pay $15,000 a year for the support of their three children.

Miss Neidig gave her age to the Weehawken Mayor as 24 and her birthplace as Iowa. Werrenrath gave his age as 39. The bride's twin sister is Mrs. Thomas R. Shipp of Washington.

$50 FINE INCREASED TO $300

Ironworker Knocked Out Woman's Teeth, She Testifies.

James E. Shaw, an ironworker of 1315A Warren street, was fined $50 in Police Court recently on a peace disturbance charge, and appealed his case. After Judge Gayer heard the testimony yesterday he asked Shaw why he had not paid the fine. "I didn't have it then," Shaw said. "Well, you will have to produce $300 now," the Judge replied.

Shaws fine was raised after Miss Lilah Gable of 2126A Benton avenue had testified he struck her four times, dislodging several teeth and knocking her to the street, when she refused to go out with him.

Cosgrave Gets Coolidge's Picture.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—An autographed photograph of President Coolidge was presented to William T. Cosgrave, head of the Irish Free State, last night. The photograph was in a silver frame and the presentation was made by Ray Mullins, of the State Department, who brought it from Washington.

MARTINSBURG INDIAN FIGHTER DIES IN ARKANSAS HOSPITAL

MARTINSBURG, Mo.—Clarence C. Chrisman, the only surviving Indian fighter in Audrian County, died at the Army and Navy Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., Tuesday. Born at Bloomington, Ill., he moved with his parents to Martinsburg when quite young. He enlisted in 1882, serving five years in New Mexico and Arizona.

More than half of his first enlistment was spent in the campaign against the Apache chief, Geronimo. From September, 1885, to September, 1886, he marched with his company 1000 miles across scorching sandy plains and snow-covered mountains.

After leaving the army, he became secretary of the Bryant & Stratton Business College in St. Louis. He composed and published songs and instrumental music and invented several improvements on the bicycle.

In 1903, after serving at Bryant & Stratton for 10 years, he established a similar college of his own, under the name of the Columbia Commercial College. In 1910 he consolidated this college and four others in St. Louis, organizing the New St. Louis Business College, which had an enrollment of 1200 students.

He originated a touch system of typewriting at this time. After teaching in St. Louis for 25 years, he sold his interests in 1916 and returned to Martinsburg.

He had several inventions patented and marketed while living here. Last year he wrote and had published several war stories. About two weeks ago he went to the Army and Navy Hospital at Hot Springs for treatment. His body will be brought here and given military burial by the American Legion Post.

LIVES SIX DAYS WITH BULLET IN HIS BRAIN

Negro's Injury Was Diagnosed as Skull Fracture; Says He Was Held Up.

Herbert Johnson, Negro janitor, found Jan. 27 in an alley in the rear of 49 Kingsbury place, was taken to City Hospital No. 2, where physicians said he was suffering from a probable skull fracture and scalp lacerations. Last night when his condition grew worse an operation was performed, disclosing a bullet in his brain. He died within half an hour.

Johnson, who was 47 years old and lived at 4309 Enright avenue, had told police he was attacked by a white man who held him up and became angry because Johnson had no money. Later Johnson told his wife he had been in "a little game." He named a man who he said "knows all about it."

For Health Inspection in Schools.

Safeguarding of public health must begin in the public schools, D. H. G. Mundt, president of the Illinois State Medical Society, said last night before the St. Clair County Medical Society in East St. Louis. He cited a survey of 13 Missouri towns, in which it was shown that 6000 school children had missed 37,000 days of school because of illnesses that could have been prevented through adequote hygienic inspections. He urged the presence of an inspecting doctor in all public schools.

ABOLITION OF CHURCH COMPETITION URGED

Final Report Emanating from Lausanne Conference Made by Committee.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Elimination of needless overlapping and competition among churches in the interests of Christian unity is recommended in the final report emanating from the World Conference on Faith and Order held at Lausanne, Switzerland, last August. The report was made public today by a committee headed by Bishop Charles H. Brent of Buffalo.

More effective co-operation among denominations in the foreign mission field, and the willingness of all Christians to join "without regard to denominational differences" in the celebration of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, also are set forth as essentials of church unity.

"Unity of church implies unity of faith," the report states, "but it does not mean uniformity. There must be space for divers type of expression so that nothing of the rich variety which marks Christian experience will be lost and liberty of interpretation within the limits of the accepted faith will be preserved."

The report was compiled by a committee after the conference at Lausanne had found itself unable to agree on its ultimate form. It now will be sent to the national church bodies in all participating countries "for such consideration as they may desire to give it."

No One Method Recommended.

The report recommends no single method of union, but suggests that a council of churches might be evolved from organizations already existing. It welcomes movements already under way for union of religious bodies of similar doctrine.

"Experience has shown that it is possible for widely separated bodies to co-operate in movements toward union, without surrender of principle and with mutual profit," the report states. "Especially we commend to the churches the consideration of what steps can be taken to eliminate needless overlapping and competition in the local community, that in ways consistent with the genius of the several communions, our existing unity in Christ may be manifest to the world."

A "recent increase in co-operation in the mission field" is referred to, and it is declared mission workers would be more effective, if the churches at home granted them greater freedom of action. "Their hopes of union should not be frustrated by long-continued acquiescence in disunion at home, which makes it difficult to recognize how fatal disunion is in the new churches afield," the report states.

Common Prayer Sugested.

It is suggested that a common prayer be sent out in the name of the conference to be used "at a convenient time" by all Christian churches.

A subcommittee which actually drafted the report included the Reverends Peter Ainslie, Robert A. Ashworth, Henry Atkinson, Robert Bagnell, S. Parkes Cadman, Clarence A. Barbour, William Adams Brown, T. Albert Moore, M. G. G. Scherer and J. Ross Stevenson, Archbishop Alexander, Bishop James Cannon Jr., Bishop Francis J. McConnell, the Right Rev. James Dewolfe Perry, Judge Alexis de Boer, Prof. James A. James, Prof. Edmund D. Soper, George Zabriskie and Ralph W. Brown.

BASEBALL UMPIRE NOW CALLS HIGH OR LOW ON BATHING SUITS

Connie Lewis Enforces Rules of Modesty at Palm Beach Club.

By the Associated Press.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3.—The average two-piece bathing suit adorning a pretty girl, sufficiently modest to pass the regulations of virtually every resort in America, would never pass the rigid restrictions of the fashionable Breakers Casino in Palm Beach.

For the costume of every fair bather appearing on the beach passes under the eagle eye of Connie Lewis, veteran baseball umpire, who for many winters has called the high and low on bathing suits here. Heiresses and women whose names are imprinted in the social register are under his censorship.

Briefly, women must wear two-piece bathing suits. Low cut necks are barred and the skirts must be reasonably long, which means they usually cover the suit trunks. Stockings must meet the bottom of the suit. No "rolling 'em" is permitted.

When Ziegfeld's Follies came heer last season it was hard to convince them that the rules were meant for them. Not so long ago, the wife of a German dramatist appeared in a limited edition of a jersey white suit. Someone picked her up and she was neatly dropped at the Casino entrance.

John W. Lutton Funeral.

Funeral services for John W. Lutton, 77 years old, pear orchardist of East Carondelet, who died Tuesday night from cerebral apoplexy, was held today from the family residence, with burial in the Palmer Cemetery, Columbia, Ill. He was born in Indiana. His widow and two sons, John Lutton of Baldwin Park, Cal., and Louis Lutton of East Carondelet, survive him.

ONLY FOUR GROUNDHOG CLUB MEMBERS AT ANNUAL MEETING

Survivors of Group Organized 35 Years Ago: Late "Jack" Kearney Was a Leader.

The Groundhog Club sees winter coming, for only four members were left to maintain its traditional meeting, the thirty-fifth at the home of James H. McCabe, 5611 Bartmer avenue, last night.

The talk turned to the loss by death of John W. Kearney, who had served the unique group as toastmaster for many years. Mr. Kearney, known to thousands of St. Louisans as "Jack" Kearney, old-time newspaper man and publicity director of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, died Dec. 22 last.

Three men sharing a bottle of wine in Emil Bessehl's cafe on Feb. 2, 1893, discovered that it was the birthday of all three. From that incident the club was formed. It once had 20 members. Ernest Lucas, Joseph Lindenschmidt and Louis Idler, dining with McCabe last night, received a telegram from a fifth member, E. C. Miller of California, and another from the son of a member dead 24 years, signed "Will Burgfeld's Son."

COMPOSER FAVORS ABOLISHING ORCHESTRAS IN PICTURE SHOWS

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. — Sir Thomas Beecham, noted English composer and conductor, favors the abolition of motion picture theater orchestras.

"I think it is simply barbarous to have to sit through two or three hours of uninterrupted music while watching a moving picture show," he said. "These orchestras apparently have no idea of what they are doing. They will break off in the middle of a fortissimo and turn to 'Dixie' for instance. The music rarely has anything to do with the picture, and who wants to listen to music all the time anyhow?"

American orchestras in general were warmly praised by Sir Thomas, who said they were the best in the world, and that American audiences seemed appreciative.

REED BLOCKS RECOUNT OF VARE-WILSON VOTES

Slush Fund Committee Chairman Dissatisfied With Method of Handling Contest.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — Dissatisfaction with the manner in which the Senate Elections Committee is handling the contest of William B. Wilson, unsuccessful Democratic opponent of Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, has led Senator Reed of Missouri, to prevent the committee from counting disputed ballots.

As chairman of the special Slush Fund Committe, Senator Reed, has directed Davis S. Barry, Senator Sergeant-at-Arms, not to surrender ballot boxes in his custody to the elections sub-committee of which Senator Waterman (Rep.), Colorado, is chairman. Waterman's committee had decided to begin the ballot recount next Monday but after a conference late yesterday with the chairman, Senator Reed issued his instructions to Barry.

He reminded the Sergeant-at-Arms that the ballot boxes he holds were brought here from Philadelphia and Allegheny counties under authority giving them to the Slush Fund Committee and that the Reed investigators have first call upon them.

Whether the committee differences can be smoothed over or will be submitted to the Senate itself awaits settlement in the future. Senator Reed has been displeased with the Election Committee's conduct of the case for some time and only recently threatened to ask the Senate to override the committee when the latter dismissed Wilson's contest petition. The committee quickly reversed itself, however, when Wilson filed a new petition giving particulars of conspiracy charges which had been requested.

The new petition charged Vare and his managers in six counties with conspiracy to defeat him and the ballot recounting was to have been made in investigation of those charges.

Then they discovered Muffets!

Just think—it was only a few months ago that most people didn't know what they wanted for breakfast. Millions know now. They've discovered Muffets!

Have you? If not, tune your appetite to this picture! Whole wheat, cooked, drawn to a filmy-thin ribbon. Wound round and round to muffin shape and size. Baked. Toasted butternut brown. Light as a crumpet! Crisp as potato chips.

Eat one for breakfast, with cream and sugar. Or add fruit. Vitamins, calories, bran. Easy digestibility. But it's the downright good eating in Muffets that's put them on millions of breakfast tables—to stay!

TWO CHILDREN SCALDED

Pan of Hot Water Upset on 14-Months-Old Girl.

Two children were seriously scalded at their homes last evening. Evelyn, 14-months-old daughter of Jack Byrd, 1820 Wash street, was injured upon the legs and back at 9:45, when a child playing with her pulled a pan of hot water off the stove.

At 7 o'clock, Ernesto, 14-months-old son of Henry Valasco, 1234 North Fourteenth street, fell into a pail of hot water, and was scalded about the body. Both children were taken to City Hospital.

SUSPECT FIGHTS POLICEMEN IN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE

Vito Giammario Said to Have Tossed Revolver Away as Officers Approached.

Police arrested Vito Giammario in an automobile at Twentieth and O'Fallon streets yesterday and reported he tossed a revolver from the car and tried to escape. The police lacerated his scalp in subduing him.

Giammario, according to the police, was identified as a man who passed three worthless checks for $85 on merchants. Police said he recently served a term in the workhouse for passing bad checks, and now is under bond in a manslaughter case, an automobile which he owned, and in which he was riding, having killed a man.

EIGHT MEN DROWNED WHEN BARGES GO DOWN

Two Vessels Break Adrift From Tug Off Barnegat, N. J., During Storm.

By the Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 3.—The barges Catonsville and Arkansas, out of Norfolk for New York sank Sunday night off Barnegat Light and carried to their death all eight men aboard them, the tug Baldrock, which had them in tow, has informed Eastern Transportation Co. officials here.

The barges broke from the Baldrock and foundered, while men on the tug were helpless during the gale to render aid.

H. E. Twilley was in command of the Catonsville and Isa Parker was master of the Arkansas. The names of the six other seamen lost are not known here.

A third barge, the Nahant, also being towed by the Baldrock, escaped disaster and was towed into New York by the tug which then went back to Barnegat to warn shipping of the barges, sunk with their superstructure visible above the water.

NEW YORK TO ESTABLISH AIRPORT ON BARREN ISLAND

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Long promised "immediate action" toward a municipal airport for New York City was taken yesterday when the board of estimate unanimously adopted a motion by Mayor Walker for selection of Barren Island as a site and directed Comptroller Berry to set aside $500,000 for development work. The land is city-owned, which was the deciding factor in the choice.

Mayor Walker said he conceded that the Juniper Valley site in Queens was very desirable, but would cost ten times as much as the Barren Island airport. He said the city did not have the necessary funds to buy the Queens site and develop it into an airport.

It was said at the meeting that only 300 of the 800 acres available on Barren Island will be needed for the city's air terminal. The island is in the Mill basin portion of Jamaica Bay and is optimistically described as "only 25 minutes from the heart of New York City." Persons familiar with the district say that 45 minutes to an hour is much nearer the truth.

On East Island the city owns 1100 acres of land, Mayor Walker told the board of estimate, but it is visible only at low tide.

Gives Community Schools $250.

Nathan Frank has given the Community Music Schools Foundation $250 which will be used to purchase instruments for children with talent who are not able to buy theirs through the usual channels. The Foundation will buy used instruments in good condition and sell them to the children giving them opportunity to pay for them over a period of time. As the payments are made more instruments will be purchased.

MISSOURIAN HAS WORKED IN GENERAL STORE 59 YEARS

SHAMROCK, Mo., Feb. 3.—J. S. Lail of Shamrock has spent 59 years in the same place of business.

Several years after the Civil War he became a clerk for J. W. Arnold, in a cross-roads general store. In 1882 he purchased the half interest his father held in the store, becoming Arnold's partner.

They erected a new building in 1901, with a hall above for lodge meetings and social events. In 1919 Lail became sole owner for several years now his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong, have been associated with him.

TROOPS IN COAL STRIKE ZONE COST COLORADO $100,000

State Has Spent About $20,000 Also in Patrolling Fields With Police.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 3.—Keeping troops in the coal strike zone, to maintain peace there, has cost Colorado $100,000 in four months. Besides, the State has spent about $20,000 for patrolling the coal fields with State police.

Troops were sent to Weld and Boulder counties last October when several miners were killed in a clash with State police at the Columbine Mine, one of the largest coal mining properties in Colorado. About 350 men and more than 50 officers comprised the original body.

This number has been reduced gradually until now only about 125 men and less than a dozen officers remain on duty in the sector where Gov. William H. Adams declared a "state of insurrection" existed.

ADMIRAL SAYS HE WAS TOLD OF PLAN TO END NAVAL PACT

Hilary P. Jones Testifies He "Gathered Impression" That Effort Would Be Made in 1936.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, told the House Naval Committee today that at the preliminary naval arms conference at Geneva in 1926 he had "gathered the general impressions" that an effort would be made to terminate the Washington naval arms agreement in 1936.

Under questioning by Representative Britten (Rep.), Illinois, Jones, a member of the American delegation to the unsuccessful Geneva parley last summer, said he would not state positively that any such move was contemplated, but his opinion was based on impressions gathered.

"By whom will such action be taken?" asked Britten.

"By certain signatory nations to the Washington treaty," replied the Admiral.

FATHER AND FOUR CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH IN HOME

Mother, With Baby in Her Arms, Leaps From Window at Lake Minnetonka.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 3.—Leon Wiley and four of his children were burned to death last night and his wife and their fifth child narrowly escaped when fire destroyed their cottage at Lake Minnetonka. The children's ages ranged from 6 to 12 years.

Screams of Wiley awakened his wife in another room. After being severely burned, Mrs. Wiley, with the baby in her arms, leaped from a window. Her condition was reported today to be very serious.

The cause of the fire has not been determined.

WROTE OWN FUNERAL NOTICE

Retired Minister Also Prepared Address for Service.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON COURTHOUSE, O., Feb. 3.—The Rev. J. M. McKay, 71 years old, retired minister, who died last night, prepared his own funeral notice for the newspapers and wrote a funeral address to be delivered at his funeral. The funeral notice found by the undertaker today read:

"Funeral services of J. M. McKay will be held at the Church of Christ at (time and date to be filled by undertaker). Rev. H. M. Snyder of Jamestown will be the minister in charge. Mr. McKay has prepared his funeral address and an obituary. This the minister will read, followed by whatever he may wish to say. Interment will be in the cemetery at Sabina."

WOULD INCORPORATE SUBURB

Pine Lawn Meeting Draws Up Resolution in Favor of Charter.

Resolutions favoring the incorporation of Pine Lawn as a third-class city were adopted last night at a meeting of 75 residents of the community. The population of Pine Lawn is about 6000.

O. B. Barron was named chairman of an organization to further plans for incorporation. Mayor W. H. Tiffin, Ferguson, and Attorney Thomas Cannon addressed the meeting on the advantages of incorporation.

JAPAN TO MARK REAL PEARLS

Government Stamp Adopted to Curb Dealers in Imitations.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Feb. 3.—Dishonest pearl dealers and jewelers in Japan are to be put out of business if the Government can accomplish it. The Department of Commerce, at the request of legitimate dealers, intends to stamp all genuine jewels with the words "guaranteed by the Government."

Numerous foreigners touring in Japan have been the victims of unscrupulous jewelers, paying exorbitant prices for imitation pearls. The unscrupulous dealers are principally in Tokio, Yokohama, Osaka and Kobe.

$40,000,000 FOR HIGHWAYS

Mexican Official Submits Proposal of U. S. Capitalists.

By the Associated Press.

NOGALES, Ariz., Feb. 3.—A Mexico City dispatch to the Herald today said that Octavio Dubois, chairman of the National Highway Commission of Mexico, had submitted to President Calles an offer by American interests to advance from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 for highway work in the Southern republic. The amount would be repaid with interest in payments spread over a period of years.

The names of the American interests making the offer was not disclosed.

HEARING ON DAM FEB. 20

Power Company Seeks Extension of Its Linn Creek Certificate.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3.—A hearing on the recent application of the Missouri Hydro-Electric Power Co. for an extension of its certificates of convenience and necessity for construction of a proposed $20,000,000 hydro-eletcric project on the Osage River at Linn Creek, Mo., will be held before the State Public Service Commission here Feb. 20.

Columbia Clover Conference.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 3.—Boone County's clover and prosperity conference will begin here tomorrow morning. It is expected that 100 farmers will attend. The conference will hear reports on progress made during the past year and will plan a county wide legume program for next year. The visiting farmers will be guests of the Columbia Chamber of Commerce at luncheon.

SUNDAY'S SERMON TRANSLATED FOR DEAF

Young Woman Puts His Rapid Fire Remarks Into Sign Language.

A young woman standing behind a column in the Coliseum last night worked harder than the perspiring Billy Sunday himself, who has to take a rub-down and change of linen after every sermon.

His cyclonic platform style became a slow motion picture beside her lightning-like gestures, and beside her hour of calisthenics his famous athletic gyrations became the pompous stance of an elderly college president. She was translating his words into sign language for a group of the deaf.

Anybody who has heard metaphors and adjectives gush from the evangelist knows what a task that must have been. He talks inordinately fast, and in topic as well as in his dervish-dance he leaps from precipice to precipice. Several attempts to get his sermons down stenographically failed before it was finally accomplished through mechanical means.

Another thing that complicated the young woman's task was that the group, sitting in the right balcony back of the platform, tried to watch his gyrations as well as "listen" to her hands. There was a question, also, whether the sign language provided for all the words in the evangelist's vocabulary.

But she seemed to get the sermon across pretty well. Sometimes, when the evangelist spurted a stream of invective like a bursting fire hose, she would pause and peer around the column—and then her hands would fly. Possibly she had to summarize some of it, but her listeners smiled at a few of the wise cracks and their faces reflected most of the moods of the sermon.

Anyhow, they got enough of it to argue about it vehemently—even the uninitiate could gather that—after the benediction. But none was observed to "hit the trail."

"Quoting From Jesus."

Sunday didn't make it any easier for her. He was going strong. He deprecated people who tried to make a "dough-faced sissy" out of Jesus. He maintained that Jesus was about as larrupin' a preacher as they make 'em, and he had Jesus hurling a regular Billy Sunday sermon at the "biggest guns of the synagogues" when Homer Rodeheaver, his amiable music master, vented an impressively loud and fervent "Amen" from right behind the platform.

The evangelist stopped short and made one of his quarter-deck turns about the platform. "Well," he snorted, glancing down at Rodeheaver's grin, "I'm quoting from Jesus—" chuckling—"with a little addition." And he lit in again.

His text was Pilate's words, John XIX, 4. "I find no fault in Him," and Sunday was maintaining that one of the things in which he could find no fault was the courage of Jesus.

"The Spirit of God led every one of you to this meeting," he declared. "The devil never led you here. He knew what you'd hear about him, so you're following the spirit of God this far anyway.

"Oh, I know some of you came out of curiosity, just to size me up—but that was just the spirit of God leading you down here.

"Do you consider it honorable to raise your voice against Jesus Christ—even against this meeting? You're not raising it against me; I'm representing Jesus Christ.

"Oh," he snarled, racing to the side of the platform and glaring over the edge, "I'll get down from here and fight you!"

Hundreds Pledge Their Faith.

Hundreds came forward to take his hand in pledge of faith. Of the 57 who definitely accepted Christianity, 22 already were church members, 33 apparently were not and two failed to specify.

Attendance was at least 8500, the largest week night assemblage so far. It was "Baptist night." Reservations for Christians, Congregationalists and other denominations are made for tonight. Sunday is challenging students and teachers to hear his anti-evolution sermon Saturday night.

TOM KERRICK'S WIDOW FREED AT MANSLAUGHTER TRIAL

Testified That Motion Picture Cowboy Was Shot During Scramble for Pistol.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Sarah Kerrick was acquitted yesterday of manslaughter charges in her second trial in connection with the death of her husband, Tom Kerrick, motion picture cowboy, who was shot and killed as the climax of a Hollywood drinking party several months ago.

Mrs. Kerrick and four other members of the liquor party, Iris Burns, Anita Davis, Henry Isabel, all movie extras, and Joe Hunt, Arizona cowboy, were convicted of manslaughter in the first trial and all five were sent to prison. Their conviction was under a part of California law which holds that if two or more persons engage in an illegal act, each is equally guilty in case a death results.

The convictions were reversed by the Appellate Court and a new trial ordered. When this trial opened the charges against all except Mrs. Kerrick were dismissed and the others were called as prosecution witnesses.

The widow testified that she did not fire the shot which killed her husband. Her story was that the pistol was discharged during a free-for-all fight during which everyone was scrambling for the gun.

ICE AT NIAGARA FALLS BREAKS

All Water Was Diverted to Canadian Side by Jam.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 3. — The American Falls of the mighty cataract of Niagara were roaring again today after restriction by ice. For several hours an ice jam in the Niagara River yesterday diverted the water to the Canadian shore and over the Canadian Falls, causing less water to go over the American Falls than in any other time in 30 years. The ice broke late last night.

REFORMS IN TRAPPING FUR ANIMALS URGED

Humane Societies of Missouri Favor Snares That Take Them Alive.

Women were urged to forego wearing furs until reforms are effected in the "present savage methods" of trapping fur-bearing animals, by Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske in the annual joint meeting of the Federated Humane Societies of Missouri and the Humane Society of Missouri, at which which she was honor guest yesterday. Mrs. Fiske advocated the use of snares that take animals alive and the encouragement of "fur farms" where animals are killed speedily and painlessly. The American Humane Association, of which she is a director, is engaged in a campaign against the employment of steel-jawed traps.

The need of legislation to protect fur-bearing animals was emphasized by Sydney H. Coleman of Albany, N. Y., president of the American Humane Association, in an illustrated lecture showing the cruelty of trapping methods. He suggested requirements that all trapped animals be reported to a state commission created for that purpose, that all traps be marked with the name and address of the owner, that traps be inspected daily, and that humane snares be used.

The passage of a humane education law and a revision of the penal code to include penalties for cruelty to animals other than domestic cattle will again be asked of the Legislature at its next session, Gerald B. O'Reilly, president of the Humane Society of Missouri, said in reviewing the work of the society for the past year.

A resolution was passed opposing the clipping of dogs' ears.

The annual report of the Humane Society of Missouri showed the handling of cases involving 6593 dogs, 5262 cats, 1476 horses and mules and 663 other animals. In addition, the clinic, in charge of Dr. J. E. Klem, treated 1004 animals.

OUTLINES PLAN OF RECOGNITION FOR DE FACTO STATES

Peruvian Submits Report on Principles to Delegates of Pan-American Congress.

FOR INTERVENTION WHEN JUSTIFIABLE

Hughes' Suggestion Accepted in Amending Draft Treaty as to Seizure of Ships.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Feb. 3.—Principles governing the recognition of de facto Governments were before the delegates of the Pan-American conference today for study. They will be discussed at a meeting of the Public International Law Committee tomorrow.

Victor Maurtua of Peru, as reporter to the Committee on Public International Law, asserted that all Governments should be recognized which fulfilled these requisites:

"Effective authority, with the probability of stability and consolidation, and whose laws are freely accepted by the population, at least as far as taxation and military service are concerned.

"Capacity and desire to fulfill pre-existing international obligations, to contract new ones and to respect the duties established by international law."

Maurtua also proposed that the flat unconditional statement of the Rio Janeiro jurists' conference prohibiting intervention by one state in the internal affairs of another should be amended so that, while condemning unprovoked intervention as a general rule, it still recognized that such emergencies might arise as to render intervention justifiable.

Hughes' Suggestion Adopted.

An amendment to a draft treaty defining the obligations of Governments in cases of revolutions in neighboring countries was altered to define more exactly what ships might be seized. The original read ships "equipped for hostilities" might be seized. This was changed to read "Equipped by the rebellion," after a debate led by Charles Evans Hughes, chairman of the United States delegation.

"We are very interested in foreign commerce," Hughes said, "and we are not desirous of encouraging civil strife." The American Government, he continued, intended when it approved a treaty that the treaty be observed and, therefore, he suggested a clearer definition.

The phrase "equipped by the rebellion" was substituted in the clause which applies to merchantmen, as wel as war craft.

Report on State's Rights.

Maurtuna's report to the Committee of Public International Law yesterday, asserting that recognition of the states' rights are dependent on observance of the rights of other states, caused a great stir among all the delegations, as finally broaching the subject which has been uppermost in the minds of the representatives since the beginning of the conference.

The report was compiled to set forth "the inalterable principles of respect for essential international rights recognized by all the American republics, so that these principles, besides being established by them as a veritable constitution of the juridical community, also may be taken as the inspiration of all agreements already reached or that will be reached in the codification of international law."

The provision which aroused the greatest comment follows:

"All states are independent in the sense that they have the right to achieve their welfare and progress freely, without intervention or supervision from other states, but in the exercise of this right, they must not affect or violate the rights of other states."

Many Delegates Disatisfied.

A majority of the delegations approached appeared not to be satisfied with the definition of independence and the implied limitation of the sovereignty of the American states. Asserting they needed further study of the proposal, most delegates declined to permit themselves to be quoted.

Delegations of the smaller countries, however, expressed dissatisfaction, on the ground that in the Maurtua report there nowhere exists an exact definition of sovereignty, while only apparent restrictions on this are stated. The smaller states pointed out that, while for the big and strong countries, like the United States, an exact definition of sovereignty was not necessary, because they have in their own power the best defense of their sovereignty, small countries must rely on the precepts of international law for protection of their integrity.

The report, which probably will be taken up by the committee tomorrow, recommends the following principles as a declaration by the congress:

States' Rights Defined.

All states have the right to exist, to protect and preserve their existence, but this right neither implies power nor justifies unrighteous action by one state against innocent or inoffensive states to protect itself or to preserve its existence.

All states are independent in the sense that they have the right to achieve their welfare and free progress, without intervention or supervision from other states, but in the exercise of this right they must not affect or violate the rights of other states.

All states are in their own right and before the law equal to all other members of the international community. All states can, therefore, assume among the Powers of the world the independent and equal position to which they have the right.

All states have the right to territory determined by exact boundaries and to exercise exclusive jurisdiction in this territory and over all persons, natives or foreigners, that find themselves therein.

All states invested by the law of nations with their rights may demand that they be respected and protected by other states, because rights and duties are correlative, and observance of the rights of one is the duty of all.

International law is simultaneously national and international—national in the sense that it is the law of the country, applicable as such for the determination of all questions having reference to its principles; international in the sense that it is the law of the community of nations, applicable as such to all questions which may arise between two or more members of that community and which have reference to its principles.

U. S. Delegates Applaud Report.

The American delegation is said to have applauded Mr. Maurtua's recommendation that the fundamental rights and duties of nations be elaborated in a solemn declaration of principle rather than be included in a treaty. The latter, especially when dealing with such fundamental matters and when it is a collective covenant among 21 nations, stands little chance ever to become effective owing to the likelihood that for some mere formality at least one of the signatory countries will fail to ratify it. A declaration instead carries within itself its own life, the American delegation holds.

It is understood that special significance was put by the American delegation in the fact that a project originally elaborated in 1916 and later officially indorsed by the Washington Goverment, establishing the principle of international obligations and, to a certain extent, of international co-operation had been brought up now in this conference for the adoption of all American republics. It was also pointed out that the American Institute of International Law has a large and prominent membership in all Latin-American countries, and that the president of this conference, Dr. Antonio Sanchez de Bustamente, has held high office in the organization.

Supported by Supreme Court.

All the principles included in Maurtua's report have been supported by decisions of the United States Supreme Court. Americans here point to this fact as proof that the proposals are not abstract conceptions of what the law on the rights and duties of States should or might be, but is actually a statement of current practice.

In this regard it conforms to the views already expressed by Mr. Hughes in this conference that its efforts should be directed to codifying existing law and not to modifying or improving it.

The report of the Pan-American Railway was presented in the communications committee by Luis de Negri, of Peru. It presented six recommendations, but was deferred for approval on request of Henry P. Fletcher of the United States, who asked for a translation, so that the report could be studied by himself and his colleagues, Oscar Underwood. Fletcher said he expected to indorse all the recommendations.

These are:

Maintenance of the agreements of previous conferences for the Andes route.

That the American nations reorganize the national railway committees.

Urging the nations which have not completed their railroads to do so.

Expression of accord with the Washington railroad commission and the Fifth Pan-American Congress.

Study of the routes proposed.

Germany Opposes 13-Month Year.

By the Associated Press

GENEVA, Feb. 3.—The German Government today notified the League of Nations that, while it favored a fixed date for Easter each year, it was unalterably opposed to the revision of the calendar to give each year 13 months instead of the present 12.

To Return Railway to Bolivia.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 3.—The return to Bolivia of the Bolivian section of the Arica-La Paz Railway was assured by the signing yesterday of the treaty of 1904. Formal transfer will take place May 13.

MADRAS POLICE FIRE ON MOB, ONE KILLED AND FIVE HURT

Order to Shoot Follows Attack on Shop That Refused to Close on "Day of Mourning."

By the Associated Press.

MADRAS, India, Feb. 3.—Police fired on persons staging a demonstration in connection with the arrival of the Royal Commission on Indian Reforms in India today. One person was killed and five seriously injured.

The trouble arose when the crowd attacked a shop that had remained open despite the hartal —day of mourning—proclaimed in connection with the arrival of the commission headed by Sir John Simon.

The crowd stoned the shop and broke its windows. Empty bottles were thrown at the crowd which replied with a fusilade of stones.

Armed police soon arrived on the scene but the stone throwing continued. Some constables were injured. The shop was closed eventually.

Practically all shops and Indian business premises were closed here. Omnibuses and rickshaws are not running.

Police firing occurred again after the dispersal of a mob which assembled around the jail where the two who were arrested had been taken. The mob reassembled around the high court and set fire to an automobile. Police were stoned and retailated with four more arrests. This failed to stop the stoning and finally the patrolmen opened fire.

Later troops proceeded to the spot where a monster meeting was being held, the mob having reassembled again opposite the high court, members attacking Europeans returning home in automobiles.

A car belonging to the Secretary of the Imperial Bank was smashed in the mixup.

The Royal Commission, headed by Sir John Simon, was sent from England to India to study the problem of self-government in that vast dominion of the British Empire. The commission will visit India again late this year and make a report to the British Parliament in 1929. The Indian problem is considered the greatest confronting the Empire. The reforms which the commission is to study began 10 years ago.

Strike Called in Bombay; Commission Leaves Under Guard.

By the Associated Press.

BOMBAY, British Indian, Feb. 3. —The native city of Bombay today was in the throes of a "hartal"— a strike organized as a boycott of the Royal Commission on Indian Reforms—following the arrival of Sir John Simon and other members of the commission.

When the commissioners arrived they found a huge crowd gathered about wharves and were forced to stay aboard ship until a way could be cleared for them. Meanwhile agitators were touring the city in automobiles exhorting the people to the "hartal.".

Their agitation gradually took effect during the day, workers appearing at most shops and mills but disappearing shortly afterwards. The streets were crowded with pedestrians, and but for their aspect of bitter protest would have looked much as on a holiday. For a time a procession of about 350 persons clad in white paraded through the streets with black banners inscribed with denunciations of the commission.

The colleges closed and this afternoon a large gathering of students adopted resolutions condemning the commission, its members then proceeding to Maidan where an open-air demonstration was to be held.

At a labor demonstration effigies of Premier Baldwin, Birkenhead, Simon and Ramsay MacDonald were burned.

Although the "hartal" was effective elsewhere, the European quarter of the city was little affected.

Sir John Simon and others of the commission proceeded to Delhi under a heavy guard shortly after they landed here.

Moslem League at Lahore Sends Message of Welcome.

LAHORE, Punjab, India, Feb. 3.—The Moslem League today sent a message of welcome to the Royal Commission on Indian Reforms now en route to Delhi.

The league expressed the hope that the cause of self government would be advanced by the commission's labors and the interest of minorities safeguarded.

PLEA FOR LIBERTY GIVEN LINDBERGH BY PORTO RICANS

Legislature in Warm Welcome Makes Him Messenger of Cry Echoing Patrick Henry.

FLYER TIRED AFTER CARNIVAL BALL

Enthusiastic Crowds Jam Streets, Stop Traffic; Santo Domingo the Next Stop.

By the Associated Press.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 3. —A plea for the freedom of Porto Rico in the form of a "message from the people of Porto Rico to the people of the United States" was intrusted to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today at a special sesson of the Porto Rican Legislature, which conferred a medal of honor upon the American aviator.

After extending a warm welcome to "a worthy son of the American eagle," the message read:

"The good wishes of Porto Rico will go with you to the land of the brave and free, and to your country and to your people you will convey a message of Porto Rico not far different from the cry of Patrick Henry—'Liberty or death'—it is the same in substance with but a difference imposed by the change of times and consideration.

"The message of Porto Rico to your people is, grant us the freedom that you enjoy, for which you struggled and which you worship; which we deserve and you have promised us, we ask the right to a place in the sun of this land of ours brightened by the stars of your glorious flag."

Link By Air Easy.

In thanking the Legislature for its welcome ,Col. Lindbergh made no reference to the message entrusted to him but began an address on commercial aviation, saying that it was easy to link the island of Porto Rico and the United States by air and that figuratively it would be done tomorrow.

The Colonel made his appearance in the Legislative Chamber after an hour's motoring trip which carried him to Fort San Cristobal, the new capital building, the school of tropical medicine, the high school and the university.

The enthusiasm with which the people of San Juan have received their fellow American has been extraordinary. There were such crowds massed about the theater that it was impossible to move traffic while the doors had to be barred to keep the theater from becoming dangerously crowded.

The crowd that had gathered in the Plaza Colon persisted in calling for the American airman and refused to go home until he appeared on a balcony window and waved a greeting.

At the Rotary Club dinner, Lindbergh, responding to an address of welcome, made a plea in behalf of aerial transportation, saying that the West Indies and Central America, with their present plane facilities, offered the best field for development.

Called a Peaceful Conquerer.

In greeting Lindbergh, Gov. Horace H. Towner said he voiced the heartiest spontaneous welcome of all the people of the island. He continued:

"Among those honored for great accomplishments and noble virtues, your name will ever be enrolled.

"Your success has not been won by bloodshed, or by making wars, but, while in every test of valor and daring your accomplishments are at least equal to any of either fabled or historic heroes, you have not caused a single heartbreak or a moment's suffering to others by your rise to fame."

Gov. Towner called Lindbergh "Our modern winged Mercury— not merely a classic figure, but a real American youth winging your way to fame and immortality, not by imaginative dreaming but by hard work, by dauntless courage, by high and steadfast purpose."

A salute of 20 guns, one less than a presidential salute, greeted Lindbergh on his landing. Thousands gathered along the sea front of this ancient port to cheer "The Spirit of St. Louis" and its pilot as they passed overhead to the flying field. Sirens and ships' whistles added to the din of welcome. At the Federal building he was proclaimed an honor guest of the city by Mayor R. H. Todd.

Special cloth-of-gold aviators' caps were worn by "Queen Edna" and her court in Lindbergh's honor, at a carnival ball which he attended. After the ball he retired to the 400-year-old La Fortaleza, once the palace of the Spanish captains general and now the executive mansion, where he is a guest.

Lindbergh will hop off tomorrow for Santo Domingo. From there he will go to Post-au-Prince, Haiti, Monday and expects to arrive at Havana, Wednesday. The distance from Port-au-Prince to Havana is 900 miles.

Lindbergh Tells Havana to Expect Him Wednesday.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Feb. 3.—Charles A. Lindbergh will arrive in Havana, last port of call in his Pan-American itinerary, about 4 p. m., Wednesday, he informed Ambassador Noble Brandon Judah, in a telegram today.

The last hop in completing the Caribbean circle, in which he has touched several United States possessions and a number of countries in close contact with the United States, will be the 900 miles from Porto-Au-Price, Haiti. From Havana he expects to make a nonstop flight to St. Louis, his home port.

TURK EX-CABINET MINISTER TO BE TRIED FOR GRAFT

Gold Dinner Service of $300-a-Month Official Roused Kemal's Suspicion.

By the Associated Press.

ANGORA, Turkey, Feb. 3. — Ihsan Bey, former Minister of Marine, was arrested today in connection with charges of corruption growing out of the reconditioning of the former German Cruiser Goeben, now the Turkish Cruiser Yavonz Sultan Selim.

His trial before the Supreme Court will open Sunday.

Ihsan Bey's salary as minister of the Turkish navy was only $300 a month, but he had a dinner service of solid gold and a $10,000 diamond.

It is the first time in Turkish history that a cabinet minister has been brought to trial on charges of accepting "baksheesh."

President Kemal's suspicions about the dealings of Ihsan Bey in connection with the reconstruction of the cruiser Goeben were heightened by a banquet given by the former minister last fall. The president was guest of honor. He ate course after course of the dinner, eyeing the golden plates on which it was served. Then, at the end of the meal, he whispered to his host:

"A charming table service! Left to you by your grandfather, I suppose."

The minister turned pale, for he knew well that the Ghazi was aware his grandfather was a peasant.

A second scandal in the Turkish Government of Mustapha Kemal Pasha involves the treasurer and deputies in charge of parliamentary funds, who must explain what happened to $50,000 which is unaccountably missing.

The two cases are the direct results of the campaign declared by President Kemal on governmental graft.

MEXICO NEGOTIATING LOAN FROM BANK OF MONTREAL

Deal Based on Consular Fees Security for Advance of $2,480,000.

Copyright, 1928, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (The New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 3.—A deal is under way by which the local branch of the Bank of Montreal will advance the Mexican Government 5,000,000 pesos ($2,480,000), Haliburton Weldon, general manager of the bank, said today. If the deal is concluded, it will be the first loan to the Government by a banking institution in Mexico since the fall of the Diaz regime.

The loan will probably be guaranteed by the country's consular fees, which total about 25,000,000 pesos a year. There are no liens on these fees. Weldon said his negotiations are in no way connected with those of representatives of the International Bankers' Committee now here.

It was announced today that this committee has accepted in principle a modification of the foreign debt agreement. The representatives here will work out the details at conferences which will get under way tomorrow with Finance Minister Luis Montez de Oca. Ambassador Morrow will co-operate with both sides in an effort to work out a new basis for international payments.
eration of their principals a $50,-
The bankers' representatives will take back to New York for consid-000,000 credit to Mexico for financing irrigation, road and harbor works.

45 REBELS AND PRIEST KILLED IN MEXICAN BATTLE

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 3.—Dispatches from Guadelajara today said that Gen. Anselmo Garcia, under chief of the Presidential Guards, announced that a Catholic priest, Crescencio Esparza, and 45 rebels, were killed as a result of a clash with Federal soldiers on the hills near Cotija, state of Jalisco, Wednesday.

Six hundred rebels commanded by Esparza and Luis Guizar Morfin fought with the Presidential Guards in a battle lasting more than three hours. The rebels were forced to withdraw, abandoning 28 dead and carrying off many wounded, including Guizar Morfin.

The priest and 17 others tried to escape by crossing a river and were drowned.

M'CAWLEY FILES FOR GOVERNORSHIP FOR LOWER TAXES

State Senator From Carthage Seeks Democratic Nomination — In Senate Five Years.

OUTLINES PLATFORM WITH DECLARATION

Author of Dry Law Enforcement Act Pledges Effort to Decrease State Expenses.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 3.— State Senator Alfred L. McCawley of Carthage, leader of the legislative bloc opposed to tax increases, filed with the Secretary of State today formal declaration of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor. His opponents will be Francis M. Wilson of Kansas City, former United States District Attorney, and State Superintendent of Schools Charles A. Lee.

McCawley, who has been a State Senator five years, attracted Statewide attention in the last Legislature by his fight on the Baker administration revenue scheme for the imposition of nuisance taxes on tobacco, motion picture admissions and soda fountain drinks. As a member of the Senate Ways and Means Committee he prevented the measure from even being reported to the Senate.

Action in Road Fight.

He has been active in promoting good roads legislation. With Senator Painter of Carrollton he introduced and brought about the passage of a road law under which farm-to-market roads may be constructed without interfering with the fixed highway building program, and has been an advocate of a bond issue to be met by gasoline tax and automobile fees, without any taxation on property, to complete the highway system as laid out at present.

He was an aggressive member of the Senate committee which exposed the State Penitentiary frauds and stood in opposition to the confirmation of Dr. Cortez Enloe and the other members of the Prison Board.

McCawley is a dry personally and politically, and was the author of the State Dry Enforcement law.

Files Outline of Platform.

With his notice of candidacy, he sent to the Secretary of State the following outline of his platform, asking that it be filed with the declaration:

The present high cost of State government is the peak from which we must honestly strive to retrench.

The State Governmet can be run with revenues arising from tax levies now authorized by law, and that without limiting the full and free exercise of the legitimate functions of any department thereof.

Consistent with my six years' record in the State Senate, I pledge to the people unalterable opposition to any increase for State revenue purposes in any existing rate of taxation, or the addition of any new taxes, either as nuisance taxes, or under the guise of inspection fees, or other subterfuge.

Tax From New Resources.

The only additional revenue which the State has a right to expect is that coming from added taxable values resulting from development of the State's undeveloped resources, and from the more efficient administration of existing revenue laws.

There is opportunity in Missouri for the creation of new wealth equal to or greater than the present taxable value of the State, and I shall favor such laws as will attract outside investors to the further development of this State.

No business, class, group or industry shall be singled out as a special object of taxation.

The State highway program as now projected must be completed without delay, and an adequate system of farm-to-market roads constructed in each county of the State.

At least one-third of all State revenue shall be applied to the support and maintenance of our free public schools.

For Jeffersonian Equality.

The Jeffersonion doctrine of "Equality before the law" must extend to the humblest child in the State. Residence in rural sections of Missouri must no longer constittue a barrier to equal educational opportunity.

Fair and liberal support must be provided for the State University, School of Mines and the State Teachers' Colleges.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—The Senate, pervaded by "the Spirit of Locarno," cheered M. Briand, the Foreign Minister, yesterday when he announced that the sixth arbitration treaty negotiated by France, in accord with the compromise pact with Germany, will probably be signed by France and the United States on or before Feb. 6, on the occasion of the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of the treaty of alliance between Louis XVI and the revolting American colonies.

The Rhineland question was not a Franco-German question, he contended, saying "The occupation of the Rhineland was in pursuance of the treaty of Versailles, shared in by our allies and associates. Eventual change in the present state of things is between all the allies and Germany."

Hardly less important than Briand's announcement was the statement of Poincare, speaking in the Chamber of Deputies more in his role of Finance Minister than as Premier, that France did not ratify conventions regarding foreign debts growing out of the war "because we were not certain of our capacity to transfer each year for 62 years to the United States the enormous amounts involved."

"But," he continued, "as soon as we are able and as long as we are able we will pay, thus showing we are not averse to the principle of paying to the very limit of our capacity, once more emphasizing the loyalty of France."

Germans Approve Briand Speech on Rhineland Evacuation.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—The speech of Foreign Minister Briand of France yesterday in which he asked that Berlin make a proposal for the evacuation of the Rhineland was greeted on the whole in German official circles today with satisfaction. It was regarded as a distinct step forward in Franco-German discussions.

"Considering the fact that Briand spoke extemporaneously with a view of obtaining a unanimous vote of confidence, we must not appraise each word too heavily, but rather consider the spirit of the speech," a spokesman for the Foreign Office said.

HOUSE COMMITTEE APPROVES BOULDER CANYON DAM BILL

Votes Not to Put It on Calendar Till March 15, to Give Time for Negotiations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The Swing-Johnson bill for a dam in Boulder canyon was approved today the House Irrigation Committee with the proviso that it be not placed on the House calendar until March 15.

The proviso was attached for the purpose of granting further time to the seven Colorado River basin states in which to negotiate for a compact.

The measure was left virtually unchanged by the committee. Chief among the few amendments accepted was that of Representative White (Dem), Colorado, which attempted to clear away any doubt as to the navigability of the stream by adding to the purposes of the bill the improvement of navigation.

Cabinet Crisis at Belgrade.

BELGRADE, Feb. 3.—Democratic Minister of the Jugo-Slav Cabinet have resigned, bringing about a ministerial crisis. Although Premier Vukichevitch has not yet presented the Cabinet's resignation, with an eye to rearranging the ministerial posts, it is doubtful whether the crisis will be surmounted without a general election.

SEVEN INSURGENTS SLAIN BY MARINES IN NICARAGUA

New Graves Indicate an Indeterminate Number of Sandino Band Killed in Clashes With Patrol.

AMERICANS HAVE NO CASUALTIES

Five Engagements Fought With Irregulars, Believed Sniping Expeditions, in San Albino Area.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 3.— New graves along the trails of Northern Nicaragua today indicated that an indeterminate number of irregulars had been slain in recent encounters with an American Marine patrol.

The patrol reported to headquarters that seven insurgents were known to have been killed and four wounded in five engagements, but that the Marines were unable to determine the exact number of casualties since the insurgents carried off their wounded. A wounded pack animal was the only casualty to the patrol.

The patrol under Capt. Roger W. Peard consisted of 80 men and left San Albino Mine, once the headquarters of Gen. Sandino, insurgent leader, on Jan. 20, going south to Buena Vista. The patrol returned to San Albino two days later after five engagements with the irregulars. Marines believed that the insurgents encountered were sniping expeditions.

Scouting airplanes flew over the region of the fighting yesterday after belated reports of it were received at Marine headquarters. There was no evidence of insurgent activity.

In one attack an irregular approached an advance squad of Marines shouting, "Amigo" (friend). He was shot down in his tracks by Lieut. W. S. Brown.

Insurgents attacked the patrol just as it was preparing to leave camp on the morning of its first day out from its base. The Marines had not packed their machine guns upon the mules. These were immediately turned on the insurgents who were concealed in the jungle.

Three other brushes between the insurgents and Capt. Peard's patrol took place on its way to Buena Vista and the other as the Marines were making their way back to San Albino.

Along the trails on the way back the Marines noticed many new graves, indicating that the insurgent dead had mounted beyond the seven they had counted.

25 Marines Brought to U. S. for Treatment.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Capt. Richard Livingston, who was in command of the marine detachment ambushed Dec. 30 at Quilali, Nicaragua, arrived at the naval hospital yesterday from Norfolk, Va., where four other wounded marines and 20 suffering from malaria arrived Wednesday.

The officer, who was described as the "hero of Quilali," told of the attack by 500 of Sandino's followers in which five marines were killed and 23 wounded. He said that if the advance guard had not attracted the fire of Sandino's men the entire force of marines and native constabulary probaly would have been wiped out.

He praised the conduct of the marines and said he was convinced that Sandino's troops were being trained by men acquainted with military tactics and supplied with arms from outside source.

ELEVEN KILLED WHEN WALL OF MOROCCAN PALACE FALLS

Eight Others Injured When Homes Built Against It Are Crushed.

By the Associated Press.

MEQUINEZ, Morocco, Feb. 3.— The bodies of 11 Moors today were taken out of the ruins of their homes which were demolished by the collapse of the ancient wall of the Palace of Mulai Ihmael. The palace was built in the sixteenth century and it is thought that the wall collapsed because of decay.

The section which crumbled was 25 feet high, 300 feet long and three feet thick. The Moors lived in a row of eight houses built against the wall, all of which were destroyed.

Eight injured were removed from the ruins. Police searched the debris, fearing that other victims might still be buried.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Smith-Vare and the South.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

TO one of Negro blood, it is amusing and quite soul-satisfying to see the position which our Southern Senators have been placed in by the controversy in the Senate over the right of Smith and Vare to seats.

Here we have Smith and Vare, as our own fiery Jim Reed says, marked all over with the leprosy of political corruption. In both instances, the stupendous sums of money spent to secure the election of these men were not only wholly unjustifiable, but set an example that would prove fatal in a Government like ours, that rests upon the sanctity of the franchise.

Here, if there ever was, is a cause to quicken the pulses of the lovers of free government. What a theme for Democratic oratory! Yet, does some eloquent, courageous Senator, say from Mississippi or Alabama, jealous of the liberties of the people, rise in his place in fiery castigation of the political methods of Smith, Vare and the Republican party in general?

Sad to relate, the answer is no. All that has come from the Southern Democrats has been a strange silence. Why all this silence? Well, here is the reason straight from the shoulder. There is in the Senate an able and astute lawyer from Pennsylvania, David Reed, who maintains that Vare is the choice of the Pennsylvania electorate, and that the Senate has no legal right to interfere with the sovereign right of the people in their selection of a Senator. If it has, Senator Reed argues menacingly, then why doesn't it exercise that right in investigating the election machinery in Southern States, where the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments are openly and flagrantly violated?

That is the reason Southern Senators did not fall to with hammer and tongs in the Smith-Vare cases. They know that for the State of Mississippi, for example, to disfranchise over half its population is as politically corrupt and as violative of the Constitution as anything Smith and Vare could ever do.

I HAVE been a reader of the Post-Dispatch since 1896, the year Bill Bryan ran for President the first time, not missing a copy. I can truthfully say that the editorial section is the greatest I have ever read.

If there is anyone who has read the Post-Dispatch longer than I have, I would like to hear of it.

In Defense of Confucius.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"OLD CONFUCIUS," as the Rev. Billy Sunday disrespectfully refers to him, was a genius of his time who reached a peak of intellectual development accorded but few. Yet the day is here when one who can never even hope to reach the heights that old Confucius attained stands up in open pulpit to disparage the grand and kingly dead.

I wonder if Mr. Sunday knows that today there are more followers who not only believe in but practice Confucianism than he has ever preached to, ever listened to, or ever converted. Has he ever read the work of the man he slurs? Does he know that they consist of but some seven books of tracts, and does he know of a single instance in which Confucius, or one of his countless followers, ever practiced inhuman cruelties, tortures, bloodshed?

Compare such men as John Calvin and Martin Luther with Confucius, Aristotle, Copernicus, Hume, Helmholtz, Spinoza, Humboldt, Voltaire and others who have enriched the world. Imagine a mole or gopher trying to condemn or fight an eagle. I can see that kingly man, Confucius, standing there on the lofty peaks of Thibet, living as it were on the roof of the world, pondering the hidden and uncovered secrets of life and existence, true to himself and his God, teaching his followers such sinful phrases as:

> Riches and honor acquired by injustice are to me but floating clouds.
> Recompense injury with justice, and unkindness with kindness.

A Toonerville Odyssey.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A FEW days ago I boarded a northbound Jefferson car at Chippewa street. When it came time to go, motorman shut his door and started just as three ladies came around the corner. Conductor pulled the bell cord and stopped the car, waited for them. One dropped her pocketbook and had to go back to get it. The car got started one minute late.

First stop signal at Miami street held the car the full time. More passengers at Cherokee street than could get on the car. From there on motorman stopped at every street and let them try to get on for a minute or so. At Washington avenue the car was 15 minutes late.

I asked conductor how many people he could handle on a trip like that. He said about 300, so I figure that the 300 people lost over 37¼ hours, not counting the ones that could not get on that car.

NO NAVAL MADNESS.

Mr. Coolidge has, in the vernacular, "cramped the style" of our jingo Admirals. Their talk about war and their program of naval construction, which finally reached the staggering total of $7,000,000,000, was grandiose stuff and nonsense. The President punctured the balloon in his address at the semiannual business meeting of the Government when he said:

> The recommendations now before the Congress to replace obsolete naval vessels and moderately increase our navy strength contemplates an orderly construction procedure; nothing more. It contemplates that the construction program will be carried out as conditions indicate and treasury balances warrant. It considers our own requirements alone and carries no thought of entry into competitive construction with any other nation. The plan I have indorsed does not contemplate any limitation as to the beginning or completion of this tentative program. But it does contemplate building the ships as fast as possible.

The difference between the President's utterance and the alarms of the Admirals is the difference between sanity and madness. The Admirals would have Uncle Sam bristling around the world with a chip on his shoulder, spoiling for a fight and ultimately finding it. They proposed expenditures which would place unconscionable burdens on the taxpayers.

Mr. Coolidge has made it plain that we are not going to be stampeded into any such suicidal policy. We are going to maintain our navy at a proper degree of efficiency, as our means afford, unhurriedly and without fear or thought of war. Our procedure, moreover, will not be so shaped and ordered as to make it impossible for us to confer and co-operate with other nations in the limitations of naval and military strength.

On this subject of naval expenditures a letter from Gov. Smith of New York is illuminating. It was written last June to an officer of the Church Peace Union concerning the then forthcoming Geneva conference. Pointing out that we had spent $600,000,000 in 1926 for our army and navy and that the annual naval expenditures of the United States, England and France exceeded a billion dollars, Mr. Smith spoke of "the burning significance of those facts" and went on to say:

> What the nations expend for armament and its upkeep would wipe out the slums of the cities, educate the children of the world, re-establish farms and industry and restore prosperity to mankind.

On the necessity of curbing such expenditures by international agreements Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Smith are of one mind. They are both right. They are both expressing the sentiment of the American people.

FALSTAFF IN ST. LOUIS.

In the old days Sir John Falstaff, whom we have with us this week in the versatile person of Otis Skinner, was a favorite upon the local stage.

The Falstaff of Ben DeBar, a St. Louis actor, was famous all over the country. This was known in those days as "the big Falstaff," that is, the one in "Henry IV." Subsequently Robson and Crane, tiring of their great success as the two Dromios in "A Comedy of Errors," put on "The Merry Wives of Windsor" for a season in which Crane played the Falstaff essayed by Mr. Skinner, that is, "the little Falstaff."

It was from these men that Falstaff came at last to what constituted true popularity in St. Louis, that is, a beer was named for him. In time both Falstaff and the beer disappeared. Many St. Louisans are seeing Falstaff this week for the first time, and perhaps most of those attending the performance are for the first time seeing "The Merry Wives of Windsor." The interval since it was last produced here has probably been more than 30 years.

Falstaff, meanwhile, has become a shocking character—but it is we who have changed. Sir John is the same.

SUCCESS IN THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

The goings-on within the sacred precincts of Secretary Kellogg and his minions have again aroused the curiosity and suspicion of the Senate. For a week or so, we are informed, a subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has been conducting secret sessions regarding the means by which promotion is secured in the State Department.

Perhaps here we have another instance of the readiness with which Congress will investigate matters which seemingly do not require any prying into, while allowing really big jobs of investigating to be shunted into the congressional wastebasket, or to be so hampered by limitations as to be worthless. For there seems to be no doubt about the receipt for success in the State Department. After the famous Olds case, everybody but the Senate must know how to get ahead within the domain of Mr. Kellogg.

It was Mr. Olds, you remember, who inspired that notorious yarn about Mexico trying to bolshevize Latin America. Well, did outraged public opinion get the gate for Mr. Olds? Or, if not that, did it even cause him to be demoted? Hardly. Instead of going out or going down, Mr. Olds has been allowed to climb right on up the ladder. When he broadcast his romantic tale of Mexican intrigue he was a mere Assistant Secretary of State. Since then he has been advanced to the position of Under Secretary.

There you are. Doesn't that tell volumes about the secret of success under Mr. Kellogg?

THE CONTENTS OF THE CORNERSTONE BOX.

When the archaeologist of the future looks into the box which is being placed in the cornerstone of the new courthouse today, will he find anything of interest to him? There will be pictures of Mayor Miller, Governor Baker, Attorney-General Gentry, a heterogeneous collection of city officials, a medallion of Lindbergh, $77.10 in money (not a bad item considering the usual financial state of the archaeologist), pictures of the building at various stages of construction, and a list of contractors and sub-contractors.

Since the archaeologist looks for things significant in past civilizations, we are inclined to think he will yawn widely as he gazes upon this collection. Conceivably there will be men in the year 2000 as handsome as the Mayor and the Governor, and there will be nothing of vital interest in the names and address of dead plumbers and gasfitters. Lindbergh, of course, will be familiar, but there will be little need for pictures of the building since its ruins will reveal the quality of the architecture.

When they opened King Tut's tomb in Egypt, the excavators were able to reconstruct from what they found a picture not only of ancient Egyptian life, but of the mental and cultural progress of the time. What can we offer to produce the same effect? Well, perhaps a miniature reproduction of the new Ford, a bottle of hooch, a Billy Sunday sermon, a model of old 2300 on the Cherokee line, a sketch showing what a 1928 woman looks like and the dimensions of an efficiency apartment. But maybe it is better to keep posterity in the dark about these things.

BIG BILL FOR THE PUBLIC.

Some of our oblique-eyed statesmen at Washington do not know anything about a lobby sent there to head off the power inquiry, but as a matter of fact it has scandalized the last two sessions of Congress.

An interesting feature of it is that the public will have to pay the bill. If the bill, as someone has suggested, is not less than $25,000 a month for hotel suites, dinners, entertainment, etc., alone, to say nothing of what it costs to present at the front heavy siege guns like George B. Cortelyou and Irvine L. Lenroot, we can get some notion of what the consumers of the great utility staples will have to absorb.

This becomes an even grimmer certainty when we know one of the underlying reasons why this lobby, with its high-salaried attorneys and lobbyists, is on the scene. It is because of the great disparity between the rates of privately owned utilities and those which, like our St. Louis waterworks, are owned by the people and not exploited by financiers.

It is important to realize that no matter how many times the stocks and bonds of the utilities are pyramided, all these securities must at last look to the utilities for dividends. To meet those demands the utilities will have to ask the State commissions for higher valuations and higher rates. We have learned enough of this process to know that when the commissions refuse these increases it is sometimes possible to get them in the courts.

The fight at Washington is between giants, but it is not the fate of giants that hangs in the balance. It is the consumer's bill for light, heat, power, etc., already too high for comfortable comparison, that is at stake.

CONTUMACIOUS.

"I shall not be a contumacious witness."

That was the promise of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, just before sailing from Havana in response to an imperative invitation to appear before the Senate Committee investigating the disposition of the Continental Trading Company's profits.

Mr. Stewart appeared before the committee on Thursday. He was blustery and genially expansive by turns. But when asked what he knew about the distribution of those (the Continental's) bonds, he refused to answer.

The dictionary defines contumacious as rebellious or refractory. It defines contumacy as "contemptuous disregard of the requirements of rightful authority."

Was Mr. Stewart contumacious? The Senate Committee has the question under advisement. When it speaks Mr. Stewart will know whether he was contumacious, and so will the rest of us.

ENEMIES OF EDUCATION.

It begins to look bad for education in Illinois. It has received a body blow from the Board of Deacons of the Baptist Church at La Salle, who have decided to withdraw from the Northern Baptist convention, taking the congregation with them and leaving the Northern convention and its educational system flat on its back.

In the Baptist system a convention is a group of churches geographically affiliated and working together in voluntary federation for the promotion by joint action of the purposes that are agreed upon as desirable. One of these is the maintenance of denominational institutions of learning, for the education of young Baptists and such others as choose to avail themselves of the facilities offered.

The teaching in these institutions seems to have been up to date. At least the La Salle deacons say so. Therefore, they are against these institutions. The congregation is said to feel the same way about it. "We do not agree," the deacons say, "with the Godless evolutionary education fostered and propagated by the denomination in its institutions of learning, or in its emphasis on reformation instead of regeneration." So out they go.

It is not likely that the Baptist educational institutions of Illinois will be put out of business by the action of the La Salle deacons. Illinois is not Tennessee or Texas. But these things are disturbing. It is a hindrance to which all denominational colleges can be exposed more or less by the benighted brethren who are not willing to leave education to the educated.

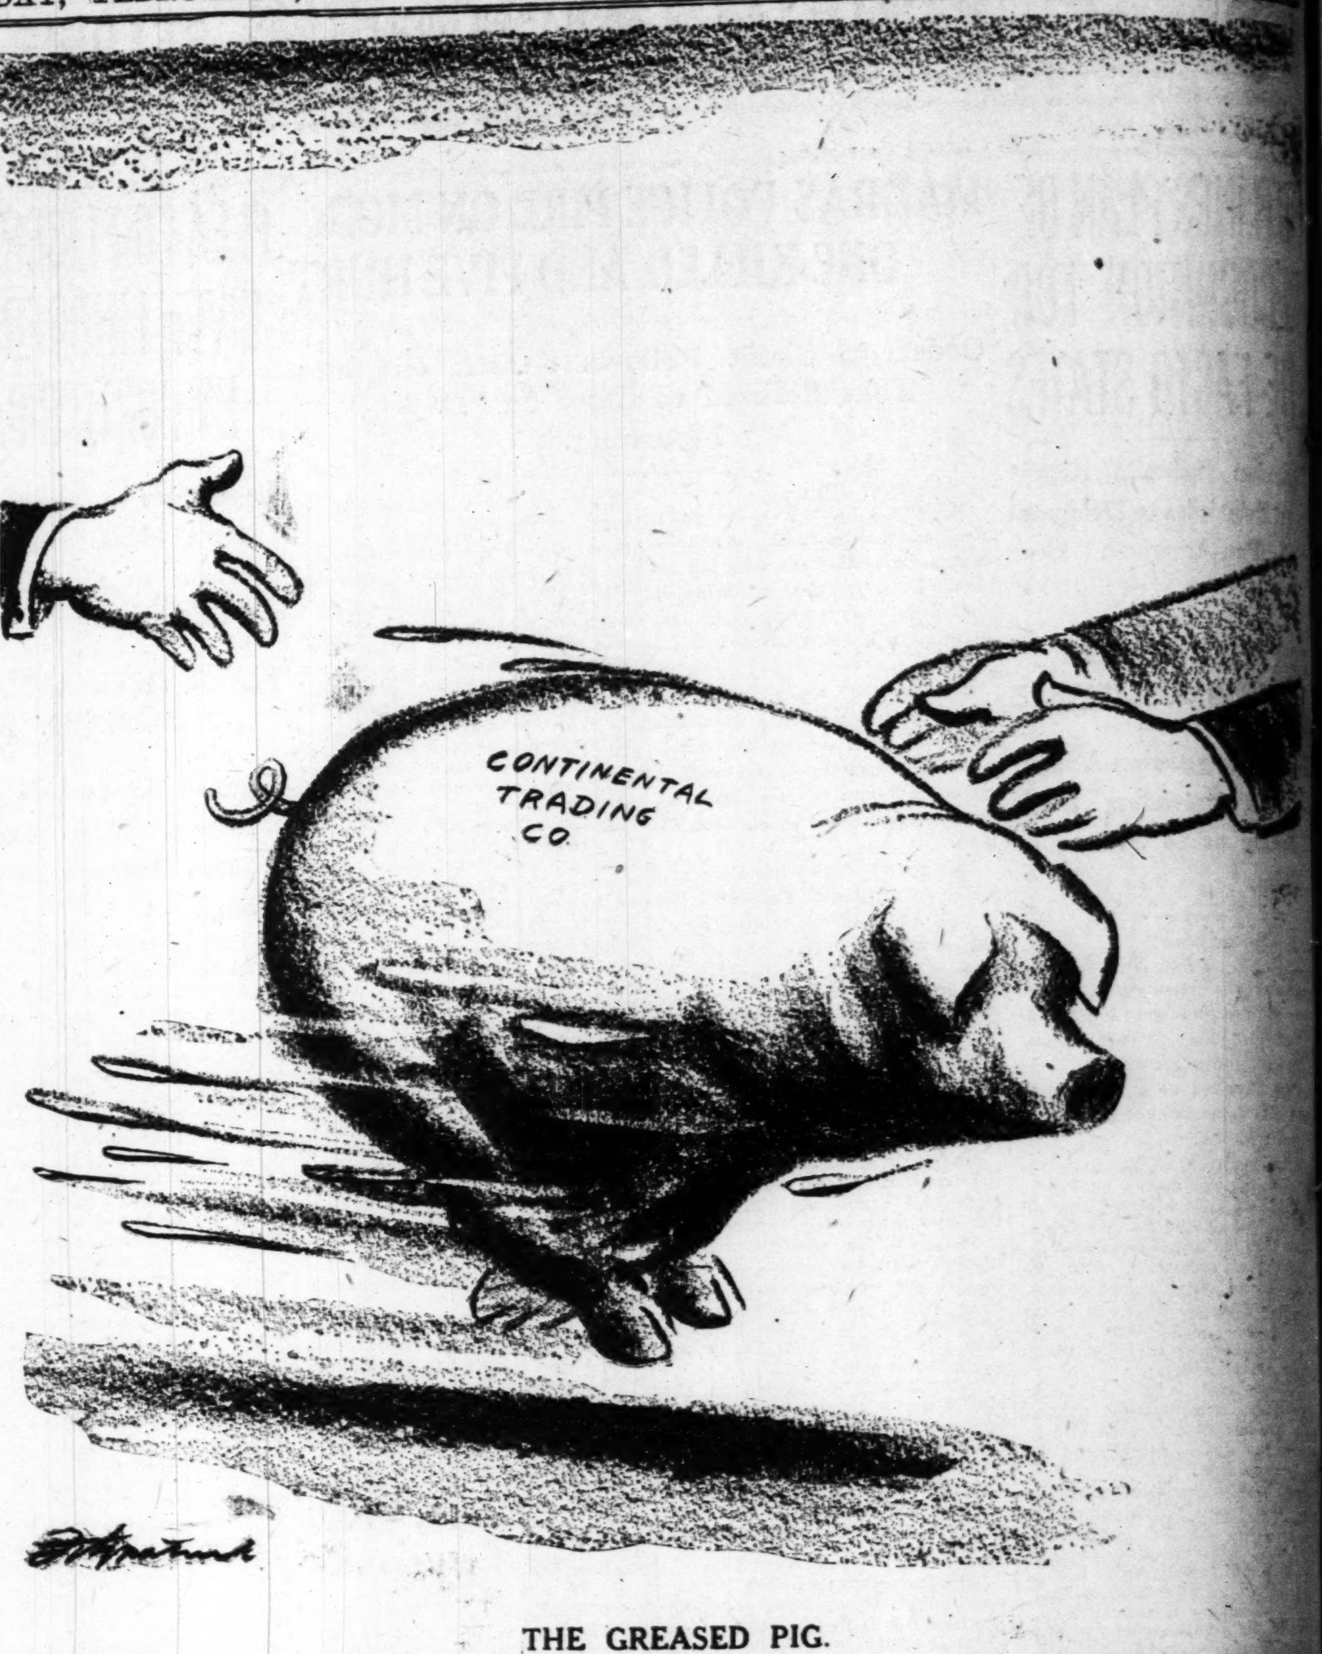
THAT WORRIED LOOK.

If we have that worried look in St. Louis, it is not because the groundhog has indicated six more weeks of smoke.

It is because of the wild abandon with which the managers of the Cardinals have discarded catchers. The Giants lightly exchanging whistles for pigtails with Boston are a lot of tightfisted Yankees beside the managers of the Cardinals in the matter of backstops. At the close of the last season, when the Cardinals finished only a game and a half behind the winning Pirates, we had a considerable group of catchers. Since then Snyder, Schulte and Gibson have all been cast off, until there remain only whatever is left of the once invincible O'Farrell and one rookie.

Spring is coming. It will not be long until the teams go South to train. Ask the Cardinal managers where they are going to get catchers, and they look out of the window with an unconcern that is maddening. Of pitchers we have a veritable constellation of stars. The ball will whizz around the plate as we have never seen it whizz. But as to who are to catch it and throw it back, who are to nail Cuyler stealing and put the ball on Earl Smith coming into the plate, there is not a word.



CONTINENTAL TRADING CO.

THE GREASED PIG.

The British-American Naval Debate

FRANK H. SIMONDS in the American Review of Reviews.

AT bottom what is closest to the heart of the British naval experts is the question of the blockade. It is by the blockade that in the past British security has been assured and victory in war ultimately achieved. The threat of the American naval program does not lie in the possibility that we shall have two or ten more 10,000-ton cruisers than the British. It rests upon the fact that if we have a great fleet of large cruisers it may be possible for us to break the British blockade.

The Admiralty is not thinking of a war between the United States and Great Britain. It excludes that from its calculations. But it is considering what might be the situation if, at a moment when Britain were involved in another European war, like that which still remains a vivid memory, the United States should refuse to accept the British proclamation of a blockade and undertake to convoy merchant ships through such a blockade.

THE Admiralty does not give a brass farthing for our strength in battleships, which will not enter into the situation, nor in submarines and destroyers. All these details of naval warfare are out of the question. But if we have a great fleet of big cruisers, shall we not, in conditions such as existed from 1914 until 1917, use these boats to convoy our merchant ships?

The real objective of the British Admiralty at Geneva was not to prevent parity, but to prevent the construction by the United States of a type of cruiser which would enable us to interpose in European waters in case of a European war. The real grievance of the Admiralty over the Washington Conference was not that at this session Britain conceded parity to the United States in battleships, but that it agreed to the construction of a new type of cruiser, the 10,000-ton ship, which would be a deadly menace to British interests.

YET after the Washington Conference the British navy was guilty of a supreme blunder which explains its present irritation. Once the 10,000-ton ship was agreed upon, it rushed the construction of many of them. By 1926 it had reached a point where it had 13 built and constructing and the United States had no more than two authorized. The Admiralty did not perceive the inevitable consequences of this policy, because it never really believed that we would build. It could not take our fleet seriously.

TODAY the appalling fact for the Admiralty in the American naval program is not that we are likely to have a large superiority over the British in 10,000-ton cruisers. No one calculates that these boats will fight each other. The disaster from the British naval standpoint is that we shall have 25 or 30 of the type of boat which is best calculated to challenge the British blockade all over the world. If we build those boats, it makes little difference how many the British have, for that will not modify the situation.

Moreover, while on the surface the Coolidge Conference broke down over technicalities, it in fact came to nothing because the British Admiralty backed by Winston Churchill would not face admitting our right to build cruisers of the 10,000-ton type to the limits which were inevitable on any basis of parity, British or American.

IT is perfectly true, as the British now state, that they are not considering building to parity with us on the basis of our new program. But this is true not alone because they lack the money; it is just as true because, as I have tried to make clear, even if they build this number of cruisers, they would not have found an answer to the American navy thus expanded. Unless they can find a way to persuade us not to build the ships, or can find some adequate weapon which would neutralize the value of the large cruiser, the British blockade itself passes out of existence.

Here is the real crux of the naval discussion. Here is something of the strategy of the decision to postpone the building of the two 10,000-ton cruisers. Late, perhaps too late, the Admiralty has arrived at the realization that from the beginning its wise line would have been to refrain from building this type of boat itself and to work to have it outlawed. When the British delegation contended at Geneva for smaller cruisers, smaller battleships, smaller guns, it was in fact urging steps which would have insured economy, but the economy would have been concomitant with greater British security. It would have saved money, but disproportionately disarmed its colleagues.

THIS is the same situation which existed in the Washington Conference when France and Britain quarreled over submarines. The British argued for the banning of the submarine as a measure of humanity and as a detail in the limitation of armaments. The French resisted because, as they pointed out, the submarine was the single weapon a poor and weak country could oppose to the naval supremacy of the great.

If the British could succeed in having the submarine abolished and all cruisers restricted to no more than 5000 tons, armed with guns of six-inch caliber, their position would be well-nigh impregnable. If they could have battleships brought down to 30,000 tons, or even 25,000 tons, they would also be advantaged, because in all cases they are to be the defenders. The very fact of the existence of British merchant marine and the dependence of the homeland upon it, puts them on the defensive.

GIVEN their frequent naval bases, as contrasted with our widely separated stations, the small cruiser suits them, while without the large cruiser we are restricted to our home waters. What more natural than that the Admiralty should have seen in Mr. Coolidge's conference called to promote economy the heaven-sent opportunity to turn the issue of economy to account to fortify British security and supremacy?

Of course it is clear that the British are not merely thinking of our 10,000-ton cruisers. They are also apprehensive of the consequences of the establishment of this type of cruiser in any and all hands. But what is not in the least true is that they are not thinking of the American navy and are now going to regulate their fleet without regard to us.

IF we build 25 or 30 10,000-ton cruisers all the British policy will depend, in case of war with a third country, upon whether we agree to respect the British blockade that will be imposed or announce a purpose to stand on our conception of international law and maintain our interpretation, if necessary, by convoying our merchant ships. Having the cruisers we can do it. Should Great Britain challenge this course and war result, British commerce would be almost completely at the mercy of such a cruiser weapon in the hands of a country which could not be blockaded or attacked by land.

"Of Making Many Books"

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

Morbid Religiosity

SHAKEN BY THE WIND. By Ray Strachey. (Macmillan).

"THE LEATHERWOOD GOD," by W. D. Howells, comes to mind in reading Ray Strachey's "Shaken by the Wind," since both are studies of the religious mania that swept in several waves through the East and down the Ohio Valley during the first half of the nineteenth century. But the likeness is limited to the theme, for Strachey is in no way an imitator. His insight into religious fanaticism seems more profound than that of Howells; and this is hardly surprising, considering how much has been done in the psychology of religion since Howells wrote his novel.

It must be admitted that "Shaken by the Wind" is depressing and leaves a strong impression of ugliness. It seems impossible that anyone should ever read the book twice, or even return to it; but anyone who is genuinely interested in the strange possibilities of human nature should consider a single reading well worth the effort, especially since it is evident that the author is thoroughly well informed and sincere. He tells us that the letters and documents from which he has drawn his material were left to him by his grandmother with the injunction to publish them "when the right time was come." "Strange and fantastic as some of the happenings may seem," says Mr. Strachey, "they have all been paralleled and even surpassed in real life; and indeed it is my belief that similar extravagances continue to this day. I hope to publish shortly some of the actual documents on which this novel is based."

The tale is concerned with the pitiful disintegration of character among a group of ignorant but normally upright villagers under the influence of a musty old coot who claims to be a prophet, and whose "call" to preach his insanely goatish doctrines must have been registered in a portion of his anatomy well south of the heart. After debauching various half-wits of the neighborhood, he induces a number of sorry nuts to give all their worldly goods to him and to form a little community of the "saved," whose occupation is to dance and wait for the Second Coming which is said to be very near. What happens in the community will serve to render intelligible the unsavory facts of Rasputin's career among the ladies of the Russian court.

CHOPIN. By Henri Bidou. (Translated from the French by Catherine Alison Phillips.)

This study relates Chopin's compositions to the episodes in his life which they expressed or accompanied. Without leading the reader into exhaustive discussions of disputed technicalities, it contains such information as will interest pianists and music-lovers in general. The book covers all of Chopin's 39 years, and gives accounts of his relationships with distinguished people of his time.

COHEN ON THE TELEPHONE. Written and compiled by Joe Hayman. (Sully.)

The author is the widely known originator of the "Cohen on the Telephone" series of gramophone records. Here he has gathered together a score of his most successful "spiels."

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT HEALTH AND DISEASE. By Howard W. Haggard. (Harpers.)

The title really is the best review of this work. The author is associate professor of applied physiology at Yale. Designed to inform the layman, the book takes the human body, part by part, describing each, its structure, function and the ailments to which it is subject. It is quite understandable. So far as the reviewer knows, it is authoritative. There is not, however, one touch of humor or brilliance from page 1 to page 524. Some scientists have a way of enlivening their dissertations; this one, unfortunately, has it not.

It happens that the reviewer, along with a great many other persons at this time of year, has a bad cold. Turning at once to the paragraphs on "Coryza or Acute Catarrhal Fever" (page 203) he found this comforting statement: "Most of the symptoms of coryza are local, although in severe cases there may be fever and pains in the back and limbs. The mucous membrane of the nose is swollen and secretes copiously," and so on. This is hardly a discovery. Then, continuing: "Treatment has little effect in shortening the attack." Bah! Any friend can tell you nine or ten sure cures. —H. T. M.

THE CHILD AND THE HOME. By B. Liber. (Vanguard Press).

It cannot be doubted that the child will have a better time in the home if the advice of this book is followed. Many ideas of child training are stereotyped, the author says, and notions of discipline and punishment are mediaeval. It is a book, one may say, that any child would be glad to recommend to his parents.

A modest individual has written the following letter to John Farrar who conducts the column, "Anonymously" in "The Bookman."

Dear Sir:

I think I could write a good fiction book. Would you be in the market for such a book—if you thought what I wrote would be a good seller? If so, what do you pay an author for a book as good as the average or better, and when does he receive his pay?

I never wrote a book,
Yours truly.

15 AMERICANS TO STUDY OPERATIC SINGING IN DRESDEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Establishment of a scholarship to enable 15 American students to spend a year studying operatic singing in Dresden, Germany, and a gift of $5000 to Deems Taylor, the composer, were announced yesterday by Ernest Hutcheson, dean of the Juilliard School of Music.

The $5000 gift, he said, is in honor of an American composer who receives but slight income from his musical works and through the gift will be enabled to concentrate entirely on composition of his second opera.

Conservatories throughout the country and private teachers, said Hutcheson, have been invited to select students for a competition here in the scholarship awards.

"The successful candidates will be placed in the opera school of the Dresden Opera Co., under the supervision of Fritz Busch, the conductor," said Hutcheson.

FUNERAL OF FUQUA TURNER

The funeral of Fuqua Turner, newspaper worker and teacher, will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at Hamilton Avenue Christian Church, corner of Julian avenue. Mr. Turner, who was 51 years old, died yesterday at his home, 5526 Cabanne avenue, of bronchial pneumonia.

He was on the staff of the St. Louis Republic, serving as Sunday editor and as dramatic editor before that paper was discontinued in 1919. He worked previously for Louisville papers. In recent years he taught night classes in English at Soldan High School, tutored foreigners in English and gave instruction in Hawthorne Hall Preparatory School, conducted by Mrs. Turner at their home.

Auto Club Issues 3400 Licenses.

Approximately 3400 State, city and truck licenses have been issued by the Automobile Club of Missouri since its License Bureau opened Wednesday, it was announced today. Plates are issued to members at the club's headquarters, 4228 Lindell boulevard, and to non-members at 4218 Lindell. Club officers said many applications had been rejected because certificates of title were not presented. Licenses also are issued at City Hall.

Pupin Gets Engineering Honor.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Dr. Michael Idvorsky Pupin, who came to the United States as an immigrant from Serbia 54 years ago, last night received the Washington award, the highest honor that can come to any American engineer. E. F. Schuchardt, chairman of the award commission, presented it on behalf of the Western Society of Engineers at a dinner here in honor of Dr. Pupin.

EDW. MALLINCKRODT FUNERAL SERVICES

Burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery Follows Ceremonies at Christ Church.

A gathering which filled Christ Church Cathedral attended the funeral of Edward Mallinckrodt, multimillionaire chemical manufacturer and large giver to education, this morning.

Associates of Mr. Mallinckrodt in his business career of 60 years, men and women interested in Washington University, St. Luke's Hospital and other institutions to which he gave time and money, personal friends, and employes of the Mallinckrodt Chemical Works, heard the funeral service, which lasted but half an hour.

Bishop Frederick Foote Johnson and Dean William Scarlett conducted the service, with the full choir of the cathedral. As is the custom of the Episcopal Church, no eulogy was pronounced. The Scripture was read by Dean Scarlett, and the prayers by the Bishop. The choir sang two hymns, "The Strife Is O'er, the Battle Done," and "Fight the Good Fight With All Thy Might."

Floral designs, and masses of flowers and greenery, filled the chancel, and some large crosses stood beneath the sculptured reredos. A blanket of green, with a large cross of white, lay over the casket.

A large section of the center pews was occupied by the honorary pallbearers, who were taken from Mr. Mallinckrodt's associates in business and civic life. There were 11 active pallbearers. The family and relatives occupied several front seats.

Interment in Bellefontaine Cemetery followed the church services.

Old St. Louis U. Library Catalog.

The first catalog of books in the St. Louis University library, compiled in 1836 and including a description of 2057 volumes has been found in the university archives by the Rev. Henry H. Regnet, S. J. It was made up when the school was at Ninth street and Washington avenue, and is still in an excellent state of preservation.

"Twilight of the Gods" Explained.

Wagner's "Twilight of the Gods" was the subject of the illustrated music lecture yesterday at a concert given by the Symphony Orchestra at the Odeon for school children. The program included "Siegfried's Rhine Journey" with an explanation of its motifs, and selections by Grieg, Mozart, Humperdick, McDowell and Grainger.

MANY NEW TROPHIES IN LINDBERGH EXHIBIT

Mother of Flyer Sends Presents to Be Added on His Birthday Tomorrow.

Many new trophies will be added to the noted Lindbergh collection at Jefferson Memorial tomorrow, which will be the twenty-sixth birthday of the world-famous aviator.

Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, his mother, has sent the Missouri Historical Society, which has charge of the collection, a case of gifts presented to her in Mexico, and some other trophies including the "Golden Book," given her by a group of distinguished Frenchwomen and brought to this country by one of them. Another is a Bible with carved olive wood backs, published in Jerusalem.

One lot of trophies presented to Col. Lindbergh in Central America is being put in place for the flying Colonel's birthday. Two additional cases, shipped from the Canal Zone, already have reached New York and are due here tomorrow.

Scrolls given Col. Lindbergh in British Honduras and Republica Honduras, gold medals from Mexico and Sweden, a gold key of Tampico, a gold plaque bearing an invitation to Tampa, Fla.; a picture of St. Aloysius, patron of youth, framed in exquisite silver filigree by a young woman in Rome, and an inch-long wooden model of an airplane carved by a Detroit schoolboy are among the other new exhibits.

The east wing of the memorial is thronged from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. every day. One-way traffic is necessary, even on week days. Publication of photographs and news articles elsewhere has led many travelers to stop off between trains and see the collection. A register for out-of-town visitors shows that from 10 to 50 have viewed the collection daily. They included a group of Osage Indians from Oklahoma and visitors from China and Australia.

DR. PAUL Y. TUPPER'S FUNERAL TO BE IN ST. PETER'S CHURCH

Professional Associates to Act as Escort of Honor at Services Tomorrow.

Professional associates of Dr. Paul Y. Tupper, at various periods in his 44 years of medical and surgical service in St. Louis, will serve as an escort of honor at Dr. Tupper's funeral tomorrow morning, in St. Peter's Episcopal Church, and will accompany the body to the Missouri Crematory. The ashes are to be sent to Richmond, Va.

The escort of honor will consist of Drs. V. P. Blair, H. M. Moore, M. L. Klinefelter, H. M. Loewenstein, Marsh Pitzman, Sam Bassett, Robert Vinyard and W. S. Brown. The funeral will be held at 10 a. m., and the Rev. Dr. W. C. Bitting, long a friend of Dr. Tupper, will assist the rector of St. Peter's, the Rev. Edward S. Travers, in conducting the service. Dr. Tupper's unexpected death, late Wednesday night, was caused by a heart attack. Mrs. Tupper and a son, Gregory, survive him.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Thoughts while strolling: A police station—smelling of the usual lysol: Leon Friedman's pink shirt. Sightseeing busses to Holland Tunnel. Vapid young mustache strokers. The gaudy new Hammerstein theater—a monument to the great Oscar.

Billy de Beck in town from Florida. A cut rate beauty parlor. An auction room selling real estate—like a boom town in Nevada. Simmund Romberg, the composer. Wonder who'll be the next Mayor? A clairvoyant featured in a movie lobby. Whatever became of the dollar banquet? Charlie Winninger.

Those heavy crystal beads. Fred and Adele Astaire leaving a theatrical photograph shop. Lunch stand hospitality: "Cream your own coffee." The famous pint-sized Two Gun Murphy of the Narcotic Squad, Northern Spy apples. Side-of-the-mouth talkers—a prison habit.

The Tenth avenue second-hand clothes market. Workhouse brogans—25 cents. Battered derbies for a dime. Cotton sox on strings. Greasy lumber camp shirts. Defeated men who whittle with big Barlow knives. The outcasts who sit along the curbs.

Lodging houses with a charnel smell and baths 10 cents extra. Dice game runners. Offices of cockroach and bedbug experts. Blood remedies—and "Sunken Noses Lifted." The blobs of gas light in dingy pool halls. Corner rowdies.

Women in wrappers screaming at children. Flaming grocery price banners. Pork and sausage shops. Hand laundries. Weekly payment dentists. Two dollar hat shops. An old darkey chants a hallelujah song. Automobile pawn shops and tipsy sailors swinging by in pairs.

Walk-up-one-flight tailors with dazzling signs. Goulash and spaetzel. Vincent Lopez standing in front of his night club. Horse blanket overcoats and gray derbies.

NEW YORK chauffeurs have one inflexible custom. That is to beat the other fellow to the punch. No matter who is responsible in a collision, the trick is to rush screaming from the driver's seat and blame the other fellow. The one yelling the loudest seems to win the argument.

DESPITE its antiquity, there are many photographers who make a good living calling up newly arrived visitors to New York to take their photograph. The racket is that the photographs are wanted "for the newspaper and magazines" and no obligations are involved. The psychology is profitable, for very few who see proofs brought around to them fail to order a dozen or so and if they do not, the expense is trifling. If newspapers or magazines want pictures they ask directly or send their own photographers.

ONE of the brightest and newest theaters was completely finished and thrown open for the premiere. It was a lovely structure, but at the last moment it was discovered there were no wash stands in the star dressing room. I should love to have been there when the star discovered it.

NO place has the haunting melancholy of a deserted stage at night. Several years ago the owner of a theater took a nap in his little rest room back stage, and awakened to find himself locked in. He could not get to a telephone or arouse anyone, and in the morning he was found semi-conscious from fright.

THE Bowery had its share of jobless men this winter—more so, it is reported than last. It is an ancient trick there for men suffering from excessive hunger to chew old cigar stubs until the nausea makes food repulsive.

REPORTERS are supposed to have a glamorous job. Yet today I commiserated with one who had spent six days pulling door bells to inquire the whereabouts of a man of no particular importance. They are many days when newspapermen feel an urge to jump into the cloak and suit business and see life.

COLUMBUS S. JONES FUNERAL

Services for Contractor Held at Church of the Redeemer.

Funeral services for Columbus S. Jones of 5156 Cates avenue, contractor, were held yesterday from the Church of the Redeemer, Washington boulevard and Euclid avenue. Burial was at Oak Grove Cemetery.

Mr. Jones, who died Tuesday at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium from heart disease, after a week's illness, was 66 years old. He came to St. Louis in 1903 and since then has engaged chiefly in highway and railroad construction. But before that he specialized in levee construction, and work he did on the levee at New Orleans was considered as exemplary of such engineering in its day. He received a medal by the citizens of Calcisieu Parish for saving them from a threatened flood. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Maud Lamkin Jones; a son, Douglas H. Jones, and a daughter, Mrs. Charles Bilane.

DR. KYLE GOING TO PALESTINE

Seminary Head to Excavate Walled Canaanite City.

The Rev. Dr. Melvin G. Kyle, president of Xenia Seminary, will spend the spring months in excavation work in Palestine. He plans to reach the Holy Land about March 19, and to begin April 1 further work at Kirjath Sepher, walled city of the Canaanites, where he worked with an associate two years ago.

After his return next fall, Dr. Kyle expects to open a museum of objects from Bible lands at the seminary, in University City, and will give several lectures on his researches. He will lecture at Princeton University next week, before sailing from New York.

ST. LOUIS PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

FOUR YOUTHS IN STOLEN CAR CONFESS HOLDUPS

Admit Robbing Pedestrians and Pharmacy and Stealing Automobile.

Police of the Angelica Street Station last night cleared up a number of recent holdups and burglaries through the arrest of four youths in a stolen automobile.

Lieut. Thomas Walsh and special officers were touring the district in a department automobile when, at Broadway and Grape avenue, they recognized the license number on a Buick coupe occupied by four youths as that reported stolen earlier in the evening from Charles Lambert, 5560 Ashland avenue. After a brief chase, the Buick was crowded to the curb and the occupants were arrested. There were three loaded revolvers in the car and a fourth weapon was found in possession of one of the suspects.

At the police station the youths said they were Lawrence Mason, 17 years old, living in Pine Lawn; Albert Aubuchon, 21, of Ferguson, and Erwin Hall, 18, and George C. Graham, both giving St. Louis addresses.

Graham, Hall and Aubuchon admitted robbing the proprietor of the Twelfth Street Pharmacy, Twelfth and Brooklyn streets, last Wednesday night of $80 and escaping under fire from their victim. The same night they held up Charles Shannon, an employe of the Athletic Tea Co., at Clara and Natural Bridge avenues, they told the police, taking $60, and also took a watch and some cash from Maurice L. Stewart of University City.

The trio made two unsuccessful holdup attempts on Tuesday night, they told the police, the intended victims saving their valuables by shouting "Police!" and resorting to flight.

Hall, who had Stewart's watch in his pocket when arrested, admitted, according to the police, that he had robbed six South St. Louis homes in recent weeks, stolen two automobiles and held up a People's Motorbus conductor, taking $6. He volunteered to point out the places he had robbed.

In the holdups the men used an antomobile stolen from T. B. Petrie, 5745 Enright avenue, but abandoned the car at Eighth and St. Charles streets, when it developed motor trouble. They then stole Lambert's car.

Mason and a fifth man arrested acted as lookouts and chauffeurs during some of the holdups, they admitted. The police are holding two other men on charges of receiving stolen property from Hall. Victims of recent robberies will be asked to look at the prisoners.

SEVEN 'ONE-ARMED' SHIRTS IN $400 LOOT TAKEN FROM HOME

Joseph Kleiher, Who Was Injured in Sleigh Crossing Accident, Loses Garments.

Seven "one-armed" shirts were included in the $400 loot taken from the home of Joseph Kleiber, 6162 Suburban avenue by burglars on Jan. 22.

Kleiber, a clerk employed at the J. S. Merrell Drug Co., lost his left arm near the shoulder on Jan. 19, 1892 when a horse-drawn sleigh was struck by a Wabash train at the Sarah street, eight of the 20 persons on the sleigh being killed. For the sake of convenience, Kleiber has the left sleeve of his shirts cut away about six inches from the shoulder. He is still speculating as to whether the intruder intends removing the right sleeves from the shirts and wearing them as "sport" attire next summer.

It has been the annual custom of Kleiber and Emil F. Haupt, secretary-treasurer of the Ollie E. Haupt Motor Co., another survivor of the ill-fated sleigh ride, to get together on the night of Jan. 19 and discuss the accident and those who figured in it.

LACLEDE HOTEL SUB-LEASED

The Laclede Hotel, 520 Chestnut street, has been subleased for 16 years and 11 months by the Laclede Realty Co. to Laclede Hotel, Inc.

The realty company holds a 99-year lease on the property at $33,000 a year. All furniture and fixtures of the hotel were bought by Laclede Hotel, Inc., which is headed by Harry Israel, operator of the St. Francis Hotel. The stores on the first floor of the hotel are not included in the sublease. Under terms of the 99-year lease, the Laclede Realty Co. must erect a new hotel at expiration of the sublease.

Petition to Tighten Dry Act.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—A petition was circulated among members of Congress today by the International Reform Federation asking that the prohibition act be amended "to prevent evasion, to remedy weaknesses and to stop nullification of the act." The changes proposed would make jail sentences mandatory for law violations, with a minimum as well as a maximum penalty and would relax considerably regulations governing the issuance and execution of search warrants, particularly as concerning private homes.

Police Fight Payroll Robbers.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—Frank Ross, 64 years old, bank runner for a branch of the Colonial Trust Co., was held up by four men today, hit on the head with a pistol and robbed of a $13,000 payroll. Police later captured three of the holdup men after a fight and recovered two packages of the loot. The fourth robber escaped.

LURIE MOTOR CAR CO.

Lindell Blvd. & Grand Ave.

With the appointment of the Lurie Motor Car Company as Studebaker distributors for St. Louis, a grand opening will be held Saturday and Sunday, February 4 and 5, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., in the new Lurie showrooms at Lindell Blvd. and Grand Avenue.

21 Models on Display

A complete line of cars, including the New President Straight Eight, The World's Champion Commander, the New Dictator and the New American Edition of the Erskine Six, will be on display.

You are cordially invited

STUDEBAKER

The Great Independent

—asks those who appreciate the expression of genius in fine motor cars to read this story of

THE NEW PRESIDENT STRAIGHT EIGHT

100 Horsepower • $1985 f. o. b. Detroit

For seventy-six years Studebaker has worked for, and has pleased, a clientele appreciative of quality.

Quality plus Value

During the past ten years Studebaker has built and equipped new foundries, forge shops, stamping plants, machine shops, power houses, dry kilns, body plants, etc., to provide for the production of fine motor cars on a One-Profit basis. Studebaker quality has been made available at prices genuinely low, and thus, to traditional quality, One-Profit value has been added.

Quality plus Value plus Genius

During the past two years Studebaker's engineering department has become recognized as one of the most brilliant in the industry. D. G. Roos, Chief Engineer (formerly chief engineer for Pierce-Arrow, Locomobile, and Marmon), and W. S. James, Research Engineer (formerly section chief of the United States Bureau of Standards), lead a group of skilled engineers and scientists. These technicians have the use of research laboratories, mechanical facilities and a million-dollar proving ground. Phenomenal results accomplished are reflected in the performances of Studebaker and Erskine cars:

—the Studebaker Commander, the World's Champion Car, which earned the title by running 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 consecutive minutes—nothing else on earth ever traveled so far so fast;

—the Studebaker Dictator, which established new endurance and speed records for stock cars listing below $1400 by running 24 hours at an average of 61.795 m. p. h.;

—the Erskine Six, the European type car which during 1927 invaded the export markets of the world with unprecedented success;

—the new American Edition of the Erskine Six now being introduced in the United States. In October this car established new 24-hour endurance and speed records for stock cars priced below $1000.

Studebaker holds every official endurance and speed record for fully equipped stock cars, regardless of power or price.

Thus, to the traditional quality and to the One-Profit value of Studebaker cars, has been added—unsurpassed engineering and manufacturing genius.

All this quality—all this value—all this genius now finds its highest expression in the eight-cylinder President sedans with which Studebaker greets the new year.

It was two years ago that the development of an eight-cylinder car was begun by Studebaker. Orders were to design, if possible, the finest eight-cylinder car in the world regardless of cost. When satisfied that this objective had been substantially attained, preparation was made to produce this car of superlative luxury and power on a basis of One-Profit volume production never before enjoyed by a car of similar size and quality.

A One-Profit Car

The PRESIDENT STRAIGHT EIGHT is Studebaker made throughout—body, engine, springs, gears, axles, transmission, forgings, stampings, gray iron castings—all made by Studebaker in Studebaker plants.

Power at a One-Profit Price

The President Eight develops 100 brake horsepower. No car which equals it in rated horsepower (according to the ratings of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and the Society of Automotive Engineers) sells for less than double its price. So much value has been built into The President Straight Eight that it can be compared only with cars selling for $4000 and upward.

The President Eight, even the 7-passenger sedan, will exceed seventy miles per hour indefinitely in the hands of any driver.

Speed with Safety

The President Eight offers not only sustained high speed, but speed with safety, due to full vision, welded steel body, low center of gravity and amplified-action, four-wheel brakes.

After the first thousand miles oil changes and chassis lubrication are needed only at 2500-mile intervals.

The President Eight is so built and broken in that it may be driven forty miles per hour the first day it is on the road.

These features testify to advanced engineering and precision manufacture.

Why the Prices Are Low

And the prices—$1985 for the Regular Sedans (five or seven passenger), $2250 for the State Sedans (five or seven passenger), $2450 for the Limousine—testify to One-Profit manufacture and to the following operating economies which make Studebaker supreme in value:

Studebaker's overhead, commercial and financial organization and expenses are lower per car than those of most manufacturers.

All of Studebaker's principal officers, executives and engineers live in South Bend in daily contact with each other.

Studebaker's capital stock structure is lower per dollar of assets and its $5.00 dividend charge is lighter upon the Corporation's treasury than any but one of its principal competitors.

Studebaker never takes an abnormal profit of from 15% to 20% of the public's dollar but has been satisfied with an average of 10.6% profits for the past sixteen years.

You can pay double the price of The President Eight without receiving more in honest quality.

What Price Genius?

But no matter how much you pay you cannot match the genius which finds expression in The President Eight, the genius which made The Commander known as "the greatest post-war achievement of automotive engineering."

An illustrated booklet descriptive of The President Eight will be sent from South Bend on request, but only by seeing and driving these magnificent cars can you appreciate what beauty, comfort, safety and performance are offered at One-Profit prices.

Superiorities of the New President Eight

1 100-horsepower, 80 miles per hour.
2 Safety—full vision steel body. Low center of gravity.
3 131-inch wheelbase but short turning radius.
4 No finer riding car at any price.
5 Fast get-away.
6 Amplified-action, 4-wheel brakes multiply your pedal pressure 3½ times.
7 A "well-mannered" car—great power under perfect control.

The firetraps now housing insane patients and other wards of the State must be replaced with modern structures paid for out of the saving in operating cost.

It is the duty of the State to enact such legislation as will aid the farmer in collective bargaining, both in the matter of buying supplies and in the standardization and sale of his products.

Relief commensurate with their needs must be extended to farmers resident in flood and drainage areas.

Oppose Many Inspections.

All obnoxious inspection laws should be repealed to the end that legitimate business may not longer be harassed by a multiplicity of inspections that extend no farther than the cash register.

The waste of public funds resulting from unnecessary overlapping and duplication of State governmental agencies must be stopped.

In the matter of appointments, definite party responsibility will be fixed, both in the case of majority and minority appointees. Inefficients will be fired.

Our criminal laws must be enforced and vicious criminals escaping the death penalty on the ground of insanity confined in an institution for the criminally insane for the remainder of their lives.

My position on the liquor question is fairly well expressed in the law enforcement act, of which I am the author. This law, passed in 1923, was approved by direct vote of the people in 1926 by a majority exceeding 275,000.

He was elected to the Senate in 1922 in a district normally Republican, and was reelected in 1926, although the Republican majorities of candidates for other offices in the district ranged from 3500 to 5000.

Shell Oil Head Not on Way to U. S.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—It was authoritatively stated today that Sir Henri Deterding, managing director of the Royal Dutch Shell Petroleum Companies, left Holland recently for Switzerland for the winter sports and is there now. It had been generally reported in the London papers that Sir Henri was on his way to New York in connection with the oil war between the Royal Dutch and the Standard Oil Co. of New York.

CITY HOSPITAL NO. 2 DECLARED A 'DISGRACE'

Plans for New One Should Not Bar Care of Old, Grand Jury Says.

City Hospital No. 2, for care of Negroes, was described as a "disgrace" to the city in the report of the grand jury made today to Circuit Judge Rosskopf.

Although plans are being made for a new hospital, the report said, "this should not prevent proper care and supervision of the present institution. The jury reported it had discovered the condition of the hospital too late to make a full investigation.

It was recommended that the new grand jury, to be summoned next week by Circuit Judge Killoren, make a more complete study of the hospital.

In course of its survey of city institutions, the report set forth, the grand jury had been shown the need of enlarging service of Koch Hospital, removing the Workhouse to a site outside of the city, segregation of first offenders in the Workhouse and reducing overhead and increasing the capacity of the Meramec Farm for girls.

As result of its investigation of the Buckingham Hotel Annex fire, the grand jury found a number of hotels and lodging houses had been operating without licenses because they had failed to comply with the building code. Some of these, the report said, since have taken steps to meet provisions of the code. It suggested the new grand jury follow through the cases of those establishments that continue to ignore the building code. No indictments were returned. The grand jury returned 18 true bills and 7 no true bills. The foreman was Ernest Birge.

Among the indictments was one charging Dr. Raymond L. Teich, Louderman Building, with criminal assault upon a girl.

Edward Wetzel was indicted for second-degree murder in the shooting of his wife, Carrie, 43 years old, at their home, 1844A South Eleventh street, Jan. 8.

James Belford was indicted for murder in the first degree in the case of Chresto Papatrepon, proprietor of a restaurant at 928 Market street, who was stabbed to death aJn. 10.

Lawrence Thurman, chauffeur, of 4641 Delmar boulevard, was indicted for manslaughter as the driver of the automobile that killed Walter Bowers, 65, a laborer, of 5051 Enright avenue, at Kingshighway and Delmar, Nov. 21.

The grand jury rescinded its action in voting an indictment charging perjury against Michael Moony, who was accused of giving false testimony in his recent trial for robbery, in which he was acquitted.

SHELTONS' APPEAL TO ASSAIL USE OF 'SURPRISE WITNESSES'

Attorneys' Abstract and Brief Nearly Ready for Illinois Supreme Court.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PANA, Ill., Feb. 3.—Attorneys Edmund Burke of Springfield and Harold J. Bandy of Granite City have virtually completed the abstract and brief for the appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court of the trials of the Shelton brothers, Carl, Earl and Bernie, convicted in Christian County Circuit Court of the robbery of the Kincaid Trust and Savings Bank at Kincaid, Sept. 27, 1924. Counsel have three more weeks to complete their appeal.

One of the principal points of alleged error, claimed by the Sheltons' counsel, is that no witness whose name was indorsed on the indictments, testified at the trial that they saw the Sheltons in Christian County at the time of the holdup of the bank. The defense also attacks the right of witnesses to testify whose names were placed on the indictment after the case went to trial. Some of these identified the Sheltons as the robbers.

At present the Sheltons are at liberty on their old bond of $15,000 each, furnished before their trial and conviction Jan. 7.

MYSTERY OF MISSING HOUSE LIKE VACANT LOT TO POLICE

One-Room Frame Carried Away, With the Only Clews Mortar and Bits of Clay.

"Will parties who took one-room frame house, 14 by 12 by 8 feet, from a lot at 3900 Meramec street, last week, please return same? No questions asked."

Police, baffled in their efforts to solve the Grand-Gravois Park Subdivision "mystery," are considering an advertisement to read about like the above. The only known facts are that the house was owned by the David Leahy Real Estate Co. and used as an office for salesmen handling lots in the subdivision. The only clews are scattered bits of mortar and clay shed by the abducted house as it was spirited away.

A filling station attendant yesterday said he saw two men carry the house off on a wagon last week.

DEBATE IN HOUSE OVER STRICT DRY LAW ENFORCEMENT

La Guardia Rouses Prohibitionists When He Estimates Cost at $150,000,000 Yearly.

SAYS ALL LARGER CITIES ARE "WET"

Declares If Amendment Can't Be Enforced It Is Duty of President to Tell People So.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Drastic legislation for prohibition enforcement was demanded in the House by Representative La Guardia (Rep.), New York, yesterday, as a means of proving his contention that the Eighteenth amendment cannot be enforced.

A defense of the prohibition law was immediately made by Representative Garrett of Tennessee, Democratic floor leader, who declared that the masses of the American people would never challenge that legislation. Garrett cited the views of Evangeline Booth, Salvation Army commander on the benefits that prohibition had brought. The accuracy of these was questioned by La Guardia who argued that higher wages largely accounted for the well being of American workers at the present time.

Duty of President.

The debate later was taken up by Representative Black, New York, who declared that if prohibition cannot be enforced it is the "duty of the President to tell the country frankly that such is the case and not preach about economy."

"The man largely responsible for the prohibition situation," he added, "is in the White House."

La Guardia estimated that it would take $150,000,000 to $250,000,000 annually to begin to enforce prohibition and advocated that presidential candidates should put that proposition up to the people to ascertain if they "want to continue this impossible and disgraceful condition."

Speaking of the coming presidential campaign he continued:

"Any avowed wet or any man who has taken the position for a repeal of the Eighteenth amendment who accepts a nomination for President and consents to run on a platform that is silent on this point is insincere and deserves to lose the confidence of the people."

Breweries in New York.

La Guardia reiterated his charges that prohibition enforcement cannot be found in the larger cities and said that breweries running in New York State are members of a clearing house in New York which operates in offices at 1182 Broadway, and that this beer ring dispenses the illegal beverage virtually unrestricted. He also charged corruption in the administration of the Knickerbocker warehouse there which he said was a depository for seized liquor where it is possible to buy back liquor taken in raids under protection from Washington.

La Guardia urged that prohibition be applied so strictly that even members of Congress could not get a drink and added, "think of that," while the few members of the floor laughed.

When he said that he would allow the Anti-Saloon League to administer the "rotten law" Representative Schafer (Rep.), Wisconsin, attacked the suggestion with a charge that the Anti-Saloon League has directed many appointments to the enforcement ranks and that some of these appointees had been "crooked."

Representative Howard (Dem.), Oklahoma, asked La Guardia whether his personal attitude would be one of co-operation for law enforcement if such drastic methods proposed were adopted, but the New Yorker refused to commit himself.

Later in the day La Guardia introduced a resolution under which Secretary Mellon would be directed to supply the House with information concerning the number of persons employed to enforce prohibition in the 250 largest cities of the country.

TEACHER'S CLOTHING RUINED

Wearing Apparel of Columbia Woman Cut to Pieces.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 3.—Prosecuting Attorney George S. Starrett today said he had been investigating a case in which some miscreant entered the room of Miss Dorothy Vetter, a teacher in voice at Stephens College, and had cut into shreds every article of apparel belonging to Miss Vetter, including shoes, dresses, lingerie and nightgowns. The coverlet on Miss Vetter's bed was lifted two blankets were cut into shreds.

SALVATION ARMY TO SEEK $300,000 FOR HOSPITAL

Campaign to Begin, May 4; New Corps Buildings Also Planned.

The Salvation Army will open a campaign May 4 to raise $300,000 for new buildings here. Projects planned are a new hospital for women and children on Marine avenue and three corps buildings, one downtown, a second near Cass avenue and Fourteenth street, and the third on South Broadway near Victor street.

The Community Fund has indorsed the campaign, according to Col. William Andrews, divisional commander of the Salvation Army. New buildings are needed because old facilities have been outgrown, he said.

The advisory board for the campaign consists of R. King Kauffman, T. P. Chapman, F. C. Donnell, J. Edward Cowan, Sidney Maestre, C. F. Blanke, Prof. Frank J. Bruno, Oscar E. Buder, E. A. Goodwin, B. F. Dickman, George L. Dyer, Mrs. Nelson Cunliff, Dr. Leon Harrison, Dr. R. H. Schuetee,, Mrs. G. V. Mechin, H. W. Kiel and Dr. J. S. Young.

BANK ROBBERY SUSPECT TRIES TO KILL SELF IN JAIL

Clarence Beard, Wanted in Cleveland, Arrested on Suspicion, Admits His Identity.

Clarence Beard, alias George Germain, wanted in Cleveland for bank robbery, attempted to end his life in a police cell after he had been arrested here yesterday.

A detective who saw Beard drive over the McKinley Bridge became suspicious and searched the car, finding an automatic pistol. After his finger prints had been compared with those on file at police headquarters, Beard admitted he was the man wanted for the $1000 holdup at the Citizens' Savings & Loan Co., ; Cleveland, Jan. 13. He admitted buying the automobile in Cleveland that day, but denied committing the robbery.

The prisoner also admitted he was wanted at Ionia, Mich., where he escaped from the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, Nov. 14. He said he had been sentenced there for life after a $14,000 bank robbery in Detroit had been "hung" on him.

"I'm willing to return there, but I'll kill myself before I'll go back to Cleveland," Beard told police. Taken to a cell, he sharpened his tie clasp on the concrete floor and began slashing his wrists. He was treated at City Hospital and then put in solitary confinement, with two detectives on guard.

Jury in Murder Trial Discharged

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 3.—Failing to reach a verdict after more than 20 hours' deliberation, the jury in the case of Mrs. Myrtle Withey, charged with the murder of her husband, William J. Withey, a chemist, was dismissed last night. The prosecution asked for the death penalty, alleging Withey was poisoned by his wife. Mrs. Withey was returned to jail.

Britain Rejects Eight-Hour Pact.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The British representative on the International Labor Bureau at Geneva has informed that body that his Government refuses to ratify the Washington eight-hour day convention, according to a message by German wireless received by the New York World's radio station. Great Britain proposes a conference in 1929 to amend the Washington agreement.

LISTERINE TOOTH PASTE has halved the tooth paste bill of more than two million people. Large tube 25c check sore throat!

Even youngsters know that for protection against sore throat and colds—or worse—Listerine is a good bet. Gargle with it full strength twice a day, at least, in cold and sore throat weather.

Conditions that may quickly become serious often are rendered harmless by this pleasant precaution.

Being antiseptic, Listerine attacks disease-producing germs that lodge in the mouth and throat. For your health's sake use it every day during sore throat weather. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Business Men Hurt by Airplane.

By the Associated Press.

SHARON, Pa., Feb. 3.—Walter Pipper, a Chicago manufacturer, is in a hospital here with a skull fracture and other injuries, and E. O. Beardsley, his business associate, was cut and bruised from an airplane mishap yesterday. They are officers of the Beardsley-Pipper Co., manufacturers of foundry equipment. The two men came here on business in an airplane they recently purchased. As they took off for Chicago the plane fell.

Administration of Hiemenz Estate.

Letters of administration on the estate of C. Henry Hiemenz, a member of Francis Bro. & Co., investment brokers, who died Saturday, were granted in Probate Court yesterday to his son, A. C. Hiemenz, who stated that no will had been found. The estate, estimated at over $50,000, will be divided according to law between the son and the widow, Mrs. Clara H. Hiemenz.

ONE-MAN SAFETY CAMPAIGN BY MAIL

Undertaker Sends Out Pamphlet—Abolition of Auto Horn One Suggestion.

An undertaker in South St. Louis is conducting a one-man safety-first campaign by mail.

"Play safe," "Be Careful," and "You will avoid the undertaker," are some of his slogans.

Hundreds of pamphlets printed by him, accompanied by a poster sticker, were received by residents of St. Louis and St. Louis County yesterday.

The folder on its front page contains the picture of a traffic officer with the note, "The traffic problem is more than a police problem—it is the concern of every motorist. Please be careful."

On the inside the writer advances the opinion that a great many accidents are caused by the automobile horn. It gives the driver a sense of too much security, he says.

"Drive two blocks through traffic without using your horn and you will find that you are using more care than you have ever used before to avoid accidents," he writes.

Driving Without Horn.

"You will drive as you should always drive, with due regard for others who are sharing the public streets and highways with you. You will discover that, even without using the horn, you will be driving with greater regard for the safety of yourself, pedestrians and other cars if you depend more on the steering wheel and brakes than on the power of the horn to move everyone and everything out of the way.

"Haled into court the driver will say defensively: 'I blew my horn,' this excuse serving to salve his conscience while he may be criminally liable.

"Possibly if horns were removed entirely from automobiles, we would see a very satisfactory decrease in automobile accidents. Without horns it would not take long for everyone to realize that safety depended entirely on keeping the eyes and ears open, which is, after all, the only sure and complete remedy for accident. A long step in the direction of greater safety will have been taken when drivers realize that they cannot 'drive with the horn.'"

A photograph of a wreck of an automobile follows this advice with the notation: "This driver depended too much on his horn."

The sticker poster depicts a Negro couple riding towards a railroad crossing where a train is approaching. Below is the quotation: "Blow yo' horn, Henry! Here comes a train!"

The pamphlet gives views of the proper way to signal in stopping and turning in a machine, and also makes light of the examination given applicants for drivers' licens in New York.

Release of Banker Ordered.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. — Release on parole of Frank Bishop, former Denver banker serving a five-year term in Leavenworth prison for violation of the national banking law, has been ordered by Attorney-General Sargent. At the Department of Justice it was explained that clemency had been granted Bishop because a physician who examined him reported the prisoner could not live more than three months, because of heart trouble. Bishop was eligible for parole last Nov. 15, when he had served a third of his sentence.

Wins Husband Through Picture.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 3.—A southern beauty who first smiled at Theodore R. Froemming, Milwaukee contractor, from the front page of a newspaper and aroused his admiration, has become his bride after a long distance courtship of 18 months. Miss Mabel Nesbitt of Birmingham, Ala., and Froemming were married Saturday at Hamilton, Ala. Frommeing saw the picture of the girl in a Milwaukee newspaper as the most beautiful girl on the campus of Birmingham Southern College for Girls. A letter telling Miss Nesbitt of his admiration was his unconventional introduction.

WHITE HOUSE SOUFFLE IS FLAVORED WITH COFFEE

It Is a Dainty Dessert Suitable for Either a Company or Home Meal.

Coffee has become a popular flavor for use in cakes, puddings, ices, creams and desserts of various kinds. Coffee is excellent for this purpose as it retains the fragrant pungent flavor when used in combination with other articles of food.

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, the first lady of the land, has set her seal of approval upon dishes flavored with coffee through the contribution of a recipe for "White House coffee souffle" to a collection of recipes recently published in book form by a number of Eastern club women.

The place of honor on the front page of this interesting book of choice recipes is given to "White House Coffee Souffle."

Lima Bean Cream Soup.

Take two cups dried lima beans, six cups cold water, one medium-sized onion, one tiny piece of bay leaf, one-fourth cup butter, one-third cup flour, four cups milk, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper.

Wash beans; cover with cold water and soak over night. Put beans on to cook in the same water in which they have been soaking. Bring to boiling point and boil gently for one hour. Force through a sieve and add to white sauce made by melting butter in top of double boiler, adding flour and when blended adding milk and seasonings, and cooking until thickened.

NO KEEPING HOUSE WITHOUT TOMATOES

There Is No Closed Season for This Appetizing Vegetable.

A great many of the winter dishes are not only enhanced in flavor, but materially increased in food value by the addition of tomatoes. For instance, a cream of tomato sauce gives entirely new zest to hard boiled eggs, to fish cakes, fish souffles, meat or fish croquettes, to boiled cauliflower, to Brussels sprouts or onions.

Then there is a delicious soup made from tomatoes and shredded codfish that is known as mock crab bisque because it tastes so much like crab. This is made by soaking shredded codfish for 10 minutes in boiling water, then drain it and add two cups of canned tomatoes, a sprig of parsley, a slice of onion, and a generous dash of cayenne pepper. Cover and simmer for 10 to 15 minutes and then rub through a coarse strainer. Every bit of the mixture but the tomato seeds will go through the strainer if your rub hard enough. Melt two tablespoons of butter, add three tablespoons of flour, then stir in the tomato mixture. Cook until thickened and boiling, add two cups of scalded milk and serve at once. Taste this and imagine what it would be like without the handy tomato.

Serve Hostess First.

In serving a dinner or other meal it is entirely correct for a husband to serve his wife, who is the hostess, first. However, some persons still cling to the older idea that it is more courteous to serve guests first.

DIFFERENCE IN WHOLE WHEAT AND GRAHAM FLOUR BREADS

Both Breads Generally Contain a Certain Proportion of White Flour.

There is no difference in whole wheat, entire wheat and graham flour, but in many cases the terms are used almost interchangeably.

Whole wheat really means 100 per cent whole wheat, that is, it means that the wheat berry is ground with nothing added or subtracted. Usually, however, the term is used to denote wheat flour from which the larger particles of bran have been removed.

Graham flour derives its name from Dr. Graham, who was one of the earliest advocates of the use of whole wheat flour. True graham flour and entire should also be 100 per cent whole wheat with nothing added or subtracted.

A great many bakers, however do not make their bread with 100 per cent whole wheat flour because it crumbles easily and does not slice well. A great deal of the so-called "whole wheat bread" on the market is made by adding a proportion of white flour to the whole wheat.

Varieties of Squash.

There are many varieties of squash, including the Italian, the Hubbard and the plain yellow squash. Any of these may be either baked, steamed or boiled and are good served mashed, seasoned with butter, pepper and salt or cut in dice and served with tomato or a cream sauce.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MEN[illegible]

Modern Housewives Take [illegible] Heart the Great Valu[illegible] of New Recipes.

In this week's menus we [illegible] used on Sunday rabbit, which [illegible] this time of the year both [illegible] and extremely palatable. [illegible] cooked a-la-Maryland, it has [illegible] of the flavor of chicken, [illegible] and requires very little [illegible] after the first preparation.

Rabbit a la Maryland.

Wash a young rabbit, [illegible] pieces for serving and soak in [illegible] salted water for at least an [illegible] to draw out the blood. Then [illegible] wipe with a piece of [illegible] and dip each piece in beaten [illegible] Then roll in fine dry breadcrumbs. Melt one-third cup of bacon [illegible] a deep frying pan, brown the [illegible] bit in the fat. Then add [illegible] of milk, season with salt and pepper. Cover the pan and bake [illegible] moderate oven for 35 to 40 minutes or until the rabbit is tender. Make a gravy by thickening the fat in the pan with two tablespoons of flour and adding one [illegible] milk or water, and serve [illegible]

French Toast With Apple[illegible]

Six slices of bread, [illegible] inch thick, two eggs, one [illegible] three-quarters cups milk, [illegible] half teaspoon salt, one [illegible] sugar, two cups thick apple [illegible] (fresh or canned).

Beat the eggs, add the [illegible] salt and sugar. Dip each slice [illegible] bread in the mixture and [illegible] brown in hot butter or drippings [illegible] a shallow frying pan. Spread [illegible] slice with apple sauce and [illegible] on hot plates. A spoon of [illegible] or any other bright jelly may [illegible] added for garnish and extra [illegible]

Scalloped Beets.

Two and one-half cups [illegible] beets (fresh or canned), two [illegible] spoons butter, two [illegible] flour, one and one-half cups [illegible] one teaspoon salt, one-[illegible] teaspoon Worcestershire [illegible] one-third cup grated cheese, [illegible] half cup fine breadcrumbs.

Melt butter, add the flour [illegible] stir in the milk. Stir over a [illegible] fire until thickened, smooth [illegible] boiling. Add the seasonings [illegible] the cheese. Put the beets in a [illegible]tered baking dish, pour the [illegible] over them, sprinkle with [illegible] crumbs and cook from eight [illegible] minutes in a hot oven or until [illegible] crumbs are browned.

Stuffed Prune Salad.

Large prunes, one cream [illegible] two tablespoons peanut butter [illegible] teaspoon lemon juice, one [illegible]ly diced celery, lettuce, [illegible]naise.

Allow three or four prunes [illegible] each serving. Cover them [illegible] cold water and let soak for [illegible] an hour. Then drain, remove [illegible] pits. Mix the cream cheese [illegible] the peanut butter and lemon [illegible] and add the celery. Stuff [illegible] prunes with the mixture, chill [illegible] serve on lettuce with well-[illegible] mayonnaise.

Deviled Lamb.

To serve four people about [illegible] to three and one-half pounds [illegible] the breast of lamb is required. There is considerable bone in [illegible] breast, but it is very inexpensive and delicious in flavor and [illegible] properly cooked very tender. [illegible] it cut in pieces about three [illegible] square and dip each piece in beaten egg, highly seasoned with [illegible] pepper and Worcestershire [illegible] Then roll in flour and brown [illegible] hot drippings. When brown [illegible] off the fat in the pan, add [illegible] tablespoon of vinegar and [illegible] boiling water to half cover [illegible] meat. Cover and cook slowly [illegible] 40 minutes. Fry three tablespoons of breadcrumbs until crisp [illegible] brown in a tablespoon of drippings. Remove the lamb to a hot platter, springle the breadcrumbs over and thicken the gravy in the pan.

CHILDREN'S LUNCH [illegible]

Mothers With Children [illegible] School Have Their Problems.

And now about the lunch-[illegible] Is it an up-to-date kit with separate compartments and [illegible] container for hot and cold [illegible] or is it the same kind of a [illegible] box you used to carry when you went to school? You wouldn't dress the kiddies as you dressed [illegible] your school days, so why give them an antique lunch-box when [illegible] adequate kits can be obtained at relatively small cost?

The next thing is to make [illegible] contents attractive—with some [illegible]licious surprise tucked away [illegible] side.

What new things are going [illegible] the lunch-box this year? This [illegible] the problem of the mother, and [illegible] requires just as much study [illegible] the correct solution as do the [illegible] new problems which the children ponder over.

Hamburg Steak Th[illegible]

Don't think of hamburg[illegible] only as fried steak. It is [illegible] to serve this form of meat [illegible] in a long roll, or a flat steak, [illegible] small cakes and to pan broil [illegible] better still, to broil it over the [illegible] or gas. For the latter [illegible] only an old-fashioned wire [illegible] well greased, and a little [illegible] shaping the meat so that it will not fall apart. The result [illegible] far more palatable and [illegible] than the same meat [illegible]

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Modern Housewives Take to Heart the Great Value of New Recipes.

In this week's menus we have used on Sunday rabbit, which is at this time of the year both cheap and extremely palatable. When cooked a-la-Maryland, it has much of the flavor of chicken, is tender and requires very little attention after the first preparation.

Rabbit a la Maryland.

Wash a young rabbit, cut in pieces for serving and soak in cold salted water for at least an hour to draw out the blood. Then drain, wipe with a piece of cheesecloth and dip each piece in beaten egg. Then roll in fine dry breadcrumbs. Melt one-third cup of bacon fat in a deep frying pan, brown the rabbit in the fat. Then add one cup of milk, season with salt and pepper. Cover the pan and bake in a moderate oven for 35 to 40 minutes or until the rabbit is tender. Make a gravy by thickening the fat in the pan with two tablespoons of flour and adding one cup of milk or water, and serve very hot.

French Toast With Applesauce.

Six slices of bread, one-third inch thick, two eggs, one and three-quarters cups milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, two cups thick apple sauce (fresh or canned).

Beat the eggs, add the milk, salt and sugar. Dip each slice of bread in the mixture and then brown in hot butter or drippings in a shallow frying pan. Spread each slice with apple sauce and serve on hot plates. A spoon of currant or any other bright jelly may be added for garnish and extra flavor.

Scalloped Beets.

Two and one-half cups sliced beets (fresh or canned), two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk, one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one-third cup grated cheese, one-half cup fine breadcrumbs.

Melt butter, add the flour and stir in the milk. Stir over a slow fire until thickened, smooth and boiling. Add the seasonings and the cheese. Put the beets in a buttered baking dish, pour the sauce over them, sprinkle with breadcrumbs and cook from eight to 10 minutes in a hot oven or until the crumbs are browned.

Stuffed Prune Salad.

Large prunes, one cream cheese, two tablespoons peanut butter, one teaspoon lemon juice, one cup finely diced celery, lettuce, mayonnaise.

Allow three or four prunes for each serving. Cover them with cold water and let soak for about an hour. Then drain, remove the pits. Mix the cream cheese with the peanut butter and lemon juice and add the celery. Stuff the prunes with the mixture, chill and serve on lettuce with well-seasoned mayonnaise.

Deviled Lamb.

To serve four people about three to three and one-half pounds of the breast of lamb is required. There is considerable bone in the breast, but it is very inexpensive and delicious in flavor and when properly cooked very tender. Have it cut in pieces about three inches square and dip each piece in beaten egg, highly seasoned with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Then roll in flour and brown in hot drippings. When brown drain off the fat in the pan, add one tablespoon of vinegar and enough boiling water to half cover the meat. Cover and cook slowly for 40 minutes. Fry three tablespoons of breadcrumbs until crisp and brown in a tablespoon of drippings. Remove the lamb to a hot platter, sprinkle the breadcrumbs over it and thicken the gravy in the pan.

CHILDREN'S LUNCH BOXES

Mothers With Children Attending School Have Their Problems.

And now about the lunch-box. Is it an up-to-date kit with separate compartments and perhaps a container for hot and cold foods—or is it the same kind of a lunch-box you used to carry when you went to school? You wouldn't dress the kiddies as you dressed in your school days, so why give them an antique lunch-box when really adequate kits can be obtained at a relatively small cost?

The next thing is to make the contents attractive—with some delicious surprise tucked away inside.

What new things are going into the lunch-box this year? This is the problem of the mother, and it requires just as much study for the correct solution as do those new problems which the children ponder over.

Hamburg Steak Thoughts.

Don't think of hamburg steak only as fried steak. It is possible to serve this form of meat either in a long roll, or a flat steak, or in small cakes and to pan broil it, or better still, to broil it over the coals or gas. For the latter one needs only an old-fashioned wide broiler, well greased, and a little care in shaping the meat so that it will not fall apart. The result is a dish far more palatable and digestible than the same meat served fried.

WHEN FOUR WOMEN GO HOUSEKEEPING

What They Should Purchase Every Day in the Way of Foods.

In our crowded city business women are forming themselves into medium-sized groups for the sake of getting the advantages derived from co-operative housekeeping. Better apartments may be rented, better neighborhoods enjoyed and the individual share of expense considerably cut down if four women in this business group pool their incomes.

Since my special interest is in food, I should like to tell such a group of four what might be done in the way of simplifying their food problem. Because of the fact that fruits and vegetables are coming to be universally recognized as very important foods, this brief talk will be largely about these foods. I have kept in mind the fact that many women are careful not to overeat in the way of starches and other so-called fattening foods and have based these suggestions on carefully made Government studies.

So our four friends will do well if they provide themselves daily with a pound and one-half of cereals, three-quarters of a pound of beef, two quarts of milk, four eggs, three pounds of potatoes and one and one-quarter pounds of green beans, peas or two pounds of other vegetables or fruit the equivalent of a dozen oranges or six apples. One-half pound of butter and cooking fat together and one-half pound of sugar.

Lest the casual reading of this list suggests a one-sided diet, let me hasten to inform you that the ration provides more than one-fifth of the necessary body building material and one-third of the energy. The meat is, of course, valuable chiefly as an adjunct. Even women of very generous incomes need add to such a ration as I have outlined only a more generous supply of meat and they will have an ideal diet.

A menu based on the above list will be as follows:

For breakfast the equivalent of two quarts of berries or two pounds of grapes, two cups of cooked cereal, a quart of milk, six slices of toast with two ounces of butter, an allowance of two ounces of sugar for cereal and coffee.

For luncheon a vegetable dish, either salad or hot, containing the equivalent of four potatoes, and equal quantities of some other vegetables such as string beans, peas, beets or cucumbers with two ounces of fat or salad oil, 12 ounces of bread and the same quantity of butter, fruit and sugar as at breakfast.

For dinner if the small allowance of meat is adhered to, a meat pie with a potato crust, one-half a peck of peas, or the equivalent of other vegetables, six slices of bread, three ounces of butter and a dessert containing the equivalent of two pounds of fruit, a cup of milk and two to four tablespoons of fat. Such a plan as this may, of course, be adopted for the use of larger groups.

Garnish Fish Salads.

The homemaker who serves a delicate salad of lobster, crabmeat or flaked fish, without featuring a garnish, fails to make the most of her dish.

What Americans Eat.

The average American, according to recent statistics, eats 150 pounds of meat a year. In the same space, he consumes 20 pounds of potatoes and 150 eggs. He eats, however, less wheat than the Frenchman.

Tired people . . .

SO MANY women, so many men, can't last through the day. Even mid-afternoon finds them listless and spent. Hopelessly tired. Work, home — life itself — holds little for them.

What a difference it would mean if they but realized the part constipation plays in ruining health and sapping human energy. Constipation is the beginning of many a pain—that leads in the end to untold diseases. It steals youth. Mocks beauty. Kills ambition. Spreads misery far and wide.

Yet it can be so easily relieved. So surely and safely prevented. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve it promptly and pleasantly. To prevent it ever beginning its deadly work.

Why "all-bran" is necessary

To relieve constipation naturally, the system must have plenty of bulk or roughage. ALL-BRAN, because it is 100% bran, furnishes this bulk in generous quantity. Here is what happens: It absorbs moisture and carries it through the intestines — exercising them, gently sweeping out poisons and wastes. There is seldom enough bulk to properly do this work in a part-bran product. That is why doctors recommend Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is 100% bran and produces 100% results.

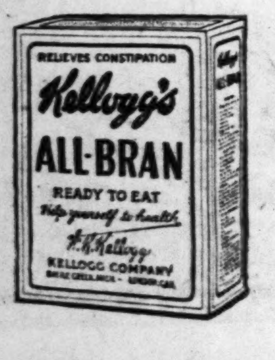
Farewell, dangerous drugs

How much better is ALL-BRAN than habit-forming pills and laxatives—whose dose must be constantly increased to remain effective. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a pleasant cereal food. Contains valuable minerals that help build strength and health. Don't you agree that it is far safer and far better to correct constipation in this natural, healthful way than to risk pills, drugs or part-bran products?

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—with fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking too. Recipes on every package. Sprinkle it into soups. Mix it with other cereals. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

But insist on genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Don't risk part-bran substitutes which, at most, can prove but partially effective. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants. On dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN



Guaranteed!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely we will refund the purchase price.

Chow Mein

4 pounds chicken.
½ pound spinach.
3 sprays parsley.
1 can Chow Mein noodles.
1 cup onions, sliced.
2 cups diced celery.
¼ cup salad oil.
2 eggs.

Boil the chicken until tender in salted water to cover, adding the spinach and parsley for flavor. When chicken is tender, drain and cut meat in strips. Cook the vegetables in the oil, add the chicken and cook together five minutes. Heat the noodles, and arrange in serving dish, putting the chicken and vegetables in the center. The garnish for this dish is prepared by beating two eggs slightly and pouring them over a tablespoon of salad oil in a hot frying pan. Cook slowly until set and dry, then turn out onto a board and cut in long narrow strips. Serve on top the Chow Mein. The accompanying dish is, of course, rice.

Chop Suey

1½ lbs. veal, chicken or lean pork.
¼ cup salad oil.
1½ cups onions, sliced.
1½ cups bamboo shoots.
1½ cups bean sprouts.
1½ cups celery.
2 cups mushrooms.
Ginger root.
1 tablespoon sorghum.
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 bouillon cube.
1 cup boiling water.

Cook pork in the oil fifteen minutes, add the onions and three minutes later stir in the bamboo shoots sliced as thin as paper and cut in wedge-shaped pieces; then the bean sprouts, celery and mushrooms, shredded fine, and the ginger root. Cook ten minutes, then add sorghum, soy sauce and bouillon cube dissolved in water. Serve in a covered bowl with rice.

The Chinese Method of Cooking Rice

Wash the rice thoroughly and put into a heavy kettle, adding one and one-quarter cupfuls of cold water to every cup of rice. Cover tightly, set over a low flame and allow to cook until tender, about one and one-half hours. Do not disturb, nor stir while cooking.

If you are having a real Chinese dinner you will omit the bread, beef, salt, coffee or dairy products from your menu.

Try Pan Fried Cereals.

Pan fried cereals make a good luncheon or supper dish, especially when served with butter, syrup or gravy. Pour leftover cereal, such as cornmeal, hominy, farina, etc., into a pan rinsed with cold water. Let stand in a cold place until firm. Cut in slices one-half inch thick, dip in flour or beaten egg and fry in butter, drippings or bacon fat.

Concerning Bacon.

Bacon, though belonging to the pork family, is, unlike its relatives, easy of digestion. This is explained as being due to the fact that the fat of bacon is in a granular form that is easy for the digestive juices to act upon, and therefore bacon can be eaten by persons who very often cannot digest other forms of fat.

DRIED FRUITS AND HONEY MAKE SWEETS FOR CHILDREN

There Is An Instant Appeal and a Certain Fascination In These Sweetmeats.

Children are fond of sweets, and, as a matter of fact, should have a certain amount of them. However, care must be taken that they are not eaten between meals or to take away the appetite for other foods. Dried fruits and honey offer forms of sweets for children.

Very good confections can be made from the sun-dried fruits such as raisins, dates, figs, prunes, apricots and peaches. Steam them just enough to soften them, then cut them in strips and roll them in sugar. Or the fruit may be put through the meat chopper, moistened with honey and rolled into pieces.

Sweets of this character are nutritious as they contain natural sugars that are easy to assimilate and digest, and are also rich in minerals.

Steamed Pudding.

Slices of dry layer or loaf cake make excellent pudding if steamed for a minute and a hot raisin sauce is poured over them just before serving.

WHEN THE FAMILY DINES ALONE

Simple Desserts With Proper Nutritive Value and Easily Made.

Train your family to the enjoyment of very simple desserts. Such dishes as fruit puddings, rice with a dusting of powdered sugar and cinnamon or plain boiled rice with a border of stewed fruit or even stewed fruit by itself with plain cake or cookies are all excellent desserts and will save your time and the digestion of your family. Hearty desserts such as pies and rich puddings should be reserved for meals that are in themselves not quite adequate in food value.

A very nourishing dessert following a full menu will be likely to overbalance the diet.

Here are recipes for some palatable simple desserts that are also attractive and easily made:

Hearty Pudding.

Good for old and young, for morning, noon or night, and is easily made. Put one quart of water and milk into top of double boiler; when boiling add one and one-quarter cups cornmeal and one teaspoon salt slowly, stirring quite often, and boil one hour. Serve with either maple syrup, maple sugar, brown sugar, molasses or milk and sugar.

Cream Pudding.

One cupful of tapioca soaked over night in cold water. Boil one quart of milk and stir in the tapioca; boil 10 minutes, stirring all the time. Dissolve one tablespoonful of corn starch in one-half cupful of milk, add the beaten yolks of four eggs, stir into the tapioca; add a little salt, sweeten to taste and boil up once. Flavor to taste. Beat the whites of four eggs and two tablespoonfuls of sugar; flavor, spread over the pudding and brown lightly in the oven.

Baked Tapioca Pudding.

Wash four tablespoonfuls of tapioca in water. Let it boil with one quart of milk and the thin rind of a lemon or orange, or one inch of cinnamon. Pour it into a utensil, let it get cold, sweeten it and then take out the peel. Beat up with three eggs and one ounce of butter. Pour it into a buttered dish and bake in a hot oven. The edge of the dish may be lined with puff paste.

Apple Tapioca Pudding.

Soak one cupful of tapioca overnight in six cupfuls of water. Next morning add six large tart apples chopped fine, and one cupful of sugar. Bake slowly about four hours. Serve either warm or cold with sweetened cream.

Cranberry Delight.

Wash one pint of cranberries and cover with cold water. Cook quickly for 10 minutes and press through sieve. Halve six large ripe bananas lengthwise and squeeze juice of lemon over them. Add one and one-half cups sugar to cranberry juice, stir well and pour over bananas. Place in hot oven and bake until the bananas are tender. Remove to a serving dish and cool well. The cranberry juice when cooled will be a rich sweet jelly.

Quick Dessert.

Freshly baked angel-cake or cream sponge cake with hot chocolate sauce, either with or without a sprinkling of chopped nuts, may be served as a pudding.

A KITCHENETTE DINNER FOR HUSBAND AND WIFE

Ready Prepared Foods and Canned Goods Make Kitchenette Cooking Easy.

An old Southern mammy who suddenly found herself transported from the big Virginia kitchen of an old colonial home to a St. Louis apartment where her mistress was to spend the winter, looked with dismay at the modern but tiny kitchenette. She wedged her ample form between the range and built-in cupboard and rolled her eyes to the ceiling.

"Why, honey," she exclaimed, "they ain't room heah to throw a flap-jack!"

Throwing flap-jacks is something of an art in the modern kitchenette, just as cooking a man-size meal is, but cooking is simplified with the aid of ready-prepared food and casseroles to tuck away in the oven.

Here is a menu for two:

Chicken Casserole
Baked Potatoes
Canned Asparagus and Cheese Salad
Sliced Pineapple
Demi-tasse

Chicken Caserole: Place [illegible] slices of bacon in the bottom of casserole. Cut finely six carrots, six small potatoes, one stalk celery and add one-half cup canned peas. Place a layer of these vegetables over the bacon. Place small lumps butter on top of vegetables. Sprinkle with pepper and salt. Then add a layer of chicken from a one-pound can. Alternate bacon, vegetables and chicken until the casserole is full, having the last layer bacon. Add one teaspoon kitchen bouquet in two cups water. Bake two hours in moderate oven. Serve in casserole.

Impromptu Salad.

Quarter large dill pickles lengthwise and cut strips of Swiss cheese to correspond. Arrange on water cress or lettuce leaves and garnish with strips of canned pimiento. Serve with French dressing.

MACARONI, SPAGHETTI AND NOODLE DISHES

They Offer an Abundant Supply of Fuel for Hard Manual Labor.

Spaghetti, noodles and macaroni are among the most popular food products with all classes and kinds of people. Consequently, recipes for making attractive dishes with these foods are always in demand. The following suggestions for making palatable dishes will be appreciated by home cooks.

French Fried Noodles.

Take two eggs, one-half cup milk and deep fat for frying. Boil until tender one package of noodles, drain and chill.

Beat eggs slightly and bix with milk. Stir lightly into cooked noodle and drop in spoonsful into deep fat. Fry until golden brown.

For Sunday morning breakfast try this dish with little pig sausage.

Spinach With Noodles.

Take one peck spinach or one can, one-fourth pound cheese, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half pound cold boiled ham, one teaspoon butter, paprika and one package noodles.

Boil noodles until tender. Wash spinach very carefully. Then place in pan with just the water that clings to the leaves and allow to steam over low flame until tender. Drain thoroughly and chop fine. Add butter, salt and paprika. Mix spinch and chopped ham, and place in center of platter. Surround with noodles over which grated cheese has been sprinkled. Bacon may be used.

Spaghetti a la Goldenrod.

Take two cups milk, two tablespoons butter, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two tablespoons flour, two eggs, two hard-cooked eggs and a pinch of pepper.

Boil until tender one package spaghetti; then drain.

Make white sauce of butter, flour and milk. When it boils remove from stove and add two eggs which have been beaten slightly. Add salt and pepper and pour over spaghetti, garnish with hard-cooked eggs—the yolks of which have been grated and the white cut into small pieces.

Macaroni and Asparagus.

Cook one cup broken macaroni. Drain, then cover with cold water until thoroughly chilled. Drain again. Add 12 sliced stuffed olives and one-half cup mayonnaise or cooked dressing. Arrange in center of individual serving dishes and place three stalks of canned asparagus on each side. Add salad dressing to tips of asparagus and garnish with stuffed olives.

Macaroni and Cheese.

Boil macaroni in salted water for 20 minutes. Throw into cold water and drain. Cook a tablespoon of butter and one of flour together, add gradually a large cup milk, season with pepper and salt. Cut up one-half pound of cheese into sauce, and when melted put with alternate layers of macaroni in a baking dish. Put bread crumbs and bits of butter on top and bake 15 minutes.

Tunafish and Noodles.

Cook a package of noodles until tender. Flake a can of tunafish and add noodles to fish. Make about a cup and a half of white sauce to fish and noodles and bake about half an hour in casserole.

COOK CABBAGE THIS WAY TO GET THE BEST OUT OF IT

Few Foods Have Been More Abused in Cooking Than Has Cabbage.

Cabbage is good or bad, depending almost entirely on how it is cooked, or whether it is cooked at all. Many a culinary crime has been committed against the poor boiled cabbage, and as a vegetable it has had for some time rather an evil reputation. Modern methods of cooking have done much to remove part of this bad reputation and to put cabbage in the place that it deserves.

This vegetable, of which there are about 70 varieties, most of which, however, do not find their way into the markets, contains a volatile oil that is rich in sulphur and hydrogen and that is driven off by careless cooking. It is this combined odor of sulphur and hydrogen that is so strong and penetrating and that makes poorly cooked cabbage such an objectionable guest.

To cook it properly, cut in quarters, remove the core, and soak the cabbage for at least half an hour in cold water. Then drain, cut in small pieces and cover with boiling water. Boil rapidly in an uncovered saucepan for 15 minutes, add salt—about one tablespoon to a medium-sized cabbage—and continue cooking for 10 minutes longer, or until the cabbage is tender. Then drain, chop and season with salt, pepper and butter.

Cooked in this way cabbage will be white, delicate in flavor, tasty, and easy of digestion. There will be no objectionable odor in the home as is the case when the pan is covered and the cabbage cooked for an hour or more. Long cooking not only darkens it and sometimes turns it pink, but nearly always develops a bitter or strong flavor.

In cooking, some of vitamin C is lost, and for this reason raw cabbage should be served during the winter months, especially when fresh fruits are more difficult to obtain. Raw cabbage can be served in a number of ways; combined with diced pineapple, or with apples it makes a delightful salad, or it may be used in combination with cooked potatoes, to make a hearty potato salad, or used instead of celery in a combination salad.

Tips on Bread Baking.

Be sure your yeast is fresh.

Sift the flour several times, as it is packed under pressure and air is good for it.

Be sure the flour is warm. You will spoil your bread if the flour is cold. When the dough is light enough to bake, it should be twice the size it was when set to rise.

Keep temperature uniform during rising.

White House Coffee Souffle.

Take one and one-half cups hot coffee, one tablespoon gelatine, one-third cup granulated sugar and one-half cup milk.

Mix the ingredients together and heat in a double boiler; add yolks of three eggs, slightly beaten and mixed with one-third cup granulated sugar and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Cook mixture until it thickens. Take off the fire and add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff, and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Mold, chill and serve with whipped cream.

Salt Has Food Value.

Salt is a source of sodium—one of the minerals required by the body; but pepper and other spices and seasonings have no nutritive value. Some of them, when used with discretion, have dietetic value as they increase this palatability of food and make a variety of combinations possible.

Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour is guaranteed by the largest millers in the world to give uniformly perfect results with every kind of baking.

The reason this guarantee can be given is simply this: Every batch of Gold Medal Flour is actually "kitchen-tested" before it leaves the mill. It is tested for pies, cakes, pastries, biscuits, bread—everything! That is why it cuts baking failures in half.

And that is why over two million women use it in preference to all other brands.

Buy a sack of this light, snow-white flour today. Try it for all baking.

If you are not delighted with the results—return the unused portion of the sack to your grocer and he will refund your money.

CALIFORNIA'S gem of all desserts—is now here! Fix its name firmly in your mind—Jell-WELL.

Already thousands of St. Louis families have adopted it as their favorite dessert. Once you try it Jell-well will have your preference, too.

Saves Time

This new dessert is quickly prepared—so gives you more time for other things. You merely add boiling water—then set aside to cool.

Soon Jell-well is ready to serve—a complete success. Jell-well ALWAYS jells WELL. For that alone it is famous.

Hold Jell-well to the light. Note its pure transparency. How much better it looks on your table. Even more beautiful if you make it in the mold shown above.

You'll find Jell-well healthful, too. It digests in a few minutes—so aids in the assimilation of other foods. It's especially good for children, specialists agree.

But for luscious western fruit flavors you will prefer Jell-well most. Loganberries, Strawberries, and Raspberries of Oregon and Washington. Oranges of California, etc.

You'll Like It

After you try Jell-well—any flavor—you'll say: "That's the best dessert I ever tasted."

Then, we feel sure, you'll be glad to tell others about it.

Mucho Gusto!
Libby's Chili Con Carne

A SPICY THRILL—mucho gusto (plenty of flavor)—from Old Mexico in the rare sauce of Libby's Chili Con Carne blended with plump beans and tender beef. Your grocer has it.

ONE ADVANTAGE OF WINTER IS THAT WE HAVE APPLES

In Flavor In Texture and In Usefulness They Deserve Their Long Popularity.

Let the children eat all the apples they want. There is very little danger of them spoiling their appetites, and they will provide roughage and the minerals necessary to keep the body well regulated.

There are a great many varieties of apples, some of which are best raw, while the flavor of others is better in the cooked state. Jonathans are a medium red and moderately acid apple and are in season from October well into the middle of the winter months; they are among the best of the eating apples. Greenings and the Twenty-Ounce Pippins and the Wealthy varieties are excellent for cooking.

When combining apples with raw foods, as in the making of salads, remember that apples are quite firm and crisp in texture and combine well with celery, nuts, cabbage, pineapple or any of the soft fruits. Tuna fish salad made up of the canned fish combined with apples and celery makes a very good winter salad and is a little different from the ordinary.

Do not combine apples with foods which have a very strong flavor of their own. Combine them with the bland foods, and in the making of desserts keep in mind that tapioca, rice and bread crumbs can all be used to make substantial and wholesome desserts.

Spices such as cinnamon and cloves will very often bring out the flavor of apples that are a little insipid. Sometimes the little red cinnamon candies are used instead of dry spice and lend color as well as flavor. For example, very good pink apple sauce can be made by stewing a dozen or so of these little red candies with the apples.

Sauted apple rings make a very good breakfast dish when combined with bacon or with sausage. For these wash and core, but do not peel the apples. Cut them across in rings or slices about one-quarter inch thick and cook in hot bacon fat, sprinkling them with a little brown sugar. It is best to cover the pan while the apples are cooking as they will brown better. Serve them on a hot plate with a border of crisp bacon.

Fried Liverwurst.

Fry one-fourth pound sliced bacon until crisp, pouring off the fat as the bacon fries, and remove to a hot platter. Core four tart apples without paring, and cut these and one-half pound of smoked liverwurst into slices about one-fourth inch thick. Roll each slice in cornmeal and fry slowly in the hot bacon fat. Service with overlapping apple rings surrounding the meat and bacon.

DINNER AND LUNCH SAUSAGE DISHES

This Time of Year Pork Is a Particularly Happy Choice.

Everyone likes savory sausage and this is tne time of year when it is relished most. Buckwheat cakes and pork sausages, what a breakfast for a snappy, cold day, but breakfast is not the only meal when sausage is hailed with delight by the entire family. Try some of these sausage recipes for dinner or supper and see how much the family will enjoy them.

Sausage With Cabbage.

Shred a medium-sized head of cabbage. Add one teaspoon of salt and one-fourth cup of water. Simmer slowly until tender. Fry one pound of bulk sausage gently, tossing constantly with a fork so that it will not become too brown. Mix the sausage thoroughly with the cabbage. Heap on a shallow baking dish and brown to a golden brown in a hot oven. Serve with baked sweet potatoes.

Creole Sausage.

Prick one pound of sausages and put into a saucepan with one-half can of tomatoes, a pounded clove of garlic, and salt and pepper to taste. Cover and simmer gently for 30 minutes. If desired, the sausages may be browned first in their own fat. Thicken the liquid with a little flour rubbed smooth in butter and blended with a little cold water. Serve with a garnish of toast points.

Sausage Croquettes.

Mix one pint hot mashed potato, one well-beaten egg yolk, one tablespoon butter, and salt, cayenne and celery salt and a few drops onion juice. Have ready a few small cooked sausages. With a small sausage in center, shape potato into croquettes, dip in the crumbs and then in egg and crumbs again, and fry in hot deep fat. Drain on unglazed paper.

Frankfurter Dainty.

Make a biscuit dough of two cups sifted flour, four teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons melted shortening, one teaspoon salt and seven-eighths cup of milk or water.

Sift dry ingredients twice. Work in fat; add enough milk or water to make soft dough. Toss dough on floured board; roll to half-inch thickness. Cut in squares. Spread frankfurter with mustard and roll up with biscuit dough, wetting edges of biscuit dough with cold water to hold them together. Bake 20 minutes.

Making Bean Soup.

Many persons like to use the water in which a ham bone or piece of corned beef has been cooked instead of plain water. On the other hand, those who do not care for so strong a flavor may prefer the more delicate soup which results from using plain water.

Nice Winter Salad.

Split figs lengthwise, scoop out part of pulp and add this to cream cheese, olives, seasonings and two teaspoons of French dressing. Lay halved figs on lettuce or cress, pile a portion of cheese mixture high in each half and pour additional French dressing over all.

3 MINUTE OAT FLAKES
Fireless Cooked—At The Mill For Twelve Hours

They know the DIFFERENCE between 3 Minute Oat Flakes and Ordinary "Quick-Cooking" Oats.

$500.00 in Cash Prizes for the Best Reasons Why your Grocer should sell 3 Minute Oat Flakes

It is important to us to know why the people of St. Louis and its suburbs think their grocers should sell the Genuine 3 Minute Oat Flakes. To get this valuable information, we are offering $500.00 in cash prizes for the best letters or essays on the subject, "Why I think my grocer shoull sell 3 Minute Oak Flakes." Thousands of women in other cities have given us their reasons and to assist you we are listing below three good reasons. Read them over, then write your answer—it may be the very one which will win the first prize in St. Louis.

3 GOOD REASONS

1 Because It Is Fireless Cooked—at the Mill—for 12 Hours

3 Minute Oat Flakes is not Rolled Oats or so-called Rapid or Quick Oats, but it is distinctly different from any oat product that you have ever tasted, in quality, appearance and flavor. This is because the Genuine 3 Minute Oak Flakes is made under our new and exclusive process during which it is Fireless Cooked—At the Mill—for 12 Hours, breaking down the starch cells so that the cooking is completed on your stove in exactly 3 minutes. This is why 3 Minute Oat Flakes is the only oat flakes that cook thoroughly in exactly 3 minutes. Once you have tried 3 Minute Oat Flakes, you will not be satisfied with ordinary oats, therefore, look for the Big Red 3 on the package which readily distinguishes the genuine from all imitations.

2 Because It Has a New Nut-Like Flavor Found in No Other Oats

Fireless Cooked—at the Mill—for 12 Hours in big tight cookers that retain and thoroughly blend all of the proteins, minerals, volatile oils and vitamins, these plump, selected oat grains develop a new, nut-like deliciousness heretofore unknown in any oat product.

3 Because Children Like It and It is Good for Them

Children who must be coaxed to eat other cereal are fond of 3 Minute Oat Flakes because of its light, fluffy, appetizing appearance in the dish and its different delicious flavor. As all of the food value of the whole grain is retained, it is an unequaled builder for their little bodies.

After investigation, if you find the grocers in your neighborhood are not yet selling 3 Minute Oat Flakes, send us this coupon completely filled out together with 3c for postage and we will mail you a trial sample and a booklet containing many reasons why your grocer should sell 3 Minute Oat Flakes.

WHY NOT COMBAT FOOD SUPERSTITIONS?

Scientific Research Has Proven Most of Them Are Unfounded.

Probably most of us are superstitious to a more or less degree though probably, also, many of us will deny it. Food superstitions are among the most tenacious.

For instance, almost all of us have some sort of feeling against combining lobster and ice cream. Tomatoes also have long been regarded as taboo by many people because they supposedly "produced acid."

There are many people who are afraid to eat mushrooms and others complain that eggs make them bilious or that cucumbers are indigestible and should never be eaten. Onions are also often regarded as not a fit food for humans. The argument is that if in their preparation they affect the eyes in such a painful manner, they must naturally have some dire effect on the lining of the stomach. There is also the superstition about eating acid fruits and drinking milk at the same meal. In fact, one might go on almost indefinitely. However, modern scientific research is rapidly proving that most of these superstitions are unfounded and that it is not the foods themselves, but the condition of our systems at the time that we eat them that occasionally causes digestive disturbances.

To go back to lobster and ice cream. Lobster, itself, is a concentrated protein food with very little fat. The protein of lobster is no more indigestible than other protein foods. Lobster is usually an expensive food and is often served at parties or rather elaborate feasts and it is usually because we overeat of other things or eat foods that are rich in fats that we suffer the effects that are blamed on the poor lobster.

A great many years ago tomatoes were regarded as absolute poison. However the brave people who ate them were able to prove that they were not harmful. Gradually the superstition grew up that tomatoes produced acid and should, therefore, not be eaten when an acid condition of the system was indicated, such as, for instance, in cases of gout or rheumatism. Modern scientific research has shown the tomatoes to be one of the most valuable foods that we have from the standpoint of minerals and vitamins.

IT IS NOT UNFASHIONABLE TO EAT THE SALAD LETTUCE

There Are Other Ways of Serving Lettuce Besides in the Popular Salad.

No dietary whether for debutante or octogenerian is complete unless it contains lettuce in generous quantity.

Why?

For many reasons. One of the first being that lettuce contributes bulk. The unfortunate who must follow a diet for overweight may have as much lettuce as he likes and it is surprising how far it will go toward appeasing that gnawing which comes when a reducing diet is ordered.

Bulk is relatively unimportant for the reason that many foods supply it. Again, unless there is enough bulk in the diet, this same sense of gnawing hunger is so persistent that we are apt to keep on eating until we have had enough bulk. A still more important reason is that lettuce is so actively base-forming or alkaline that if it is eaten for a time as the chief bulk food one may rest in comfortable assurance that he is providing his excretory system with plenty of roughage. At the same time he is helping to correct the acid condition. The only foods that are ahead of lettuce in base-forming properties are cauliflower, chard, cucumbers, figs, rhubarb and the already much-talked-of spinach.

In lettuce there is food lime, phosphorus in abundance and even an unusual quantity of food iron.

As most people know, it is no longer unfashionable to eat the lettuce of one's salad and it is quite worth while to study new ways of serving it. Lettuce sandwiches to vary the every day bread and butter, cream of lettuce soup for luncheon; lettuce as a change from other vegetables, and all these in addition to the already popular and understood salad.

In early times lettuce was supposed to contain opium. As a matter of fact it is a good nerve tonic, but one need not fear as to the effect of its opium.

Dried Fruit Juices.

Prunes well washed and soaked in two cups of water to the pound, and then cooked in the liquid furnish a fruit juice which can be served apart from the fruit as a beverage. Apricots and peaches, nicely washed and soaked, give a fine and tonic morning drink.

Food for Winter.

Don't forget sauerkraut during the cold days. This is an excellent dish to serve at least once a week. The healthful acids formed in its preparation are especially good for all disturbances of digestion accompanied by fermentation in the intestines.

ANSWERING AN INQUIRY ABOUT A PROTEIN DIET

Here is a very carefully planned menu that is almost protein free. There should be four meals, and at breakfast about five or six ounces of fruit, sliced oranges, peaches, apples, bananas, raisin juice, prune juice and the like. Three and one-half ounces of a skin fruit. For example, if sliced oranges are used, have three and one-half ounces of mashed bananas. Then three and one-half ounces of gruel made from rice, cornmeal or oatmeal with which one-quarter ounce of some green vegetable such as lettuce, celery, or tomatoes, a cup of cereal coffee with one ounce of cream are served.

Four hours later, three ounces of a vegetable broth made of potatoes of some green vegetable with no meat stock, one ounce and one-half of lettuce of some other salad, three and one-half ounces of fruit juice, four ounces of fresh fruit served with two ounces of malt sugar.

Four hours later, four and three-quarters ounces of vegetable boullion, four ounces of a vegetable like string beans and two and one-half of stewed tomatoes and three ounces of some kind of greens. A dessert of six and one-half ounces of melon, six ounces of apple juice and three-quarters of an ounce of dates or steamed seedless raisins. For the evening meal which should be after another interval of four hours, a cup of vegetable extract, three ounces of salad plant such as Swiss chard, four ounces of fresh peas, six ounces of fruit juice.

Super Suds Demonstration in New York Domestic Science Class.

UNLIKE any soap you have ever known. No more scrubbing and extra rinsing. Say good-by to your washboard. New patented* process makes possible these remarkable results

A NEW way to make soap has been discovered! A way that banishes once for all the hardest part of washday drudgery . . . that brings a new household blessing to 30 million American women.

It's an entirely new type of soap that makes clothes whiter than ever before. That dissolves instantly. That rinses quickly. That washes dishes in much less time, with far less work.

The name of this remarkable new product is Super Suds. It's an Octagon creation . . . developed by the oldest soap manufacturer in America.

What it is—what it does

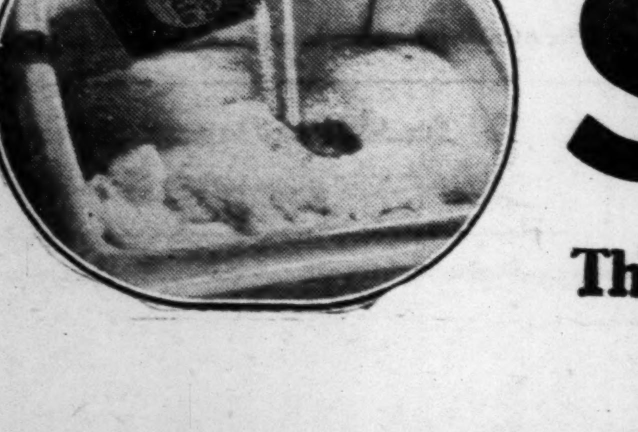
Super Suds is an entirely new type of soap . . . different in form, action and result from any you have ever known before.

You can see the difference under a magnifying glass. See it in the whiteness of your clothes. See it in the lustrous polish on your dishes and in the velvet smoothness of your hands.

It is actually soap in tiny thin-walled "beads" . . . the result of a revolutionary manufacturing discovery.

Scientists developed it. Found the way to make soap of microscopic thinness. Four times as thin as chip soap. By far the thinnest type of soap ever discovered. Tests show it is by far the most completely soluble in the shortest time.

Throw away your dish towels! Super Suds rinses off completely and leaves no sign of film . . . china and glassware gleam and glisten as though they'd been polished with a cloth.



Just pour a little Super Suds into your tub or electric washer . . . Quick as a flash you get rich, lively suds. Super Suds dissolves quicker than any soap you've ever used before.

The minute these tiny beads touch water — active suds result. No stirring or shaking is necessary. They dissolve instantly! Like magic! No other type of soap is like it. No other type of soap can give you such astonishing results.

We make this statement without reservation . . . for both chip and flake soap are Octagon products. We know from countless scientific tests that this is the soap of the future. Without question, it will make all others obsolete.

For every household use

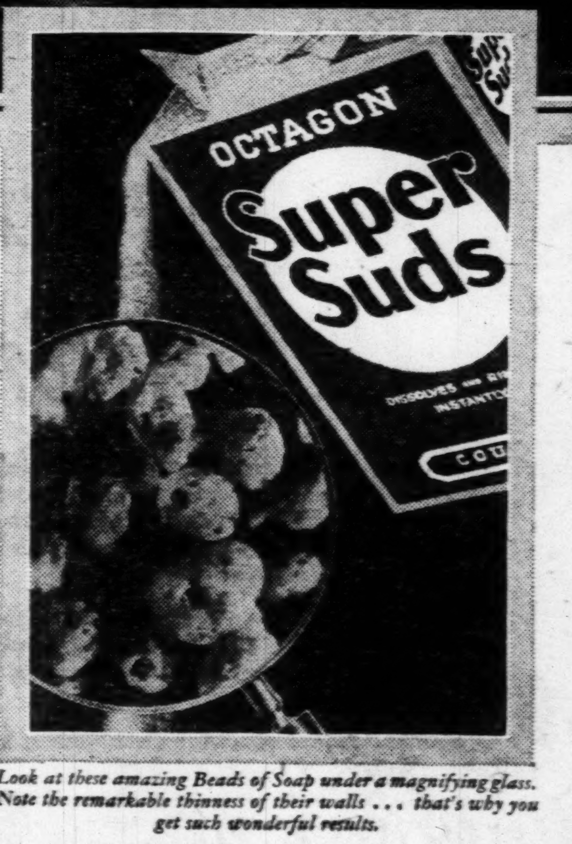
And now comes the best news of all. Super Suds was especially designed for general household use—created for fine fabrics, laundry . . . and dishwashing, too. Thus one soap now does everything you want a soap to do.

Super Suds cannot harm the daintiest fabrics . . . washes lingerie with complete safety. And for the heavy work on washday, it is absolutely without a rival. These facts are based upon highest scientific authority . . . the result of test after test in laboratories and the home.

Super Suds dissolves more rapidly than any soap you've ever used before. That's the secret of its quick suds and its cleansing magic.

Instantly—it bursts into a rich, running suds. Action suds! Suds that actually swish about in the washtub—penetrating every fold of cloth—seeping around every fibre—washing away all grease and grime.

There's no need to use your washboard now. No need to scrub and rub until your back just aches from the strain. Leave it to Super Suds to soak out the dirt without this tedious work.



Look at these amazing Beads of Soap under a magnifying glass. Note the remarkable thinness of their walls . . . that's why you get such wonderful results.

With Super Suds you'll save much time and effort in rinsing alone. That's because it dissolves so completely. No soap particles are left clinging to fabrics.

Clothes dry out with lovely new whiteness. There's never a trace of "soap stain." You simply won't be able to realize that a soap can make such a difference in the color of your wash.

New way to wash dishes

No film—No reddened hands

Smooth, lovely hands . . . in spite of three dishwashings a day. China, silver, and glasses . . . that sparkle like diamonds.

That's what Super Suds offers you . . . a new and better way to wash dishes that's faster . . . easier . . . than any you've ever known before.

What a Choice We Have In Crackers and Wafers

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City
United States Senator From New York.

In the old days all our biscuits came from the family kitchen. Not so today—now they come from the commercial bakers. The old-time recipes have been appropriated and from the modern establishments come products which rival the best domestic makes.

What a choice we have in the cracker and biscuit line! Every taste is appealed to and the grocer's shelves supply them all.

Hard-tack and good cheese — where can we find a better combination to end the dinner and send us away content? Crisp and hard, the well made crackers of this sort appeal to the educated taste.

In these days you can get square, oblong, oval, round, thick, thin—all sorts of crackers. They are put up in moisture-protecting packages and keep indefinitely.

Some of these crackers are coated with cheese, others with chocolate, but all are appealing to the palate. A slice of cheese and a handful of crackers—any variety —make an excellent lunch. Crackers and milk, too, make a combination hard to beat.

Good health depends, not alone on getting food, but on getting the sort of food that appetite demands. We must have the starchy foods to supply heat and energy. Flour is such a food.

It makes little difference how the flour is cooked and prepared for the table. The crackers and biscuit offer a fine way of serving it. When it is taken in one of these forms it gives the body the needed supply of carbohydrates.

Cream of Pea Soup.

Drain one can of peas and cook for 20 minutes with one teaspoon of sugar, two cups cold water, a thin slice of onion. When cooked, remove from fire and put through strainer putting through all the pulp possible.

Melt two tablespoons butter, add two thalespoons of flour and when smooth pour in slowly two cups of scalded milk; stir until boiling, blend with the peas and season with one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and one teaspoon finely minced parsley. Serve with oyster crackerettes.

MOBERLY LAYS PLANS TO GET CHEESE PLANT

$30,000 Is Estimated Necessary to Secure Location of Kraft Factory.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MOBERLY, Mo., Feb. 3.—Plans to raise about $30,000 to secure location of a Kraft cheese factory here are being considered by the Industrial Committee and Chamber of Commerce.

It is proposed to furnish the Kraft company with a building about 85 feet wide and 120 feet long, with railway switching facilities and ample room for expansion. Such a structure as suggested would cost about $30,000, it is estimated by the company, which would repay the building cost when the milk supply for the plant from Randolph County reaches an average of 50,000 pounds per day. Such a supply of milk to the plant would mean about $1000 daily to farmers of this section.

In event all details of the proposition are worked out, the Kraft company would manufacture a special high-grade Swiss cheese here.

Local civic leaders regard the cheese factory proposition as one of the best expansion prospects they have had in the past few years, as it would supply a daily cash income to the farmers of the county.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING SALES REACH HUGE TOTAL

Estimated That Two and Half Billions Are Sold Annually Under Supervision.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON.—More than two and a half billion dollars worth of farm products are marketed cooperatively each year in the United States, it is indicated in figures reaching Secretary of Agriculture Jardine.

Commenting on the circumstance, Jardine says the amount will increase steadily "to the greater stability of agriculture and to the prosperity of the country as a whole." He declares there can be no permanent prosperity in this country so long as a large group of the producing population has little or nothing to do with the marketing of its own products.

Seeks Interstate Bus Permit.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2.—The Interstate Transit Lines, owned by Russell J. Walsh of Omaha, Neb., yesterday filed application with the State Public Service Commission to operate as an interstate bus line from the Kansas-Missouri line to St. Joseph and Kansas City, Mo.

Fruit for Child's Diet.

A child should have some fruit in the diet every day. Where fresh fruit is not possible dried fruits may be used. Dried fruits also have a rich iron content. Fresh fruit should be given only in season. All fruits should be wiped off with a damp cloth before being eaten.

Yellow Color Scheme.

The menu calls for chicken salad, hot buttered rolls or assorted sandwiches, olives, salted nuts, pickles, with apricot or peach ice cream, yellow birthday cake, and taffy apples for the second course.

Dr. Copeland Says:

"Mineral waters of the right sort are preferable to many cathartic compounds. Their power to overcome the immediate effects of constipation is unquestioned. In their effects upon the bowel and its lining membranes they are far less irritating. Indeed, many have qualities that make them soothing and healing. Sugar-coated pills are pleasant to take, which may add to their danger. They are no less habit-forming and drastic because they appeal to the taste."

Pluto Water, with its mineral content, flushes the bowels and washes away impurities. It is gentle, soothing, healing, non-habit-forming. Corrects constipation and restores normal bowel movements. Acts in 30 minutes to 2 hours.

TAYLOR KNOCKS OUT BUSH IN FEATURE BOUT ON AMATEUR CARD

SO. BROADWAY PROGRAM LASTS 3 1-2 HOURS

Rossi Beats West in Hard Bout, While Graswick Wins for Fifth Time Over Wood.

By Damon Kerby.

If Referee Harry Sharpe is not in proper physical condition to officiate in the Lewis-Stecher wrestling match this month, it will not be because he did not get enough exercise while acting as third man in the ring at the South Broadway amateur boxing show last night.

Sharpe started the first preliminary at 8:30 o'clock, and 15 bouts later or exactly at midnight, he was having the pair in the final bout shake hands for the final round. At three minutes past midnight the bell rang, bringing 38 rounds of boxing to a close.

"Bring on your Lewis-Stecher match," panted Sharpe, as he pried apart two perspiring heavies shortly before midnight. "You may truthfully say I am now in training for the big match."

Ringsiders will agree that if Sharpe survives today, after handling the amateur bouts for a solid stretch of three hours and a half last night, he need have no fear of his stamina being below par for the championship wrestling match, regardless of its length.

Taylor Knocks Out Bush.

Two knockouts, two technical knockouts and two fouls aided in shortening the program. One technical kayo was registered in a special bout.

In this event, Clyde Taylor, lightweight, of Belleville, easily put forth the outstanding performance of the program in causing John Bush of the National Athletic Association to retire after the first round. Taylor swept Bush before him with a clean, hard attack, which culminated with a vicious right to Bush's jaw just as the round closed. Bush was unable to start the second round.

Leo Rossi of the National A. A. won the decision over George West of the South Broadway A. C. in another exceedingly bitter affair. The weight was announced as 126 pounds.

Wood Gets It Again.

The fifth number of the Jake Graswick-Reggie Wood serial went the way of the others—Graswick gained a point decision.

It was announced that the Western A. A. U. will hold its annual boxing tournament at the New Coliseum, March 8.

The nonsmoking edict in the new state boxing law was enforced and the spectators were not harmed, while the performers were distinctly benefited.

Prices for seats at the New Coliseum show of Monday night were announced. After stating the prices, the announcer added, "plus 5 per cent for the city boxing tax." This drew boos from the capacity crowd.

COMPLETE AMATEUR BOXING RESULTS

SPECIAL BOUTS.

Clyde Taylor, Belleville Turners, defeated Johnny Bush, National A. A., technical knockout, second round. Weight, 135 pounds.

Frank Chervanek, South Broadway A. C., defeated George Sterzik, South Broadway A. C., four rounds, referee's decision. Weight, 175 pounds.

Jake Graswick, Knights of Columbus, East St. Louis, defeated Reggie Wood, People's Motorbus A. C., three rounds, judges' decision. Weight, 135 pounds.

John Schwake, South Broadway A. C., defeated Jerry Hoffman, People's Motorbus A. C., three rounds, judges' decision. Weight, heavyweights.

PRELIMINARY BOUTS.

Vic Pudlowski, South Broadway A. C., defeated Elvin Regan, Valley Park, Mo., three rounds, judges' decision. Weight, 112 pounds.

Donald Bell, Kingdom House A. C., defeated Richard Thorpe, South Broadway A. C., three rounds, judges' decision. Weight, 112 pounds.

Les Burwell, South Broadway A. C., defeated Joe Moncada, Kingdom House A. C., knockout, second round. Weight, 133 pounds.

Anthony Pudlowski, South Broadway A. C., defeated Vernon Kraeger, South Broadway A. C., in the second round when Kraeger was disqualified by the referee. Weight 135 pounds.

Frank Roth, South Broadway A. C., defeated Elmo Schneider, South Broadway A. C., three rounds, judges' decision. Weight, 135 pounds.

Tommy Wade, One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Infantry, defeated Elmer Brautigan, South Broadway A. C., three rounds, judges' decision. Weight, 118 pounds.

Walter Rose, Tower A. C., defeated Herbert Kranze, People's Motorbus A. C., in the second round on a foul. Weight, 147 pounds.

Stanley McDonald, South Broadway A. C., defeated Charles Turner, South Broadway A. C., technical knockout, first round. Weight, 147 pounds.

Charles Schober, Kingdom House A. C., defeated Fred Sterzik, South Broadway A. C., knockout, second round. Weight, 160 pounds.

Leo Rossi, National A. A., defeated George West, South Broadway A. C., three rounds, judges' decision. Weight, 126 pounds.

Referee—Harry S. Sharpe. Judges—Judge Robert W. Hall and Seneca Taylor. Timer—Al Neist.

SAMMY BAKER TO MEET ATTELL TONIGHT

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 3.—Sammy Baker, New York aspirant for a crack at Joe Dundee and his welterweight crown, will take on the scion of a famous fighting family tonight—Gilbert Attell of San Francisco.

Attell can "point with pride" to his family tree, which bore such fistic fruit as Abe, Monte and Caesar Attell. However, Sammy is the favorite. The fight is scheduled for 10 rounds.

County Teams to Meet for Second Time This Season Tonight.

The Webster Groves and Maplewood High School basketball teams will meet tonight at the Webster Gymnasium for the second time this season. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

In the first game, Maplewood was the victor by a 31-23 score, but Webster is conceded a good chance to reverse the decision in tonight's tilt, having shown consistent improvement, while Maplewood has been performing in rather disappointing style.

In its two pre-season games, Maplewood won impressive victories over Louisville Male High and Webster. Upon entering county League competition, however, Coach Wahlbrink's team slumped and at present has lost two of its three games played.

Webster, playing an independent schedule, has won three games and lost an equal number so far this season.

The probable lineups:

MAPLEWOOD.		WEBSTER
L. Bruno	R. F.	Ferguson
Briscoe	L. F.	Westrup
Riegert	C.	Yeckert
Garrett	R. G.	Miller
Lane	L. G.	Knickman

FOUR SOUTHWESTERN ILLINOIS HIGH SCHOOL BASKET GAMES TONIGHT

Belleville's hold on second place in the Southwestern Illinois High School Conference will be tested tonight when the St. Clair County basketball quintet goes to East St. Louis in the feature of four conference games.

When the two rivals met last time, Belleville staged a sensational last half rally and won, 16 to 14, on their own floor. This game will be staged in the Ainad Temple, Sixth and St. Louis avenue, on the East Side.

The leading Collinsville team will go to Granite City in the secondary feature, Woodriver is slated to go to Edwardsville, while Alton will entertain the eighth-place Jerseyville quintet.

Following is the present standing of the conference teams:

SCHOOL.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Collinsville	8	1	.889
Belleville	7	2	.778
Wood River	6	3	.667
East St. Louis	5	4	.556
Alton	5	4	.556
Granite City	3	6	.333
Edwardsville	2	7	.222

FOOTBALL RULES BODY TO MEET TOMORROW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Reversing the usual gridiron procedure, the reorganized National football Rules Committee is executing a shift before it goes into its annual huddle to debate the gridiron code and changes recommended in it for 1928.

Edward K. Hall, chairman of the committee, announced yesterday that instead of meeting in New York about the middle of March, as has been the previous custom, the rules makers will gather in the comparative seclusion of the Seaview golf club at Absecon, N. J., tomorrow.

CHICAGO-INDIANA SWIM TEAMS MEET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Attempts to break Big Ten swimming records will be made tonight when Chicago and Indiana meet in a conference contest. The Maroons are favored to win.

OKLAHOMA FIVE OPPOSES BEARS IN TILT TONIGHT

Coach White to Start Regulars in Contest With Undefeated Missouri Valley Basketball Leaders.

The University of Oklahoma basketball team, learers in the Missouri Valley Conference race, meets the Washington U. five tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Washington U. field house. The Bears have won five of their eight starts to place third in the league standings, while the Oklahomans have won eight straight.

The visitors bring one of the greatest scoring combinations seen in the valley in recent years. A quartet of marksmen, Drake, Churchill, Holt and Ray LeCrone, backed by Norris, stationary guard, has run riot over every defense which has presented itself to the Sooners this season. Coach Owens' reserves are Quinn, Stevens, Kiergan, Noble, Culbertson and Roy LeCrone.

Coach White announced that he would start his regular quintet of Lohrding and Weintge, forwards; Meyer, center, and Eckert and Kurz, guards. Of these, Lohrding may be relieved early, as illness caused his absence from practice during the first part of the week. Rippetoe and Heinrichs are the probable substitutes.

"We can stop Oklahoma," White said after a short limbering up session in the field house yesterday afternoon.

From the accuracy of the practice shots and the speed which the players displayed in their floor work, they have again approached the form exhibited early in the season.

The Sooners, all tall men, depend upon long shots and the follow-ups which their height entitles them to. The Bears will rely in the main on new scoring maneuvers which White has inaugurated in valley play this season. These plays depend upon speed.

A. E. Eilers, business manager, announced last night that the advance sale of tickets indicated a record crowd.

Probable lineups:

Washington.	Pos.	Oklahoma
Lohrding	F.	Drake
Weintge	F.	Churchill
Meyer	C.	Holt
Eckert	G.	Ray LeCrone
Kurz	G.	Norris

Billikens Meet DePaul Tonight

Coach Reget Takes 10 Men on Two-Day Basketball Trip to Windy City.

Coach Harry Reget of St. Louis University departed this morning with a squad of 10 men for a two-day invasion of Chicago. The Billikens tackle DePaul University tonight and the Loyola University Ramblers tomorrow evening.

DePaul has lost two of its three games this season and the Billikens are looking forward to a victory.

Tom Flynn, star Billiken guard, was the only man to be lost to the team through the semester examinations. Flynn was conditioned in two subjects and will be lost to the team for at least two weeks.

Coach Reget took four guards, and of these, Joyce and Anderson will probably start tonight, with Jack Strong and Joe Mulroy being held in reserve. Drury will jump at center and will be ably supported at the forwards by the two scoring aces, Ham Strong and Kenneth Oldfield. Other forwards to make the trip were Walsh and Davidson, Doran Fitzgerald, reserve center, also accompanied the team.

The second St. Louis-Concordia game will be played Feb. 23, it was decided by the officials of the two schools. The tentative date with St. Xavier, Feb. 9 has been cancelled at the request of the Cincinnati school.

NASH IS LOST TO BEN MILLERS FOR SUNDAY'S BATTLE

Star Forward Suffering from an Attack of Grippe—Curran to Play Against Canadians.

By Dent McSkimming.

Benny Nash, star inside left forward of the Ben Miller soccer team, will be missing from the national cup game with the Canadian Club of Chicago Sunday, it was learned today. Nash has been confined to bed with a case of grippe since last Sunday, and Manager Foley has been forced to shift his lineup accordingly.

Vincent O'Hara, the youngster who scored a rattling fast goal against the Swedish-American Club of Detroit in the first round cup game, will be transferred from outside right to inside left to fill Nash's shoes while Syl Curran will appear at outside right. Curran has played almost the entire season at that position, having given way only recently to O'Hara.

The effect of Nash's absence will be to break up the only close passing combination the Millers boast of, but O'Hara may compensate for his lack of finesse with greater aggressiveness. Hennessy will be at center, Bollam at inside right and Mulroy at outside left.

Tracy, Schweppe and Croak will form the halfback line as usual, and Erbe and Vaughn will be the fullbacks with Bartnett in goal.

The Canadian Club lineup probably will be as follows:

Vic Neate, goal; John King and Matt Reid, fullbacks; John Bain, Bill Adams and Harry MacAvoy, halfbacks; Frank Davidson, Peter Mair, Alex Young, Duncan Thompson and Jim Corbett, forwards. Thomas Walsh, a former St. Louis boy, has been playing at inside left but was recently replaced by Thompson, a Canadian.

The Ben Miller players engaged in a workout at Sherman Park yesterday afternoon and will train again tonight at the same place. The players and their manager have discussed the apparent weaknesses which have brought the club to the bottom of the local league race, and it is expected that there will be a marked improvement in tactics, Sunday.

St. Louis U. High Favored to Win

Billiken Juniors Play Country Day Five—McBride Opposes Chaminade.

St. Louis U. High and McBride will be the favorites to win tonight's Preparatory League basketball games. The Junior Billikens play Country Day at the St. Louis U. High Gymnasium and McBride meets Caminade on the McBride court. Both contests will start at 8 o'clock.

St. Louis, beaten for the first time this season by Western last week, will not have an opportunity to regain first place inasmuch as the Cadets are undefeated. The Junior Billikens are not likely to find easy opposition since Codasco has extended Western in both games with the Alton team this season. In the first meeting, Western won by a 22-20 score, and on Wednesday barely escaped with a 24-23 victory.

McBride and Chaminade have both been eliminated as title contenders. In the first meeting between the teams, McBride won by a 12-8 score. McBride has won one other victory, but Chaminade is still seeking its first.

The probable lineups:

Golf Events With $40,000 in Prizes to Be Held in 1929

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.

ENCOURAGED by the success of the recent series of winter golf tournaments in California officials of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in charge of the Los Angeles open, today announced a dozen matches would be held in connection with that event next year with prizes totaling $40,000.

Under present plans, the $10,000 Los Angeles open would be staged Jan. 4 to 6, next, with preliminary tournaments at Fresno, Sacramento, Del Monte, Santa Barbara, San Diego, La Jolla and other California cities.

6 Title Matches Set Tonight in Handball Tourney

Champions and Former Champions to Play First Round Events.

With only two games played thus far in the championship division of the St. Louis Handball Association's first annual tournament, action in the top flight will get fully under way tonight, at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. with the advance schedule calling for eight games.

Only six games will be played, however, as Wray Brown, Triple A star, has forfeited his match to Herman Richel because of his absence from the city on business, as has W. T. Dooley, who was slated to meet I. N. Kessler.

Title-Holders to Play.

Several champions and former champions will be included in those playing tonight. Capt. Walter Kamman of the Fire Department, also president of the Handball Association, a former city champion, will oppose R. L. Gauvain of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. in an important match. Kamman is favored to win.

Jack Srenco, champion of the Y. M. H. A., should defeat M. L. Jackman of the Goldman Post, and Dr. Rich holds a slight edge over Joe Tuvil of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. in their match.

Mike Cunningham, who held the city championship for several years, should win handily from L. G. Waldman. Milton Smith of the Downtown Y. M. C. A., a rising young star, should emerge victor in his match with Ed Morganstern of the Y. M. H. A. Bob Larmons is favored over C. R. Weiller in the sixth match.

HALL AGAIN IN FIRST PLACE IN ANGLE CIRCUIT

St. Louis Boy Defeats Reiselt, 50 to 31, While Hoppe Is Beaten by Clarence Jackson.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. — Allen Hall, youthful billiardist of St. Louis, took the lead in the American Billiard League three-cushion tournament by defeating Otto Reiselt, 50 to 31, at Jack Doyle's Broadway Academy last night. Hall completed his string in 44 innings, scoring many brilliant shots, including several clusters of twos and threes. He made his best run in the twenty-ninth inning when he chalked up seven consecutive points. Reiselt scored six for his high run mark.

Willie Hoppe, who is second in the standing, lost to Clarence Jackson at the Strand Academy, 50 to 41. Hoppe made the best run with a mark of seven, while the winner amassed a total of five for his best mark. The game consumed 50 innings.

In two other matches Harry Wakefield defeated Alfredo de Oro, 50 to 39 at the Fourteenth Street Academy, and Johnny Layton triumphed over Augie Kieckhefer, 50 to 37 at Hoppe's Academy. Wakefield made a high run of eight, while four was De Oro's best. The block lasted 67 innings. Layton made a high run of seven, against four for Kieckhefer. Their game went 54 innings.

Ruth Denies He Is Overweight

Declares He Is Five Pounds Lighter Than During 1927 Campaign.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3. — Babe Ruth today denied reports that he was overweight and asserted that he would be in better condition at the opening of the spring training season than he was last year.

He said he was five pounds lighter now than during the 1927 baseball season and that he had never felt better. Ruth came here for a brief visit with Jack Schaefer, a personal friend.

"I feel as fit as ever," said the Bambino. "I tip the old scales at 219 pounds, while last year at this time I was up to 232. During the 1927 playing season my average weight was 224 pounds; still I managed to make 60 home runs."

ED WALSH TO COACH WHITE SOX PITCHERS

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Russell "Lena" Blackburne, who held the technical batting leadership of the major leagues in 1927, with one time at bat and one hit on the first pitched ball, was signed today by the Chicago White Sox to coach again this year.

Manager Schalk was banished one day last year, Blackburne succeeding to the authority temporarily. When a pinch hitter was needed, Blackburne put himself into the pinch and delivered a timely single.

"Big Ed" Walsh, pitching ace of the Sox a dozen years ago, has been signed to coach the pitching staff.

Wellston to Play Clayton, Tonight

Two Other County League Basketball Games Scheduled to Be Decided.

The Wellston and Clayton High School basketball teams meet tonight in a game on the Clayton court that features three county league contests. In the others, Ferguson plays Hancock at Hancock and Ferguson Jennings opposes Ritenour at the Ritenour gymnasium.

Wellston is conceded an edge over Clayton, having defeated the same team in earlier tilt this season. Clayton, however, has since shown improvement and is likely to furnish harder opposition in tonight's engagement. In its last league game, Clayton trimmed Maplewood, 15 to 11.

Wellston is at present in third place with a record of four games won and one lost. Clayton is fifth with two victories in three starts.

The other games are comparatively unimportant since all the teams are trailing in the race. Hancock in ninth place is favored to beat Ferguson which ranks tenth while Jennings, sixth in the standings, should win from Ritenour which has not won a game all season.

Tonight's Games.

Wellston at Clayton, 8 p. m.
Ferguson at Hancock, 8 p. m.
Jennings at Ritenour, 8 p. m.

"Frosh" Play Shurtleff.

Coach Skip Stiver's St. Louis U. freshman basket team will play an important game tonight when Shurtleff College of Alton calls at the Billiken Gymnasium. Homan and Klaus will start at forwards for the Frosh. "Shorty" Willets will jump center. Hunt and Earl Roberts will take care of the guard positions. The game will start at 7:30 p. m.

City Fight Board Protests Adding Tax to Tickets

Commisisoners Say They Gave Promoters No Authority for Such Action.

The 5 per cent city tax added to the price of tickets for the fights at the New Coliseum on Monday night was made without the authority of the City Boxing Commission, according to a formal statement issued by that group, and they protested against the State boxing board allowing this tax to be added without their being consulted, in a meeting yesterday afternoon at the office of Judge E. E. Butler, a member of the commission.

Under the State law, a tax of 5 per cent of the gross receipts shall be paid to the State. Local promoters are also forced to pay 5 per cent city tax, bringing the taxation to 10 per cent for the promoters.

Matchmaker Tippett of the New Coliseum had been granted permission by the State commission to add the 5 per cent city tax to the cost of the tickets, in order to lighten the levy burden on his shoulders.

Says Public Unduly Taxed.

Following the meeting, however, Judge Butler said that the city would collect 5 per cent of the gross receipts of the show; that if Tippett charged $1.05 for $1 tickets, he would be assessed 5 per cent of the $1.05, instead of $1.

In the statement issued by the city commission, it declared the public is being unduly taxed, and said the public should not pay the 5 per cent added tax. The commission suggested that those who already have purchased tickets should demand the return of the 5 per cent added tax.

The city commission also denounced the State commission for what the statement said were efforts by the State board to have the local ordinance repealed and for blaming the city commission when the ordinance was not repealed. The statement said these acts were done to create a dislike towards the city commission.

The statement pointed out that the City Boxing Commission has no power to abolish the city tax of 5 per cent, nor to repeal the ordinance dissolving the board.

HAUGEN TO DEFEND U. S. SKI JUMPING TITLE NEXT WEEK

By the Associated Press.

RED WING, Minn., Feb. 3.—Lars Haugen, Minnesota's wizard of the ski slides, may have to leap to a new record to defend successfully his American ski jumping championship at the national tournament at Charlson Hill this week-end.

Thirty-eight ski stars, including 16 of the best riders in America, have entered the competition for the title which Haugen has won four times since 1918. Many of them have shown excellent form and have jumped good distances on a smaller slide.

Competition in the cross country class C and D events will start tomorrow with the title event ending the tournament on Sunday.

Many delegates have expressed a desire to return to the old system of scoring, whereby the contestant making the longest leap wins. Under present regulations, form and distance are counted and often a skiier wins an event with a short jump.

GENERAL ADMISSIONS FOR WRESTLING MATCH GO ON SALE TODAY

Arrangements have been made to start the sale of general admission tickets today for the Stecher-Lewis world's championship match to be held at the New Coliseum, Feb. 20, according to an announcement from Promoter Tom Packs. The general admission seats, the last to go on sale, sell for $5.

Approximately 4000 spectators can be accommodated in the upper balcony, where the seats are located and with requests for more than 500 already on file the promoter stated that he expects a sellout of the general admission tickets.

SPORT SALAD by L. C. Davis

Say Aurevoir but Not Goodbye.

I SEE where Dempsey has expunged himself
From future fistic fights with Mr. Tunney;
And having placed himself upon the shelf,
He'll not do anything but count his money.
Unless a Patti farewell is intended,
As I. Berlin would say, "the song is ended."

Continuing the Berlinistic strain,
The melody perhaps with Jack will linger;
The do re mi will call him back again,
And in the pot he'll yearn to have a finger.
He'll find it hard to flout the easy money
That he can get by boxing Mr. Tunney.

But, be the situation as it may,
For having chucked the game we'll give him credit;
He says he'll lay the boxing gloves away
And may, perhaps, have meant it when he said it.
At that he may have sent his resignation
With woman's well-known mental reservation.

Who Knows?

Tex Rickard says that Dempsey is through, while Jack says he isn't sure whether he is or not. Seems as though Jack and Tex should get together on that proposition as we don't know which one to believe.

Off hand, one would think that Jack knew more about it than Tex. On the other mitt, the opinion of Tex, who has the promotion end of the game sewed up in a bag, should have some weight.

It seems that Dempsey's continuance in the leather pushing business all depends on a bum eye. Jack got by with a synthetic nose fairly well but a bum lamp is an organ with a different tune.

The spring baseball semester will open on April 11, three days earlier than last year, which means that the anteseason debates between the freshmen and seniors will begin correspondingly earlier in the South.

The schedule provides for an equable division of the plums but it will not be known until toward the end of the season that we learn who will fall heir to the lemons.

As the conditions were favorable for the groundhog to see his shadow, we assume there will be six more weeks of winter which there would probably be anyway, regardless of forecastings to the contrary by the g. h.

"Campaign Started to Make Art Museum Greater City Asset."

If it doesn't cost anything, it will be all right with the conscientious objectors.

A Great Pair.

Lindy will arrive in St. Louis from Havana on Feb. 13, in time to help celebrate the birthday of another famous American, Abe Lincoln, no less. Abe inspired the world with the spirit of brotherly love while Lindy is doing great follow-up work along the same lines with the Spirit of St. Louis.

Gene Tunney says all Rickard has to do is to supply the boxers and he will do the boxing. Boxing is right.

The Caveman Spirit.

A LITTLE boxing now and then
Is relished by the best of men;
But they would rather, as a rule,
See someone jolted for a goal.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM TO PLAY MEXICO FIRST

Drawings for 1928 American Zone Completed—33 Countries in This Year's Event.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—The United States and Mexico will battle in the first round of the Davis Cup matches, American zone, the drawing this afternoon at Elyssee Palace by President Doumergue indicated.

Ambassadors and representatives of the 33 nations which will contest the tennis trophy were present.

Cuba will meet Japan in the first match in the lower bracket while Canada and China drew byes. In the second round Canada will play the winner of the Cuba, Japan match, while China will meet the winner of the Mexico, United States match.

In the European zone, first round, Argentine will play Great Britain while Chile meets Spain.

The name of the United States was drawn from the historic Davis Cup by the Belgian Ambassador, Baron Gaiffier D'Hestroy, while Mexico was picked out by the American Ambassador, Myron T. Herrick. Complete list of pairings in the European zone follow:

Upper half—Australia vs. Italy, Rumania vs. Belgium, Germany vs. Greece, Chile vs. Spain, Jugo-Slavia vs. Finland, Argentina vs. Great Britain, India vs. Switzerland, first round byes.

Lower half—Hungary vs. Norway, Ireland vs. Holland, Poland vs. Denmark, Philippines vs. Austria, South Africa vs. Sweden, Czecho-Slovakia, Portugal and New Zealand, first round byes.

MALEY MATCHED WITH MAHONEY ON COLISEUM BOXING CARD MONDAY

The re-arranged program for next Monday night's professional boxing show at the New Coliseum arena will bring Arthur "Sailor" Maley of California into the ring with Jimmy Mahoney of Chicago, in a light-heavyweight battle over the 10-round course, according to an announcement today by Jack Tippett, matchmaker for the Fred Stockham American Legion Post.

Maley accepted terms for the match after Tom Pivac of this city, who was originally carded to meet the Chicago battler, was picked to substitute for Jimmy Byrne of Louisville against Chuck Wiggins, Indiana heavyweight, in another 10-round feature.

Maley has been boxing in Kansas City and is in condition.

Garcia Defeats Bowen.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 3.—Frankie Garcia of Memphis, Tenn., won a decision over Andy Bowen of Washington, D. C., here last night in a 12-round bout. Garcia weighed 128 pounds and Bowen 133.

Leonard-Ritchie Battle In 1919 Was Last One He Promoted, Says Coffroth

Benny Gained Decision Over Former Title-Holder in Four Rounds in Contest That Drew $20,000 Gate—Promoter Says He Will Not Come Back.

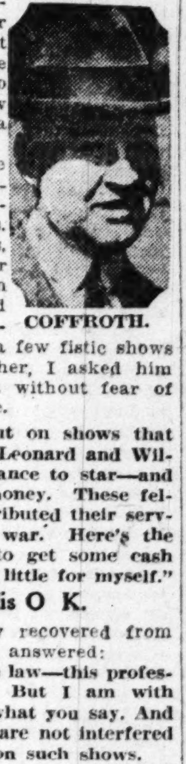
NO. 28.

By James W. Coffroth.

(Copyright, 1928.)

WHEN I returned to California, late in November, 1918, I found that I was shy of cash—very shy indeed. All the money I had was tied up in the Tijuana race track which hadn't operated for more than a year. And I had spent about every dollar of my loose money through expenses incurred in working in behalf of various war charities.

It was up to me to do some borrowing or put over something that meant a fast return of cash for me. And in that emergency — the only thing to do was to take a few more flings as a fight promoter.



COFFROTH.

The law of the State of California barred professional bouts. But despite this, I went to Mayor Rolph, of San Francisco and asked his permission to hold a few fistic shows in town, or, rather, I asked him if I could do it without fear of civic interference.

"I want to put on shows that will give Benny Leonard and Willie Meehan a chance to star—and to make some money. These fellows gladly contributed their services during the war. Here's the chance for me to get some cash for them—and a little for myself."

Mayor Gives His O K.

ROLPH finally recovered from the jolt, and answered:

It's against the law—this professional fighting. But I am with you heartily in what you say. And I'll see that you are not interfered with in putting on such shows.

The anticipated protest against my holding shows in the Civic Auditorium never materialized.

The first show I put on was between Willie Meehan and Fred Fulton. That was in the middle of January, 1919. It drew around $14,000 and Fulton won the decision in four rounds.

Late in January, or in February, 1919, I put on the second show. It brought Leonard against Joe Benjamin, who was quite a favorite on the coast, at the time. Benny won the four-round decision and the house hit $10,000.

About this time, Willie Ritchie, who had practically gone into retirement before the war, but who was a boxing instructor at one of the camps during hostilities, began yelling for a chance against Leonard.

Matches Star Lightweights.

I MATCHED them up for Feb. 21, 1919, and while they were training and the advance guard was buying tickets, I tried to arrange cards for the two final shows of the five which Mayor Rolph had agreed I could put on. But I was not long in discovering that in the brief time I had to complete my promotional "comeback" I couldn't get real stars for those dates.

So I decided that the Leonard-Ritchie battle was to be my last.

The bout was a real success. Although a rainstorm kept thousands from the arena, there were thousands more who came to see an ex-champion of the world in a desperate effort to regain his title. They were well rewarded, for although Leonard won the four-round decision, Ritchie put up a marvelous fight.

The "gate" was around $20,000.

When the lights were being dimmed that night I took a farewell look at the ring and made the vow: "I'm through with this game for all time."

Nearly nine years have swept under the bridges of time since that night. A dozen and one chances have come to me to go back into promoting; to take a whirl or two with Dempsey, Leonard or some of the others headlining the card. But always I've permitted opportunity to knock at the door—without answer.

I still love the old racket—but the promotional end of it no longer produces a thrill.

I can look back to those days and those years without apology—without necessity for an alibi. I gave the best I had to produce the best of my particular time—and I think that I succeeded. For I held over 300 shows, matched every champion of every class during that period and again and again, my shows shattered the old market in receipts and attendance.

But the greater gladness, the enduring happiness as I think back over my promotional years, comes in remembrance of what was said when my fight promoting days were done and the critics, reviewing them in panorama, said:

"In all his years, Jimmy Coffroth never promoted a poor show—and every one was honest."

$2 to $20 Were Top Prices In Coffroth's Days

DURING my many seasons as a promoter, writes Jim Coffroth, I held rather closely, even in the latest years, when the "high cost of luxury" had become higher, to the prices that I had set back in 1901. For nonchampion fights, or those which involved title-holders in classes that were not extremely important in those days, the admission scaled from $1 to $5.

But when battles were fought between men who were real headliners, and whose services were worth big money, the prices ranged from $2 up to $20. But unlike these days, I did not arrange a few hundred rows of these $20 seats, and put the $10 and $5 and $2 patrons in the next county.

Usually there were only two or three rows of those $20 seats. There were only a few of the $10 places and that brought the holders of the cheap seats very close to the ring. Nobody had to use field glasses in those days, even if he got the last row in the cheapest seats.

LOMSKI OPPOSES VETERAN M'TIGUE IN BOUT TONIGHT

Washington Youngster Is 2 to 1 Favorite to Gain Decision Over 35-Year-Old Rival.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Mike McTigue, carrying the scars of some 150 ring battles, returns to the pugilistic wars tonight in a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden with Leo Lomski, hard-hitting youngster of Aberdeen, Wash., who aspires to scale the heights of the light-heavyweight division. Lomski is favorite at 2 to 1 to get the verdict.

McTigue twice wore the 175-pound mantle, stripping it from the shoulders of the Senegalese, the late battling Siki, in a 20-round bout in Dublin, Ireland, in 1923.

In 1925, Paul Berlenbach wrested the title from McTigue in a 15-rounder, and the following year saw the championship pass from Berly to Jack Delaney in a 15-round tussle.

Delaney voluntarily relinquished the leadership of the light-heavy ranks when he found it impossible to make the 175-pound limit. Then the New York State Athletic Commission tossed the title back to McTigue.

Burdened with the age of 35 years, Mike found himself outsmarted by the agile Tommy Loughran last fall and so must start all over again in a campaign for the emblem.

McTigue's record in about 17 years of boxing includes knockouts over Berlenbach, King Solomon, Billy Vidabeck and Soldier King. He has been knocked out by Jack Delaney and Mickey Walker, the latter turning the trick in Chicago last November.

Lomski, at the age of 24, shapes out as a solid boxer who has a respect for the scientific points of the game, but instead relies on two hard fists which whip furiously in close fighting.

The victor of tonight's fray has been promised consideration in the elimination for Loughran's next challenger. Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo lad, and Joe Sekyra of Dalton, O., are also in the running. Sekyra has been matched to box George Gemas of Philadelphia next Monday night at the St. Nicholas arena.

LEWIS, PURPLE STAR, FAILS IN EXAMINATIONS

Football and Track Star's Career Closed Because of Inelegibility — Two Illinois Aces Fail.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Returns of the semester examinations at Big Ten schools are coming in and athletic stars, who have failed in them, are passing out of the conference sport picture.

So far three leaders in Big Ten athletic competition have been barred from further sports activity because of failures. They are Leland "Tiny" Lewis, Northwestern track and football star; John Kusinski, captain and star catcher of the 1927 University of Illinois baseball team, and Leo Dalbeck, outfielder on the same nine.

Barring faculty lenience or some mistake in marking his grades, Lewis has ended his brilliant collegiate career. He "flunked" the semester examination in qualitative chemistry which has been his nemesis ever since he entered Northwestern. Lewis starred in Purple backfields for the past three years and also won the Big Ten shot putting championship last year. He had been counted on as a sure point winner in track meets this season. In the recent Notre Dame-Notrhwestern meet, he won individual honors with 13 points, winning the hurdles and tying for first place in the pole vault with a leap of 12 feet, 6 inches. His home is at Carlinville, Ill.

Athletic stars at other Big Ten schools, who have been near the edge of ineligibility all year, expect to know their fate within a few days.

2240 Pin Teams In A. B. C. Event

Total Is 40 Greater Than Record Entry at Buffalo, in 1925.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 3.—Claiming a record-breaking entry list of 2240 teams for the American Bowling Congress here, March 3 to April 2, local bowling officials today plunged into preparations for the congress. Entries closed last night with 40 more teams entered than were at Buffalo in 1925, the previous banner year.

A total of 1440 local teams are entered with 800 foreign entries.

Work will begin Feb. 9 on installation of 28 bowling alleys in the American Royal Building, where the tournament will be rolled.

WRAY'S COLUMN

IF Jack Quits.

IF Jack Dempsey's eyesight compels him to quit the fight racket, as Tex Rickard says it will and as Jack himself admits is possible, what will happen to the heavyweight ring situation?

One guess is that with the Punch King out of the picture fight attractions will be less colorful, big "gates" will be less likely and a gradual decine of the financial aspect of the sport will follow.

If we accept the prevailing view that Gene Tunney is not a popular title-holder and that the upcoming class of "logical contenders" is just a hill of small potatoes, then there is nothing to get excited about. The boy with the potential $40 ringside seat money will keep it in his pocket, or spend it for four grand-opera shows, or ten visits to the "Follies" instead.

In either case he'll get a lot more for his money!

Hail the Tunney School.

ON the other hand, it is possible that Tunney may improve on acquaintance; and the fight public, which has been led to the shrine of Swat by following Dempsey, may be diverted to a different and better school of fistic appreciation—the school represented by Tunney himself—the scientific school.

If pugilism really has a basic worth and is to endure as part of the community life of the future it will have to be on the basis of the type Tunney represents rather than that of which Dempsey is the outcrop.

Dempsey stands for elemental FORCE, Tunney for a combination of limited force, exploited by an intelligent mind. It only needs a little knowledge of history to be reminded that force is only valuable when directed by intelligence.

Superior Force Bows to Superior Mind.

WITH all due appreciation of the merits of Dempsey, it is necessary to realize at last that he has been outgeneraled and beaten twice by a man of alleged inferior physical power.

And if there is to be a resumption of the reign of Dempsey or one of his type, the individual who is to take Dempsey's place in the spotlight is not now on the horizon.

Hitless Wonders.

THERE isn't a solid punch in any of the accepted rivals of Tunney. Sharkey—he tipped his mitt in the Dempsey fight. He hit Dempsey with everything he had, time and time again. He had him goofy in the first round, staggering and rolling when the bell sounded. And yet it was Dempsey who grew stronger and it was Sharkey who weakened as the fight rolled on. It was Dempsey who at last uncovered the Rayo wallop, tired as he was.

Heenan, Delaney, Risko, Uzcudun—this is where everybody laughs. These poor, clumsy "oafs" seemingly don't belong in a first rate fighting class.

There are, however, two potentialities who still remain to be exploited. What they amount to will eventuate this year. At the present time neither would have a chance with Jack Dempsey, even the Dempsey aged 33. But either might have a look-in with Tunney! Strange, but probable.

The men are Knute Hansen, the "Blond Apollo," and George Godfrey, the 235-pound Dark Menace. They are supposed to be matched and this fight may determine a possible future champion.

Hansen, unobserved, has been coming along under cover. Green a year ago, he has improved nicely. He has the outward resemblance of a great fighter. Tall, a 200-pounder in heft, with long arms, good boxing coaching, and capable of hitting a terrific punch, he lacks only the fighting zest which makes Dempsey great to rank in top class.

Has he at last found his fighting heart? Or is he still just an uninspired but splendid machine? One will know when this two-ton truck, Godfrey, gets through with him.

Promoters Reluctant.

GODFREY is big and rough but he is not a spectacular fighter. Moreover he is not "going anywhere"—and we say that because of the treatment several black possibilities have received at the hands of promoters in recent years. Despite the fact that Godfrey lacks something of being a great fighter, he would today be in the front as the man whom Tunney must beat if he were not handicapped by his complexion.

However, there is a chance that if he can make himself an outstanding candidate, he will FORCE a championship match from Tunney or whoever is on the throne when Godfrey makes good.

If neither Hansen nor Godfrey comes through, then the world is destined to a long reign by King Tunney.

UNIVERSITY CLUB SQUASH TEAM IN INTER-CITY MATCH

The University Club squash team will leave today for its annual match with Cincinnati for the inter-city trophy which has been won by the St. Louisans for the past two years.

The local team has been announced by Professional Jack Cole as follows: John Farish, No. 1; Roland Hoerr, No. 2; Jack Gordon, No. 3; Paul Goessling, No. 4; Russell Murphy, No. 5; Jimmy Franciscus, No. 6, and Lou Dennig, No. 7.

The showing of the players in the Cincinnati match will determine the personnel of the University Club team in the Western Amateur tournament at Omaha and its representatives in the National Tournament at New York on March 2.

FOUR DOGS SELECTED FOR COMPETITION IN CONTINENTAL DERBY

By the Associated Press.

UNION SPRINGS, Ala., Feb. 3.—Four dogs have been selected for competition in the Continental Bird Dog Derby, which began Wednesday with 18 starters. The Derby is for 2-year-old pointers and setters and is for a $1000 purse. Braces selected yesterday were:

First—Contractor, owned by M. S. Hughes, Bristow, Ok., and handled by Ed Farrier, Union Springs; Mingo, owned by Mrs. F. R. Billingslea, Tulsa, Ok., and handled by Mack Pritchett, Mathew, Ala., both pointers.

Second — Slipaway, pointer, owned by W. C. Teagle, New York, and handled by C. H. Harris, Haynesville, Ala.; Bell Hop, setter, owned by H. E. Mueller, Jackson, Mo.

Hockey Star Injured.

By the Associated Press.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—"Happy" Day, captain and defense player of the Toronto Maple Leafs Hockey team, was in the Western Hospital today suffering with a cut tendon in the ankle. He received the injury in a scramble in the contest with the Canadiens here last night. He will probably be off the ice for six weeks.

Schalk Will Fine Players Who Fail to Obey His Rules

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.

A STERN master will direct the White Sox through the coming season, if baseball observers have correctly interpreted Manager Ray Schalk's change of attitude.

Last season, those who watched the White Sox often expressed the opinion that Schalk was too easy on some of the veterans.

This season matters appear different. Those who have observed the manager say he threatens to be sterner than John J. McGraw. His first rule of the training season is that all players must train twice daily instead of the usual single session. Fines and other penalties, unheard of on the club last year, are also to be applied this season.

Two Swim Marks Hung Up in Meet

Ethel Lackie Sets One While I. A. C. Relay Team Establishes Other.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Two world's swimming records were broken last night in the Illinois Athletic Club pool at a dual meet between the I. A. C. and Northwestern University.

Ethel Lackie of the I. A. C., world's woman's free style champion, did the 100-meter event in 1:10 2-5, bettering by one-fifth second the former mark of Eleanor Garatti established in 1926 at Santa Cruz, Cal.

The men's 160-yard relay event resulted in the other record breaking, being won in 1:14 1-5 by the I. A. C. team—Johnny Weissmuller, Paul Samson, Paul Manovitz and Hugo Miller. This was three-fifths of a second faster than the old mark established in 1922 by the I. A. C. team of which Weissmuller was a member.

The I. A. C. won the meet, 57 to 34.

MRS. MALLORY GAINS FINAL IN NET PLAY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, former national champion, advanced to the final round of the Heights Casino invitation tennis tournament today by defeating Mrs. Lillian Scharman Hester of New York, in the semifinals in straight sets, 6—4, 6—3.

GOLD CUP RACE AND PRESIDENT'S REGATTA TO BE HELD TOGETHER

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The offer of the American Power Boat Association to hold its gold cup race here next fall in connection with the President's Cup regatta has been accepted by the Corinthian Yacht Club.

Addition of the gold cup event, classic of American motorboat racing, thus will make the Potomac River the scene of four of the five big water events of the year. In addition to the President's Cup race the club will sponsor contests for the Secretary of the Navy Cup and the Dodge Memorial Trophy. The Detroit Sweepstakes, a 150-mile race contested in one lap, is the only other major event that will not be held here.

Dates tentatively set are Sept. 22 and 23.

HUNGARIAN EX-OFFICIAL GETS 7 YEARS IN PRISON

Baron Havatny; Former Finance Minister, Also Fined $500,00 for Criticising Government.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1928, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (The New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Baron Ludwig Havatny, once a wealthy sugar magnate, widely known as an author and finance minister in Count Karolyi's short-lived Republican government in Hungary, was sentenced yesterday to seven years' imprisonment and fined $500,000 for criticisms of the Hungarian regime.

Sentence, pronounced in Budapest, is being denounced by the baron's friends as a move of anti-Semitism and reactionary revenge. The severity of the sentence has astounded Europe, for Havatny's only offense was denunciation of alleged terrorism by the Horthy regime just after the Soviet of Bela Kun was overthrown.

Furthermore, the offense is eight years old, the baron has engaged in no political activity since and he returned to Hungary voluntarily in the belief that the charges would be dropped.

The fine, it is believed, will take what remains of the baron's once great fortune. He spent a great deal of money after the war in preventing Hungary from going Bolshevist then instead of later under Bela Kun.

Coming from a well-known Jewish Liberal family, Baron Havatny allied himself with Count Karolyi and after the fall of the republic before Bela Kun the baron fled. He did not, however, maintain the active opposition to the present gvernment which Karolyi did. In some quarters the severity of the sentence is considered to be a warning to Karolyi.

Heroes All! . . . Those Brave Young Americans

Under the very guns of the pirate stronghold, sailed that tiny band of intrepid American youths—Reckless of Death. For American women had been dishonored, and the United States forced to bow before a pirate nation! Nearer to the pirate ships drew this heroic band—then—occurred the greatest exploit in all naval history!

Boys, girls, teachers, parents! See the thousand thrills of the war that established the United States as a great naval power. Live the exciting lives of those youthful heroes of Young America.

Enjoy the thousand and one laughs provided by Wallace Beery, as a rollicking sailor, and George Bancroft as a jolly gunner.

'GO IT WHILE YOU'RE YOUNG,' LINCOLN WROTE

Two Letters Written While He Was Member of Congress Made Public.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Two letters written by Abraham Lincoln while he was a member of Congress are made public, it is said, for the first time in the current issue of Collier's Weekly.

One letter, written by Lincoln to his former law partner, William H. Herndon is dated Washington, July 11, 1848. In it he remarks that he knows "a very pretty girl" but guesses "she won't let me kiss her." The second letter was written to Mrs. Lincoln while she was visiting relatives in Lexington, Ky. It is dated Washington, April 16, 1848.

The letters are the property of Oliver R. Barrett, Chicago attorney and collector of Lincolniana.

The letter addressed to William H. Herndon reads as follows:

"Dear William: Yours of the 3d is this moment received; and I hardly need say it gives unalloyed pleasure. I now almost regret writing the serious, long-faced letter I wrote yesterday, but let the past as nothing be. Go it while you're young!

"I write this in the confusion of the H. R. and with several other things to attend to. I will send you about eight different speeches this evening; and as to kissing a pretty girl, I know one very pretty one but I guess she won't let me kiss her.

"Yours forever,
"A. LINCOLN."

Letter to His Wife.

In writing to his wife in Lexington Lincoln said:

"Dear Mary: In this troublesome world we are never quite satisfied. When you were here I thought you hindered me some in attending to business; but now, having nothing but business—no vanity—it has grown exceedingly tasteless to me. I hate to sit down and direct documents and I hate to stay in this old room by myself.

"You know I told you in last Sunday's letter I was going to make a little speech during the week, but the week passed away without my getting a chance to do so and now my interest in the subject has passed away too. Your second and third letters have been received since I wrote before. Dear Eddy thinks father is 'gone tapita.'

"Has any further discovery been made as to the breaking into your grandmother's house? If I were she I would not remain there alone. You mention that your Uncle John Parker is likely to be at Lexington. Don't forget to present him my very kindest regards.

"I went yesterday to hunt the little plaid stockings as you wished, but found that McKnight had quit business and Allen had not a single pair of the description you gave and only one plaid pair of any sort that I thought would fit 'Eddy's' dear little feet. I have a notion to make another trial tomorrow morning. If I could get them I have an excellent chance of sending them. Mr. Warrich Tunstall of St. Louis is here. He is to leave early this week and to go by Lexington. He says he knows you and will call to see you and he voluntarily asked if I had not some package to send to you.

Interested in Wife's Pleasure.

"I wish you to enjoy yourself in every possible way, but is there no danger of wounding the feelings of your good father by being so openly intimate with the Wickliffe family?

"Mrs. Broome has not removed yet, but she thinks of doing so tomorrow. All the house, or rather all with whom you were on decided good terms, send their love to you. The others say nothing. Very soon after you went away I got what I think a very pretty set of shirt-bosom studs—modest little ones, jet set in gold, only costing 50 cents apiece, or $1.50 for the whole.

"Suppose you do not prefix the 'Hon.' to the address on your letters to me any more. I like the letters very much, but I would rather they should not have that upon them. It is not necessary, as I suppose you have thought, to have them come free.

"And you are entirely free from headache? That is good—good considering it is the first spring you have been free from it since we were acquainted. I am afraid you will get so well and fat and young as to be wanting to marry again. Tell Louisa I want her to watch you a little for me. Get weighed and write me how much you weigh.

Refers to "Foolish Dream."

"I did not get rid of the impression of that foolish dream about dear Bobby till I got your letter written the same day. What did he and Eddy think of the little letters father sent them? Don't let the blessed fellows forget father.

"A day or two ago Mr. Strong, here in Congress, said to me that Matilda would visit here within two or three weeks. Suppose you write her a letter and inclose it in one of mine and if she comes I will deliver it to her, and if she does not, I will send it to her.

"Most affectionately,
"A. LINCOLN."

Sisters over the skin

KIPLING'S famous "Colonel's Lady and Judy O'Grady," who were "sisters under the skin," are sisters over the skin as well in these days when the latest and most authoritative fashion news is available to every woman in the advertising columns of her newspaper.

Today no woman's clothes need proclaim the thickness of her pocketbook. The advertisements which meet the eye of the woman accustomed to social secretaries and liveried chauffeurs, and guide her in her selection of a wardrobe—likewise greet and guide the young lady who earns her own living. And both may be thankful that advertising has forever banished the dowdy, frumpy "female."

Where will the waistline be? Bows at the cuffs, or not? "V" neck or square? How long—or how short? What materials does Paris favor? What colors are "being worn"? Those questions are answered for everyone—in the advertisements. And with the answers are coupled the names of manufacturers and merchants who make and sell materials, trimmings, accessories, on which you can rely. For those advertised names are advertised only because they are reliable. Otherwise you would probably never hear of them.

You can follow the advertised styles with assurance—and buy by advertised names with profit

GRAINS IRREGULAR ON LOCAL MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS EXCHANGE, Feb. 3.—Wheat sold on both sides of the previous close on the local market today as did also corn.

At the finish wheat was unchanged to lower and corn unchanged to higher.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was scarce. Demand light and prices steady. Hard wheat was steady. Cash corn was steady to 1c lower. Demand was fair. Oats were steady to ½c higher. Demand was fair.

Opening fractionally lower, the wheat market ruled so in the early trade. Liverpool came ⅜d to ⅝d lower and Winnipeg early was ⅛c to ¼c lower.

Wheat was influenced early by forecast of unsettled weather in plain states as well as large shipments from Southern hemisphere. Further export corn business was reported and a Chicago dispatch said country offerings and consignments were small.

Subsequently corn was fraction net higher and wheat shade lower. Liverpool wheat closed ⅞d lower on March; ⅜d on May and ⅝d on July.

Corn opened ⅛c lower, selling back to previous close.

Hard May wheat opened at $1.30¾ and May corn 91½c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 93,800 bushels, compared with 120,400 a week ago and 85,400 a year ago, included 38 cars local and 29 through. Corn receipts, which were 210,000 bushels, compared with 245,000 a week ago, and 107,500 a year ago, included 112 cars local and 38 through. Oats receipts, which were 72,000 bushels, compared with 62,000 a week ago and 50,000 a year ago, included 60 cars local and 6 through. Hay receipts were 40 cars local and 4 through.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators amounted to 818,994 bushels of wheat, 807,409 bushels of corn and 627,422 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 139,226 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 256,913 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 107,701 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 87,704 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 24,946 bushels of No. 2 corn, 69,825 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, 35,205 bushels of No. 2 white corn, 6124 bushels of No. 2 oats, 246,834 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 329,015 bushels of No. 3 white oats, 8272 bushels of No. 2 rye.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 1074 cars of wheat, compared with 1486 a week ago and 550 a year ago, Minneapolis receiving 251 cars, Duluth 76 cars and Winnipeg 747.

Clearances were 10,000 bushels of oats; 3000 barrels of flour and 14,000 bushels of wheat and flour.

Primary receipts of wheat were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago; corn receipts were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago; oats receipts were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago; wheat shipments were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago; corn shipments were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago; oats shipments were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,021,000 bushels, compared with 927,000 a week ago and 1,095,000 a year ago. Corn receipts were 2,242,000 bushels, compared with 2,215,000 a week ago and 1,198,000 a year ago; oats receipts were 535,000 bushels, compared with 401,000 a week ago and 524,000 a year ago; wheat shipments were 540,000 bushels, compared with 574,000 a week ago and 514,000 a year ago; corn shipments were 817,000 bushels compared with 748,000 a week ago and 340,000 a year ago; oats shipments were 347,000 bushels, compared with 315,000 a week ago and 333,000 a year ago.

CORN CLOSES FIRM ON CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Fairly good export demand for corn helped to make corn values today average higher. Profit-taking sales, however, broadened out on all the bulges and tended to check the gains. Country offerings and consignments of corn were again small, but weather conditions were favorable for the crop movement.

Corn closed firm, ⅛c to ½c net higher; wheat unchanged to ¼@⅜c lower; oats a shade to ½c up, and provisions 7c to 17c down.

Corn scored a fresh advance in price early today despite initial downturns and nothwithstanding weakness of wheat.

Country offerings and consignments of corn were again small and further corn export business was reported, whereas Argentine and Australian wheat shipments were heavy. Starting unchanged to ½ per cent lower, corn soon rose all around to above yesterday's finish. Wheat opened ⅛c to ⅝c off and held near to the initial range. Oats were firmer. Provisions declined.

A forecast of unsettled weather in the Plains States, as well as big shipments of wheat from the Southern hemisphere, counted as a weight today on wheat prices. However, many traders showed a disposition to purchase on declines being influenced by some comment on the domestic crop outlook.

POSITION OF WOOL GAINS IN STRENGTH

BOSTON, Feb. 3.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"The position of wool has continued to strengthen this week both here and abroad. Manufacturers are buying moderately at the moment but supplies are low and held at steadily advancing prices.

"In the West, contracting goes on steadily and it is estimated that fully 80,000,000 pounds have been placed under contract, with prices slightly dearer for the week. Early shearing wools are selling in Arizona at 33-38 cents according to the wool.

"London closed very strong with merinos par to 5 per cent above the last series' closing and crossbreds mostly 5 to 10 per cent up. Australia is a penny a pound clean higher for the week and New Zealand and South America are very strong.

"The opening of men's wear staple lines by the American Woolen Co. is considered a conservative but strong one, which evidently is getting a reasonably good response from the buyers.

"Mohair is rather quiet but fully firm.

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1928 to Feb. 2, 1928, inclusive, were 22,981,000 pounds against 21,703,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1928, to Feb. 2, 1928, inclusive, were 24,193,400 pounds against 20,151,600 pounds for the same period last year.

AN OPPORTUNITY IN A PERMANENT SALES POSITION

The expansion program of a nationally advertised organization has created three positions on its sales force—one in Missouri, one in Illinois, one in Indiana and one in Oklahoma. These positions will be filled by experienced, forceful specialty salesmen who are used to approaching mature business men. The positions are permanent in compact, exclusive territories, and offer an opportunity to earn from $7500 to $10,000 per year in congenial work.

Our representatives are backed by intensive training at our expense and get their business through responses to our national and local advertising. This is not a financial, real estate or insurance proposition, and no canvassing. Write full letter, which will be treated as confidential, and give your phone number so an appointment can be arranged if you qualify. Reply to Box B-374, Post-Dispatch. (c6)

LOOK! READ! THIS!

Did you know that in July, 1927, the State of Missouri passed a law legalizing the small loan business? Under this law any person can borrow $10 to $300 on their household furniture which is left in their possession. You don't have to pay more than the legal rate of interest. You don't need any endorsers or signers and everything is strictly confidential. No one knows your business. You don't need a finely furnished home to borrow here. All we ask is your promise to pay as little as $4 monthly.

The Welfare Loan Company is under direct supervision of the State of Missouri. We are licensed and bonded to the State for your protection. You only pay interest for the actual time you use the money. The quicker you pay, the less it costs. You get the full amount in cash. Make application in the morning and get the money same day. You don't even have to lay off work. Just phone us GArfield 0340 and we will be glad to come out and explain our legal plan to you without obligation whether you make the loan or not.

We are friendly and we try to live up to the Golden Rule. We are offering a loan service that will make friends for us. Consider us like your friendly banker.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The stock market, after rallying briskly from the opening reaction caused by the unexpected increase in the New York Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate, turned weak again in the last hour.

Opening losses, which had ranged from 1 to 6 points, were substantially reduced, or wiped out, by early afternoon, and in a few instances replaced by gains which ran as high as 9 points. The late decline carried most prices to their lowest levels of the day, with the standard industrials and rails showing net declines of 1 to 3½ points, and several specialties closing 5 to 8 points below last night's final quotations.

A widespread speculative belief that the higher rediscount rate was intended as a warning against a further expansion of brokers' loans brought a flood of selling orders into the market overnight. The opening decline was an orderly one and the apparent absence of any extensive volume of forced liquidation, combined with the fact that the call money renewal rate was lowered from 4½ to 4¼ per cent led to a renewal of aggressive speculation for the advance.

Pools acted on the theory that no good reason existed for the wholesale conversion of securities into cash, which they contend is the only logical excuse for a major bear market at the present time.

Call Money Plentiful.

Call money appeared to be in plentiful supply all day at the renewal figure of 4¼ per cent, although banks called about $10,000,000 in loans. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged, but a further stiffening was noted in the rates on bankers' acceptances. The monthly report of Stock Exchange member loans, issued after the close of the market, showed a drop of $12,554,780, bringing the total on Jan. 31 down to $4,420,352,541, as compared with $3,138,786,338 a year ago.

High-priced specialties were the hardest hit. Montana Power opened at 160¼, advanced to 162 and then broke to 155½, off 8 points net. Burroughs Adding Machine opened at 156, advanced to a new record top at 165 and then dropped back to 158, off 4 points net. American Zinc and Lead preferred, Christie Brown, Cushman, Fidelity-Phenix Insurance, Greene Cananea Copper, Houston Oil, Hudson Motors, International Harvester, Midland Steel Produces preferred, National Biscuit, Rossia Insurance, Peoria & Western, Seaboard Air Line preferred and Texas & Pacific were among the many issues to sell down 4 to 7 points.

Steel Is Sluggish.

U. S. Steel common was sluggish today, opening 1½ points lower at 144⅝, rallying a fraction and then breaking to 142⅞. General Motors closed 1⅞ points net lower at 133⅞, after having touched 135¾. Radio Corporation showed a net loss of 3¾ at 99, after having sold above 103.

Foreign Exchange Heavy.

Foreign exchanges also were heavy on selling inspired by the belief that the higher bank rate would result in the withdrawal of American funds now on deposit in London and other European capitals. Sterling cables lost nearly half a cent by selling down to $4.87. Recessions in the continental rates ran from 1 to 6 points.

PRICES IRREGULAR ON CURB EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The curb market followed the "Big Board" over the bumps today, opening weak with an accumulation of selling orders, rallying a bit and then closing off under liquidation influenced by the increase in the Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate. While a few industrial specialties resisted selling sufficiently to hold their ground, or under the inspiration of buying encouraged by favorable trade developments moved up a bit, the general trend of the industrials, as well as other groups, was downward at the close.

The decline was marked in the utilities, where a continued advance over the past two weeks was checked by a selling movement that carried American Light & Traction down 7 points net. Electric Bond & Share and Middle Western Utilities down nearly 4 points each and forced Northern Ohio Power, Northern States Power, Lehigh Power Securities and other leaders to lower ground. National Public Service was the exception, rising a point on the day to a new high at 27½.

American Rolling Mills, Bancitaly, General Baking, Lehigh Coal and other favorites closed lower. Melville Shoe dropped 5 points, Niles Bement Pond was down 3 and Tubize Art Silk lost 13 in the selling movement folowing the rally which had carried them into higher levels. Their strength apparently was transferred to such issues as Shawinigan, which remained at a high of 95¾ for a net gain of more than 10 points. Celanese and Deere & Co., up 3 points each, and Safeway Stores, which gained about 5 points.

Vacuum Oil led the oils and pipe lines downward in the decline from which few recovered, although losses, with the exception of Vacuum's 2⅜-point drop, were within narrow limits. The mines similarly were off, following the lead of Newmont, down about 5 on the day.

COTTON FUTURES ADVANCE ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—An early advance of 25 to 35 points in the cotton market today was checked by a renewal of liquidation or further local and Southern selling. There were sharp reactions in later trading, when selling seemed to be promoted by prospects for rain in parts of West Texas. The midafternoon market was within 6 or 7 points of yesterday's closing quotations.

Futures closed steady. 15@20 points higher. March, 17.14@17.17c; May, 17.30@17.33c; July, 17.38@17.41c; October, 17.18@17.19c; December, 17.20@17.22c. Spot quiet; middling, 17.65c.

The market opened firm at an advance of 23 to 30 points on active covering, foreign buying, believed to be for trade account, and some commission house demand, which evidently was inspired by unexpectedly firm Liverpool cables. Prices sold up to 17.45c for May and 17.29c for October, or about 25 to 35 points above yesterday's close, but the rally attracted realizing and there were reactions of 10 or 15 points.

Private cable attributed the advance in Liverpool to trade calling, covering and rebuying and said there was an absence of selling pressure.

The reaction from the opening advance carried the market off from 17.26c for May and 17.13c for October, or about 12 to 18 points from the best. The volume of business tapered off on the decline, however, and the market held fairly steady on continued covering, while buying was also reported for continental account. Reports that spot cotton was offered less freely in some parts of the South contributed to the steadiness of the market. Prices at midday were about 18 to 24 points net higher.

Get Interest in British Holding Company.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—An interest in Debenhams Securities, Ltd., a holding company for the most important chain of department stores in Great Britain, has been purchased by Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Brown Brothers, it was announced today. The company controls Debenham & Freebody, Marshall & Shelgrove and Swan & Edgar, Ltd., of London. The group of stores does an annual business exceeding $100,000,000. No decision has been made as to a public offering of the shares in New York.

EASING TENDENCIES IN THE BOND LIST

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Slightly lower bond prices today followed the advance in the Federal Reserve rediscount rate from 3½ to 4 per cent. The selling movement embraced a long list of issues and the volume of business was somewhat larger than the daily average. Time money rates were unchanged, but banker's acceptances were a trifle higher.

Government bonds, regarded as a good index of the market as a whole, showed easing tendencies, although losses were limited to small fractions. Treasury 3½s, which lost more than a quarter-point in the early dealings, made up all but one-sixteenth of the decline. Sales of Government issues aggregated more than $500,000.

New York Traction mortgages continued to move forward under the stimulus of the movement for increased fares. In other public utilities were easy. Further seeking out of ordinarily inactive issues was in progress, resulting in advances of a point or so in American Beet Sugar 6s, Dery Dry Goods 7s, North American Cement 6½s and a few others. The Cuba Co. 6½s, however, lost all their 2-point gain of yesterday.

Railroad liens followed a mixed trend. Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s were bought in rather large amounts, but material recessions were recorded by Seaboard 5s and 4s, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, and a few others.

Some of the Argentine securities responded to prompt oversubscription of the new $20,000,000 issue, but irregularity characterized the foreign group as a whole. Trading covered a long list of bonds, but the aggregate volume of business was not unusually large.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today at 4.24c with no sales reported.

Raw sugar futures again were unsettled under continued tired long liquidation and selling by houses with Cuban connections, prices at midday showing net losses of 1 to 2 points. Cables from Europe were rather disappointing, and conditions in the refined sugar market were none too reassuring, although there appeared to be enough covering and some outside buying to absorb the early offerings and to give the market a steadier tone. Private cables from Havana said European buyers were again showing interest in Cuban sugars at 2.38c to 2.40c for Cuba, or slightly above prices prevailing here. A prominent European authority raised his beet sugar crop estimate to [illegible] tons, against his previous estimate of [illegible]103,000 tons and the world's crop at 26,221,000 against his previous estimate of 26,261,000 and the last year's crop of 24,713,000 tons.

There was not much activity in the refined sugar market and prices were unchanged at 5.70c for fine granulated. Resale sugars were being offered in increasing volume in outside districts in competition with cane sugars.

Sugar futures closed steady. Approximate sales 40,350 tons. March, [illegible]; May, 2.63; July, 2.72; September, [illegible]; December, 2.87.

Industrial and Financial Briefs

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.

Net income of the P. Lorillard Co. for 1927 declined to $2,490,786, equal to $1.25 a share on the common, after preferred dividends, from $4,117,197 in 1926 or $2.58 a share. The decrease in the year's earnings, the company stated, was due to the expense of expanding a special brand of cigarettes. Profit from other brands showed an increase over 1926. Profit and loss surplus at the close of the year was $14,421,981 against $13,406,536 at the end of 1926.

Prices of fender steel have been advanced $3 a ton, making heavy gage material 4.40 cents and light gage 4.45 cents a pound. Cold finished bars are up $2 a ton bringing the new base quotation to 2.30 cents, Pittsburg and Chicago, and 2.35 cents, Cleveland.

A gradual speeding up in the lumber industry is indicated in telegraphic reports from 464 mills to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association. As a whole, the industry is far ahead of last year in all departments. The reported production and new business last week was only slightly less, but shipments showed an increase of 17,000,000 feet. Unfilled orders for 217 southern pine and west coast mills amounted to 607,281,245 feet, against 597,584,858 feet the previous week.

Gold valued at $10,525,000 was exported from New York between Jan. 26 and Feb. 1, of which $10,250,000 went to Argentina. Imports of $83,000 came chiefly from Latin America. No movement of the metal to or from Canada occurred during the week.

S. D. Warriner, president of Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co., says net income for 1927 was $2,932,000 after taxes and charges, against $4,117,446 in 1926.

C. S. Jordan, president of Jordan Motor Car Co., reports January shipments were more than double those of January, 1927.

Pullman car and manufacturing has an order for 26 gas electric cars from the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, which also will build 11 gas electric trailers in its Aurora shops. Pullman car will build 3 gas electrics for the Pennsylvania, which also has given an order for 7 more to J. G. Brill Co.

The price of wire rods has been advanced $2 a ton in the Pittsburgh district to $44 a ton.

F. C. Chandler, president of Chandler-Cleveland Motor Car Co., reports January shipments 42 per cent ahead of January 1927.

Heavy construction contracts let in the United States in January were valued at $197,884,000, compared with $181,740,000 in January, 1927, Engineering News-Record reports. New England contracts were $17,340,000; Middle Atlantic, $72,004,000; South, $19,077,000; Middle West, $40,280,000; west of Mississippi $31,681,000, and far West, $16,802,000. Construction costs advanced 0.4 per cent in the month on a slight increase in structural shapes in Pittsburg.

New Securities

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The Argentine Government, through Chase Securities Corporation and Blair & Co., Inc., offers $20,000,000 of 5¼ per cent bonds at 97 and interest, to yield about 5.70 per cent. The country, which is now on a gold basis, is the first South American Government to obtain a loan here since the war bearing a coupon as low as 5½ per cent. The offering, third largest foreign issue this year, is the first Argentine loan since last August.

The Paris-Orleans Railroad Co. will be the first French company to get a loan in this market since the State Department lifted the ban on such financing. The loan, which will be marketed through Brown Brothers & Co.; A. Iselin & Co., and Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., and Hemphill, Noyes & Co., will take the shape of a new issue of $10,750,000 of 40-year 5½ per cent bonds. This is the first important piece of French financing to be floated in this country in three years. Proceeds from the new issue will be used to retire all of the present outstanding 7 per cent bonds. They will be called Sept. 1, 1928. The company is the second largest privately owned railroad system in France. It extends from Paris to Bordeaux, Nantes and St. Nazaire to Southern France and Spain.

The Pennsylvania Water & Steel Co., through Minsch, Monell & Co., Inc., offers [illegible],000,000 of first and refunding mortgage [illegible]-year 4½ per cent bonds at 99 and interest, to yield over 4.55 per cent. Proceeds will be used to retire $3,000,000 of [illegible] per cent bonds and $2,759,000 of 6 per cent bonds of the Holtwood Power Co., a subsidiary.

The Hartford Times, through Hemphill, Noyes & Co., Eastman, Dillon & Co., and Thomson, Fenn & Co., offers $3,000,000 of [illegible]-year 6 per cent debentures at 99 and interest, to yield about 61.0 per cent. The same bankers are also offering 50,000 shares of participating preference stock at [illegible]0.50 a share, to yield over 7.59 per cent. The paper will become a part of the Frank E. Gannett chain.

Western Power, Light & Telephone Co., through A. B. Leach & Co., Inc., and Porter Fox & Co., Inc., will offer a $2,750,000 issue of 20-year 6 per cent issue. Proceeds of the issue will be used toward acquiring additional subsidiaries in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Louisville, through Rogers Caldwell & Co., Inc., offers $1,000,000 of 4 per cent [illegible]-year sewer bonds at 105.25 and interest, to yield about 3.74 per cent.

Sole Leather and Offal Advance

BOSTON, Feb. 3.—Shoe and Leather Reporter, in weekly review of leather market says: "Sole leather and offal advances featured the market's activities during the week under review. Upper leather producers reported some falling off in the volume of new business booked and also complained about buyers not taking old orders as originally specified. Tanners on the whole are advising their accounts that unless shipments are taken on dates specified, old orders which were booked on a low price basis will be canceled." The same journal, reviewing the shoe market, says: "Shoe manufacturers are gradually getting under way on the new season's run. Orders on hand indicate steady production for the next 60 days in the case of popular-priced lines. With Easter coming early this year, increases in production are looked forward to."

CREDITORS FILE BANKRUPTCY ACTION AGAINST "THE TENT"

Grocery, Costume and Electric Companies Petitioners in Case of Night Club.

On the heels of a receivership action three weeks ago, three creditors yesterday filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the Arabian Club, Inc., known as "The Tent," a night club at 1122A Washington avenue. Circuit Judge Ossing Jan. 11 appointed Theodore J. Evers and Robert Olson temporary receivers on petition of Larry Conley, song writer and leader of the club's orchestra.

The petitioners in the bankruptcy action yesterday were the Goddard Grocery Co., with a claim of $535; the St. Louis Costume Co., $276, and the Dennison-Loepker Electric Co., $1499.

The receivers reported to the Court Wednesday that they had sold the assets for $4000 last Monday, after operating the club from Jan. 11 with a profit of $68.68. They asked for $750 for their services. Attorneys' fees of $700 also were asked.

HOODED MEN KIDNAP STUDENT

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 3. — Seized by nine hooded men when he was called to the door, Marian A. Zioncheck, president of the University of Washington student body, last night was bound and gagged and driven to the shores of Lake Washington, where he was ducked, paddled and his head shaved.

The kidnaping followed two months of dispute between campus leaders over student policies, Zioncheck being the leader of one group.

CANCER PRIZES WITHHELD

Time for Distributing $100,000 Extended Indefinitely.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The contest for $100,000 in prizes offered by William Lawrence Saunders for suggestions for the prevention or cure of cancer, has been extended indefinitely, because of promising suggestions received just before the contest was scheduled to close Feb. 1. Dr. George A. Soper, [illegible] of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, announced.

Dr. Soper said 3158 suggestions had been received so far from [illegible] countries.

Southern Season Forecasts Spring Styles

Outfits Follow the Lines and Colors of Paris Creations for the Foreign Resorts.

NEW YORK.

THE Southern season is at hand and our reports from the leading stores in New York and all over the country are as important to the stay-at-homes as to those who intend to migrate, because the things selling now for Southern wear forecast the spring and summer fashions.

Sport outfits of silk, linen and even cotton materials, afternoon and evening gowns of crepe, satin and chiffon, printed and plain, follow the lines and colors of the costumes created in Paris for wear on the Riviera, at Deauville and Biarritz.

The new designs and fabrics are lovely, and for each sort there is a type of dress. For cotton, silk crepe or linen there is a popular dress for the South. It has kimono sleeves and a straight skirt pleated across the front and stitched down so that the pleats may easily be pressed in after each laundering. The collar and cuffs are plain white and bound with the predominant color of the print. The narrow kid belt is white also. A small floral or geometric pattern is best, or a plaid in gay colors. Many of these dresses are seen at the smart resorts, worn with white or colored kid pumps and a small hat of white or pastel-colored felt or natural straw. Short sleeves are popular with those who go in for sunburn.

A similar dress with long sleeves, is chosen by women who do not like tanned skin. The fabrics from which it is usually made are crepes and linens, and come in the loveliest colors—clear yellow, yellow greens and green blues, as well as pale, misty blues, pinks and mauves. It has a kid belt and silk tie of a deeper shade than the frock.

One of the novelties of the Southern season is the number of printed cotton frocks selected for tea parties and bridge games. A very popular dress has a gathered flounce paralleling the neck line instead of the usual circular flare. This dress is also seen in the conventional printed silks.

The cardigan is reported constantly in various forms. The model most chosen for Southern wear is sleeveless and has a matching skirt with three box pleats at the left side. Underneath the cardigan is a white slip-over blouse. The bottom of the blouse and the sleeves are banded with three deepening shades of the color of the cardigan—a form of trimming very much favored by the best French and American dressmaking houses.

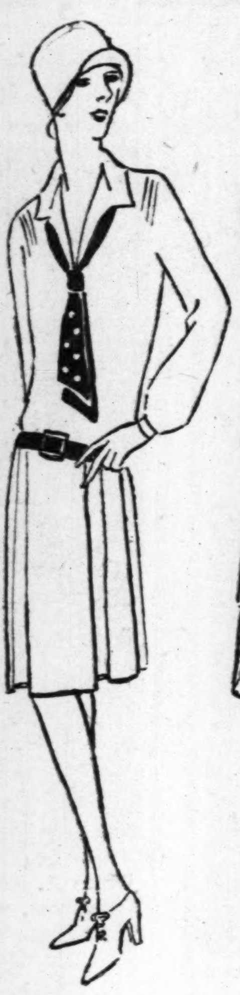
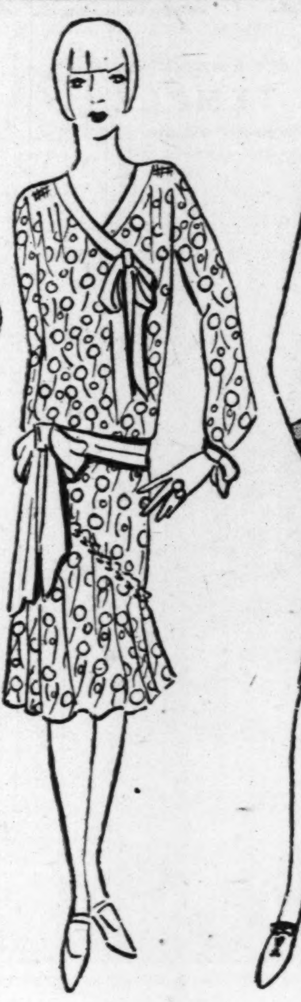
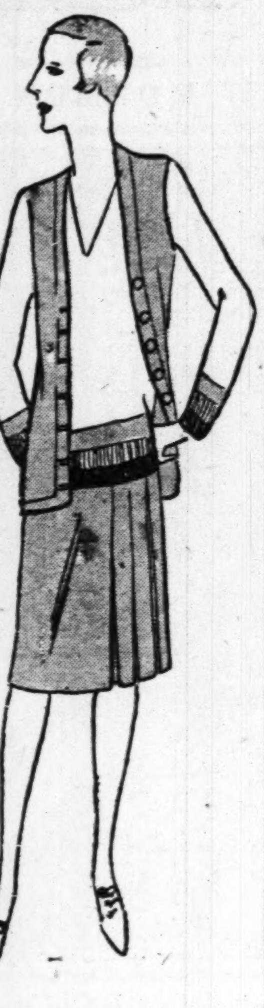
The sleeveless tailored frock is being chosen for Southern wear.



Severely tailored dresses still are smart.



Another version of the popular printed frock.



Three-piece costumes are most popular for sport wear.

Married Folks Live Longest

WOMEN live longer than men and married people longer than unmarried ones is the conclusion of Helen Christine Bennett, who reported her investigations on prolonging life in the January McCall's. In quoting Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk, Medical Director of the Life Extension Institute, she says:

"There is also a general impression that maternity shortens life. The function of maternity brings a general bodily quickening, a stimulating of all the forces that make for living, which is in itself a help to health and to longer life.

"In the younger women, those from 18 to 35, we find an appalling amount of underweight and low blood pressure. This comes, in a good many cases, from deliberate under-eating. Our young women as well as our older ones want to be slim. Now the older woman may stand a certain amount of self-decreed dieting, but even she runs a severe risk unless she is dieting under a physician. But the young woman who diets until she is constantly under weight presents a very grave problem. She is being underfed and is a likely subject for tuberculosis. Don't get the idea that we are through with tuberculosis, because we know something about it. We are far from through.

"One of the vanities of women that helps them live longer is their pride in their teeth. In every group of people examined we find the teeth of the women far superior to those of the men. And teeth are of prime importance in living longer and in living well while you live.

"We find women in general more given to consider health than are men. We find them much less reckless. And although a wife should not be held responsible for her husband, since he is an adult and presumably capable of caring for himself, you know as well as I do that the wife in most households looks after her husband's welfare.

"You may be interested to know that married people on the whole live longer than unmarried ones. When a bachelor arrives at middle age he has just half the chance to go on living that a married man has! And widows have an appallingly high mortality rate."

Fresh Air Is Necessary.

Busy housewives get into the habit of staying in the house far too much for their own health and state of mind, claiming they have not time to do otherwise. At least try to go daily to market and get that much outdoor exercise and air. You will feel better for this little change and probably save money by better buying.

JOHNNY SHUTS THE DOOR AGAIN

Who to his business doth attend
Will seldom other folk offend.
—Old Mother Nature.

IT didn't take Peter Rabbit long to find out when Reddy Fox had left. Peter didn't feel altogether comfortable down there in Johnny Chuck's house. Johnny has a way of grumbling to himself sometimes and his grumbling isn't pleasant. He was grumbling now. You see, he hadn't wanted to wake up, but when he was once awake he had had to go up and see how it was outside. He had sort of hoped that it was spring. When he had opened the door and poked his head out and found everything covered with snow Johnny had been a disgusted woodchuck.

So, after sitting on his doorstep a while, wishing he could get something to eat, but knowing he couldn't, Johnny had gone down to his bedroom. He hadn't even waited to greet Peter Rabbit, who had started from the Old Briar-patch, lipperty-lipperty-lip, when he had seen Johnny out there on his doorstep. Peter had been greatly disappointed. He had wanted to talk with Johnny Chuck. You know, Peter always likes to gossip. But Peter hadn't quite dared go down inside that house. In the first place, it wasn't polite. In the second place, he had a feeling that Johnny Chuck was out of sorts. So not until Reddy Fox had jumped for him had Peter gone down inside.

When Peter did go in he didn't go away down. He went down Johnny Chuck's long hall only far enough to be sure he was safe from Reddy Fox. The situation Peter found himself in wasn't getting altogether pleasant. Down below he could hear Johnny Chuck growling and grunting. Up above he could hear Reddy Fox growling and snarling. So, you see, Peter sort of felt as if trouble awaited him either way.

Peter guessed that Reddy Fox wouldn't stay very long. It was broad daylight and he knew that Reddy wouldn't want to be out there in the middle of the Green Meadows any longer than he could help. So, after waiting a little while, Peter began to make his way up to the doorway, a step at a time. Between steps he waited. At last he was where he could look out. Nothing was to be seen of Reddy Fox, in front of him or on either side. A Merry Little Breeze came blowing from directly behind Peter, but brought no scent of Reddy Fox. Then Peter boldly thrust his head out. Reddy Fox was nowhere in sight. Peter grinned.

Just then he heard a sound behind. It was Johnny Chuck grumbling. He was coming up the hall. "I've got to shut this door again," grumbled Johnny Chuck. "I've got to shut this door and go back to sleep. I don't see what I had to wake now for, anyway. I didn't want to wake up. I don't see why it isn't spring. I've got to shut this door."

Peter moved out and sat on the doorstep. Then he looked back down inside. Sand was being packed in from down below. It was being pushed up Johnny Chuck's hall and gradually filling up the hallway just below Peter. In a few minutes Peter couldn't see down at all, but he could hear Johnny Chuck at work. Then all was quiet. He knew then that Johnny Chuck had gone back to bed. He had closed his door and gone back to bed.

"Well, it's time for me to go home," said Peter. And so it was.

Sandwich Butter.

Nowadays dainty sandwiches with flavored butter fillings are served with the salad at afternoon functions. One delicious filling consists of a little celery salt, a few chopped olives, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon chopped chives and 1 teaspoon lemon juice worked into a smooth paste with ½ cup butter. Spread on very thinly sliced bread and cut into tiny, dainty shapes.

It's half the secret of flavorous soups

Soups with delicate, subtle, flavor—so characteristic of fine French cooking—you can now have so easily. Just a little A. 1. Sauce to each plateful — and your soups take on the flavor that has made the soups of French chefs famous.

Try This

Add ½ teaspoon baking soda and 2 teaspoonsful of A. 1. Sauce to a can of tomato soup. When hot, add equal quantity of milk.

FOR AN INDOOR WINTER PICNIC

By Wanda Barton

PICNICS are usually held in the summer time and out-of-doors, but there is no reason why we cannot have one inside by way of novelty, if we like. The invitations may set the time from 6:30 to midnight with the picnic supper at 7.

The baskets may be purchased for from 10 to 20 cents apiece, then painted in gay colors, decorated if the home artist is clever along these lines, lined with white crepe paper and tied with ribbons to match. The baskets when filled are designed for two and are set between the two places at table. The two place cards are on top of each basket. The places are set with paper plates, napkins and little fluted paper baskets filled with nuts.

The table may be covered with a white paper tablecloth, large-sized napkins to match. The centerpiece may be a large snowball favor pie with the white ribbon running to each place. A large bowl of popcorn balls may be placed at either side of the centerpiece, and the vases may be filled with Christmas greens and red dried berries, or the little Chinese lantern sprays which are very decorative.

Before the guests arrive let's lift a cover from one of the baskets and see what is stowed inside. There is a little paper ramekin filled with a dainty shrimp relish in a colorful sauce. An individual chicken pie with a flaky crust, and a little paper cup of mixed vegetables in aspic to go with the pie. A plentiful supply of tiny hot biscuits were to be broken open and buttered and passed with steaming cupfuls of coffee. Ice cream in bricks with slices of plum cake were served last, to be true to picnic form.

For Breakfast You Can't Beat Bacon!

Especially if it is Independent Bacon. What a delicious flavor this famous-for-24-years brand has!

Serve it with waffles, with fried corn meal mush, with french toast, with pancakes, or in scrambled eggs or omelets. And as for fried eggs and bacon—they're at their very best when you use Independent Bacon.

You can get it in whole sides, by the pound; or sliced, in pound or half-pound cartons.

PROBLEM OF OILY HAIR

AND an acutely disagreeable problem it is, too—and more especially so when the victim of an oily head is fundamentally a sensitive and fastidious person. All of which is meant to imply that sticky, unruly locks are not always due to negligence.

Because there are so many more "oilies" than "dries" in the world —or is it that this only seems to be the case?—and because so many varying opinions as to the cause of oily scalp have been advanced by experts and because the correctives advised are so many and so various—because of all these things, I have always considered this particular beauty problem to be one of more than passing interest.

Many are the tomes and the papers I have read on the subject and many the experiments I have made with this and that method of treatment. As a result I am strongly on the side of the authorities who claim that the root of the "oily" evil is NERVES.

You who belong to the "oilies" watch the reaction on your scalp the next time you are harried and hurried and worried. And to make the test a really thorough-going one, watch the reaction on your scalp when you are poised and happy and at peace with all the world, let's say when you are off on a delightful vacation somewhere.

Moral: As far as such a thing is possible in this world in which most of us live, BE SERENE!

Now about shampoos. On the question of shampoos for the oleaginous scalp, there I am "securely on the fence," taking sides neither with those authorities who insist on frequent shampooing, nor with those who claim that the only way to bring this type of abnormal scalp back to normal is to keep it unwashed for six long weeks at a time. Relief from unsightly stringy hair and a scalp you hate to touch lies midway between these two extremes, it seems to me. The right sort of shampoo every two or three weeks proved best, in my experiments at least.

The actual shampoo consisted of nothing more rare, expensive or exciting than a simple tincture of green soap, a tablespoonful of it dissolved in a cup of warm water, and preceded by an olive oil rub.

That last may seem to be a sort of adding fuel to an undesired fire, but it is not. Without getting boresomely technical about the subject, it is more a business of adding fuel to a dying fire decidedly in need of reviving. An oily scalp is a scalp covered with a network of weakened and broken down oil glands incapable of properly distributing their content, and so wasting it. They crave replenishment, that is all, and the additional strengthening aid of massage. Massage alone is excellent for this special kind of underpar scalp, and if that massage is given daily, why so very much the better—and the quicker —will be the results.

Before altogether leaving the subject, we feel impelled to be a bit more explicit concerning that admonition to be serene. Such a perfect state of inward and outward calm is to be attained only by the superbly healthy or the supremely saintly. Take your choice as to which means you will employ to achieve a temperament and a scalp above par.

DYING UNMOURNED AND DESERVING IT

By Winifred Black

HE'S DEAD—the Office Grouch. All the clerks and stenographers, the telephone girls, the cashier, the business manager and the men from the other departments of the concern put their money together and bought flowers. Oh, loads of flowers—red roses and white roses, and violets and ferns. They all went to the funeral, and they looked at each other and said: "Isn't it sad?" and all the time they were thinking, "I wonder if the new man won't be a little more agreeable."

WINIFRED BLACK

The firm publication had a fine article in it about the Office Grouch. They said he was good-humored and kindly, and generous and sympathetic, and generally delightful. They had a picture of him in the publication, and those who knew him for years said that the first time they ever saw a smile on the Grouch's face was when they looked in the paper at the photograph of the Grouch, with his name written under it in large plain letters.

I wonder what it's all about, anyhow, this hypocritical pretense of grief over people for whom we feel no sorrow at all?

The poor Grouch probably had troubles of his own. Maybe he really was courageous and fine and generous—to someone, somewhere—but he never showed one of those traits to his fellow workers. He was a position of some authority and he never lost a chance to hold the whip over those beneath him.

He never smiled—he sneered. He never laughed—he gave a kind of cynical grunt. I never heard him praise anyone in my life, and when one of the men who helped to build up the business from the very beginning was sent on a fine vacation by the bosses, the Office Grouch went to bed sick. He was green with envy until the man came home from his vacation ill, and could not come back again, after all, to do his work.

And the poor little telephone girls — how they dreaded the Grouch on the telephone! Sarcastic! Irritable! and any stenographer in the place would run a mile to get out of taking dictation from the Grouch.

The young fellows who were learning the business turned a sickly blue at the very mention of the Grouch's name. He never allowed one of them to "get by" with any little success or any foolish little triumph.

He loved to take the wind out of people's sails and he was an expert at the business. Walk on air if you liked, but when you met the Grouch, down you came with a thump, as the Grouch gave his mean little sneer and that was that.

I wonder if he's trying to make the cherubs feel as if they're a little too fat and what's his opinion of the halos? I'll warrant by this time whatever angels have had the pleasure of his acquaintance are giving him a wide berth.

Terrible to say such things of a man who's dead?

I wonder why? You can't hurt him by anything you say now, not even if you wanted to, and after all I don't see why you should want to.

He must have been very unhappy to love to hurt other people so much, mustn't he?

Everything Is in Glass Nowadays

THE use of glass spreads some delightful infection. And if you have previously thought of glass as limiting itself to certain accessory uses, you will have chance to change your ideas completely. There is practically nothing that cannot be had in glass.

Do you need a serving tray? You can have it in glass. Are you in need of a celery platter, or a butter dish? There it is in glass. Do you want a toast and tea set? Here's one in glass. And are your after-dinner coffees suffering from the breakage plague? Replace them with glass.

And, in addition, here comes along the glass breakfast set—a great convenience to have all assembled for the ocasional breakfast among your pillows, or the daily breakfast in bed if that is your custom. There is, of course, to start with, the tray, then a plate, cereal bowl, egg cup, a creamer, sugar bowl and coffee pot. This set of reasonable price was displayed in green glass with a gold edge and was truly very refreshing and dainty in its effect.

Of the decorative glass objects probably the loveliest for mantel and table have been the Venetian things and some of the Austrian, but they have been really too costly for the average purse. Now the country of enterprising craftsmen, Czecho-Slovakia has come forward with some excellent reproductions of the old Venetian designs, and as is usual with everything they do, at moderate prices. There are among them the large beakers, the attractive huge covered candy jars, delicate vases or wine bottles with fragile twisted handles, and dolphin and other Venetian types of candlesticks.

The Good From the Bad.

One housewife uses this clever way of distinguishing her best handkerchiefs from those of everyday use. When ironing them she folds all her ordinary handkerchiefs into squares and her better ones into triangles. Then she can select just what she wants day or night.

Very Important.

Clean glasses mean a great deal to the person with poor eyesight, especially if that person does work requiring accurate vision. A small bottle containing half ammonia and half water is a convenience, as a drop or two on a clean cloth will make the glasses shine.

THE WAY —OF— A WOMAN

—By—
Marguerite Mooers Marshall

THE TEN-POINT HUSBAND.

SEVEN Long Island City girls have set up the following perfect score of ten points for the ideal husband: (1) Ability to support a wife and prepare for the future; (2) good Christian character; (3) good education; (4) mental and physical cleanliness; (5) good health; (6) a respecter of persons; (7) strong-mindedness; (8) sociability; (9) purpose in life; (10) honesty. Not every girl will call this a perfect score. Here's the ten-point husband we recommend to any young woman who intends to make use of her leap-year privileges:

1. Congeniality. If you like to read, pick another bookworm; if you prefer dancing, choose a Black Bottom expert; if your idea of a vacation is a summer hotel in the mountains, don't marry a man who prefers a fishing shack on the coast of Maine. Why spend the rest of your life either bullying your husband into going your way, or martyrizing yourself by going his? Opposites may attract before marriage, but afterward they bore or irritate.

2. Tolerance. No man will agree with you about everything, but that doesn't matter if he'll agree to disagree. Choose a husband who will allow you personal liberty and a mind of your own—that is, if you are willing to allow him the same privileges. Otherwise, you won't deserve him!

3. Charm. The girl wedding a man whom she doesn't consider physically attractive—never mind what an artist would think of him—a man whose glance, touch, kiss fail to thrill her, a man whose talk does not keenly interest her, is a girl who misses the glamour of life.

4. Considerateness. John MacDonald, a lady-killing footman of the eighteenth century, remarks wisely in his "Memoirs": "And there is nothing that gains the affections of women so soon as to be always obliging to them."

5. Justice. The man who is truly just is one with whom no fair-minded woman can have any trouble about money. He will work and save, and expect no more and no less from her.

6. A good digestion and appetite. The man with a squeamish stomach is always making his wife feel like a criminal. Accidents will happen in the best regulated kitchens and cooking for people with whom things "don't agree" is a problem. Life is infinitely simpler when a burnt corner of bacon doesn't drive an over-sensitive husband from the breakfast table, or when he can eat boiled eggs without a bilious attack.

7. Mechanical ability. One of the greatest comforts of having a husband around is that you may have in him a Mr. Fixit—somebody who can put a washer on the faucet, take the squeak out of the door, run the boat or the car. Tools and machinery bite so many women!

8. Demonstrativeness. The "stern, strong, silent man" is a domestic pest. Almost any marriage can be made endurable if a husband knows how to praise and kiss his wife, if he isn't afraid to tell her that he loves her. A fat lot of good his loving does her, if he doesn't demonstrate it! Emotional starvation is the commonest disease among American married women.

9. Imagination. A man with imagination can put himself in his wife's place and therefore understand her, also he can keep their life out of the rut of hackneyed habit by thinking of new things to do and say; also he's never a bore.

10. Humor. If a young man doesn't know how to laugh with the girl he marries, if they haven't a shared perception of the ironies and idiocies of things and people and even of each other, they'd better call off life and love together before they begin it. "For"—as Percy MacKaye once wrote—"the test of love and the zest of love and the best of love is laughter!"

PENUMBRA.

Do not take my hand!—
Just sit here by my side
And talk of anything—of nothing—
Let me but hear your voice.
I will close my eyes, just so,
And will not ask for more.
Let your voice slowly fade
Into a trembling silence.
So I will not know the moment when you leave.
Let your farewell be as the falling twilight
That links the day to night.

Latitude—and Longitude—in Dress.

Speaking of dress reform, on the very day that the National Council of Catholic Women condemns immodest dress in New York, Arthur Grimble, British Resident Commissioner of Gilbert and Ellice Islands, in the South Pacific, reports that, instead of promoting morality, clothes destroy it in the territory over which he presides.

Seal in sterilized jars while hot.

AMERICAN WOMEN DEMAND RECOGNITION AS EXPLORERS

They Have Shown, They Declare, That They Can Do a Man-Size Piece of Work in the Jungles.

WOMAN'S place is in the jungles, believe some 30 American women who have banded together for the purpose of gaining recognition of their ability in exploration.

The National Society of Woman Geographers is celebrating its second anniversary and points to its two years of existence as proof that a woman can be charming, wear pretty clothes, and still do a man-sized piece of work in primitive, uncivlized wastes of territory.

The society is composed of nationally and internationally recognized women geographers and those who have done distinguished work in the allied sciences, ethnology, archeology, botany, natural history, sociology, folk-lore and arts and crafts.

Active membership in the society is dependent upon the contributions the woman makes to science. Associate membership is granted to women who sponsor such trips, who take them as lay-women, or who are interested in active geographical investigations.

THE overgrown thicknesses of South American jungles, the caste-proof communities of central India, the interior of Africa and the ancient seats of civilization in China have all been penetrated and their secrets converted to scietific channels by these women.

Harriet Chalmers Adams, president of the society, an authority on Latin-America and Spain, tells of the genesis of the organization.

"The men, you know, have had their hide-bound, exclusive little explorers' and adventurers' clubs for years and years," she said. "But they have always been so afraid that some mere woman might penetrate their sanctums of discussion that they don't even permit women in their clubhouses, much less allow them to attend any meetings, for discussions that might be mutually helpful.

"We decided that the best thing to do would be to organize our own club."

Among the women who are members is Mary Hastings Bradley of Chicago, who has been a member of two expeditions to Africa. She was on the first white expedition through the unexplored cannibal country of the Nameless mountains, in the Belgian Congo, brought back the first mountain gorillas to this country and made pictures of wild gorillas.

GERTDUDE EMERSON, associate editor of "Asia," is living in a primitive tribe in India as the only white person within 50 miles, making a study of its civilization, social, economic and political.

Blair Niles, secretary of the society, has just returned from a year in French Guiana, and is writing a book on that country.

Corresponding membership is granted to those women of other countries who are engaged in similar work. Among them are Germaine Merlange of France, an authority on the textiles of the Orient, who is in this country delivering a series of lectures, and Ella R. Christie, one of the first eight women to become Fellows of the Royal Geographical Society.

Age and Plumpness Are Defied by Dressmaker

ALL women are equal in present day fashions. Age and plumpness are no longer a bar to chick," declared Madame Maryvon, noted Paris couturiere, in an interview on the season's styles, just received by the Woman's Home Companion.

"It is unfair to class these two types of women together," she continued. "There are so many older women with girlishly slender figures and so many young women with heavy figures that with very few exceptions there are no older styles today. Everything is young.

"Above everything else," said Mme. Maryvon, "I feel that the older woman should strive for simplicity and distinction in her dress.

"The current modes have to be adapted to any and all types excepting perhaps the very young and the very slender. Even for these women certain adaptations should be made if they wish any note of individuality in their dress.

"In designing clothes for the woman with a heavy figure I consider first of all her proportions. The length of her skirt and the adjustment of her waistline must be decided by the size of her bust and her lower limbs. The cut of the neck and sleeve depend on the size and contour of neck and arms.

"The line or the silhouette as it is now more frequently called is of first importance. Color, fabric and trimming are secondary.

"I adjust the waistline according to the size of the bust. If the bust is large and the shoulders broad, I lengthen the waist, fit it quite closely under the arms and straighten it below the bust. I allow a slight softening fullness on the shoulders.

"If the bust is small and the shoulders narrow in proportion to the hips more fullness is allowed on the shoulders and the line from under the arms to the waistline is left loose and soft.

"I regulate the length of the skirt according to the size of the lower limbs and the point at which I have placed the waistline.

"The woman with a large figure should never wear a tight skirt, no matter what the style of the moment demands. There should always be an ease of width which allows the skirt to fall easily about the figure without outlining it. And no matter what length of skirt is being worn the woman with large lower limbs should never wear a skirt shorter than the beginning of the calf. If properly proportioned her dress or costume will be quite as chic as though her skirt were to her knees if the world of the slender is wearing them at the knees.

"The large woman will find the skirt which dips or is draped at one or both sides very kind to her figure. Not only does it give height, but it gives the legs an appearance of slenderness. This drapery, however, must not be a loose panel or a drape with no apparent relation to the cut of the dress or skirt.

"Sleeves for the heavy arm must be long and easy fitting. Too full sleeves shorten the arms and exaggerate the width of the figure and too tight sleeves exaggerate the size of the arms. Sleeves must not be trimmed.

"For evening unless arms and shoulders are abnormally large I like the strap decolletage which frankly shows the arms and shoulders. Any attempt to cover the arms results in making them appear larger.

"The short heavy throat is given an appearance of greater length and slenderness by a well-fitting untrimmed neckline coming rather high in the back and opening down the front in a slender pointed or V line.

"For the older woman I bring the neckline quite high at the back to cover any defect in the contour of neck and shoulders. I consider this back neckline very carefully for the large woman if there is any heaviness at the base of the neck. Generally the large woman's neck and shoulders are quite lovely.

"Contrary to the general idea, light colors do not make the figure appear larger if the garment is properly cut and proportioned.

"Pale green is a particularly slenderizing color. Beige and white are not supposed to be, but both may be worn by large women if the garment is carefully designed. And there are any number of colors of which this is true. Harsh primitive colors are to be avoided."

Braised Veal.

Five-pound shoulder of veal, 2 tablespoons chopped onions, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper. Have shoulder boned and rolled for roasting. Cook onion in butter until golden brown. Add meat and brown well all over. Add 4 cups boiling water, salt and pepper. Cover kettle and place in a slow oven. Cook for 2 hours. Remove meat to a hot platter, thicken gravy with 1 tablespoon flour dissolved in a little water. Serve separately so as not to interfere with the carving.

White of egg applied with a soft brush will freshen gilt picture frames.

Beauty Aids in Tube

THE latest aid to beauty is a miniature telescope of ivory which conceals in a slender four-inch long cylinder a powder puff, lipstick, powder and perfume. The puff unfolds to a three-inch diameter when pulled out of the stick. More costly versions of the novelty come in silver and gold with a magnifying mirror set in the end.

Chicken Muffins.

Take two cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup cooked diced bacon, one cup cooked diced chicken, one egg, one cup milk or water and two tablespoons melted shortening.

Sift dry ingredients; add meat and stir. Mix egg, liquid and melted shortening and stir into first mixture. Bake in greased muffin tins for 20 minutes in a hot oven. Split and butter, then wrap in wax paper.

A thermostatic valve to be attached to radiators has been invented to automatically control room temperatures.

Woman Wins The Prize for Bard Theater

NEARLY two years will be required to complete the new Shakspeare Memorial Theater at Stratford which a young woman designed.

The design, somewhat after the style of a medieval castle, is that of Miss Elizabeth Scott, 29 years old, who triumphed over architects representing some of the foremost talent of Great Britain and America. It was Miss Scott's first attempt in a big design. She is a daughter of a Bournemouth physician, and a cousin of Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, R. A., architect of Liverpool Cathedral.

Not only was Miss Scott's design, in the judges' view, the most suitable for a theater, but it was held to reveal great ability and power of composition. The largeness and simplicity of handling was unequaled by any other design, the judges agreed, other points taken into consideration being the suitability for the site on the Avon banks, picturesqueness in silhouette and modeling and conformity with the traditions of Stratford.

The new building which is to be of stone, and the remnants of the old one destroyed by fire in 1926 will stand back to back.

The theater will seat 1000 persons.

Miss Scott explained that she chose her style because of the picturesque site on the Avon with its trees and meadows and the collegiate church in the background.

"I wanted every line in the landscape to lead directly to the elevation of the building," she said.

"I have been entirely controlled by that fact and the fact that the portion of the old building which escaped the fire will stand as the museum."

"As one connected with the theater," said G. Bernard Shaw, "I am impressed by the fact that, although the architect is a woman, I feel that hers was the only one which showed any theater sense."

The cost of the building will be approximately $750,000, including subscriptions raised in the United States.

A. O. Flower, chairman of the Memorial Executive Committee, has arranged for a tour of the United States and Canada by the Shakspearean players this year, and plans, when the new theater is completed, to have the players appear at Stratford in the summer.

Two in One.

When boiling ham preparatory to baking, save the water in which it is boiled and in it cook the cabbage. It will give the cabbage much more flavor than if cooked in plain water and can be boiling while the ham is receiving a spicy brown coat in the oven.

Do not leave any crumbs in the table cloth or napkins when they are placed in the hamper of soiled clothes as the mice might ruin them.

Light Fur to Be Used For Summer Coats

"FEATHERWEIGHT" fur coats for summer wear will be a feature of this year's styles for the ultra fashionable women.

A model of "summer" ermine, displayed at the fur shop of Lord Victor Paget, weighs out two and one-half pounds.

Pacific seal promises to be popular here this year. It is greyish white, with marble-like markings in spots and stripes.

Women of Spain Buy Most Lingerie

MORE fine lingerie is sold to Spanish women than to any other nationality, except the French, in Paris.

So well recognized is the fact in the lingerie trade that ability to speak fluent Spanish usually is made a requisite for saleswomen in the exclusive shops. A sober taste in exterior garments and love of luxury in lingerie is characteristic of the Spanish woman of taste. de luxe dressmakers say.

Writer Tells Why Women Like Lectures

PHILIP GUEDALLA, English writer, has discovered that in America "the ordinary man is not the ordinary man at all—but the ordinary woman."

The lecturer's audiences are largely women, Guedalla found in his American travels, and he suggests in his newly published "Conquistador" that perhaps one factor in explanation of this is "the wide diffusion of university education in the United States," arousing a thirst for knowledge not easily appeased.

He observes that "the men proceed into their various callings and any appetite for information that college may have stirred is rapidly submerged in the new ardors of their necessary occupations."

"But the college women?" he continues. "Their fate is very different. For a year or so—longer, perhaps—they live at home unmarried. During this interval a lecture may reasonably appeal as a pleasant means of passing time away. There is still a vague desire to learn; the lecture may lead somewhere new or may continue something half-learnt in college. That feeling, I think, accounts for the presence of one's younger hearers.

"Then comes marriage; and the home performs for women the same absorbing functions as a man's profession. That is why men and young married women are so largely absent from the lecture hall. But families, as time goes on, grow up; the home ceases to be an all-absorbing occupation; and the woman is left with leisure on her hands. That is the second stage at which the announcement of a lecture draws her. It seems to beckon with a faint memory of lessons half-learned, 10, 15 or 20 years before. So she goes, unlike her husband, to the lecture, a willing victim of the lecture habit." . . .

Aimee McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, and William Hale Thompson, Mayor of Chicago, are among the personages from whom Guedalla gathered his conception of America, as also are less prominent figures such as a Justice of the Peace who resorted to poetry to thank the city commissioners for an increase in salary and an advertising man who announced a "Taj Mahal" mausoleum.

O'Brien Potatoes

Four cups diced raw potatoes, 1 minced onion, 2 pimentoes, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 pint milk, ½ pound grated cheese. Cook pimentoes and onion in salted water until potatoes are tender. Mix in the chopped pimentoes. Make a sauce of flour, butter, salt, pepper, grated cheese and milk. When smooth mix with the potatoes. Pour all into a baking dish and bake until a nice brown.

We Sterilize this Snow-white Bathroom Paper 20 Times

. . . Costs no more than ordinary toilet paper

Northern Tissue corrects a time-old mistake in personal hygiene. For every sheet is sterilized 20 times. That is why hospitals use it—why doctors advise it—to safeguard the health of your family. (See drawings at left.)

Tests by Columbus Laboratories proved Northern Tissue as sanitary as sealed hospital cotton. And with this sterile quality it is downy soft, snow-white, firm in texture, and doubly absorbent. Yet its price is no more than ordinary toilet paper.

Most yellow toilet papers contain 50% ground wood. Note the tiny splinters which the microscope reveals and to which many doctors attribute rectal troubles, such as Pruritis Ani.

Every sheet of Northern Tissue is made from pure cellulose paper pulp, cooked at 362° F. and sterilized 20 times in manufacture by our own process. Note the firm, down-like texture—free from all irritating particles.

Doctors advise the exclusive use of this sterilized Bathroom Paper (especially where there are children) because its extra hygienic protection safeguards health.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

THE STORY THUS FAR.

The jewel case was most baffling to Vance. It had been opened with a steel chisel after unsuccessfully being pried with a poker, and it was found in the room with the murdered Margaret Odell. Spotswoode had gone out with her the evening of the murder. When he left her he told Jessup, at the switchboard, to call a cab. They heard a scream from her room, but when they reached the door were told everything was all right. The next morning she had been found strangled. Vance believes another man was in the apartment beside the murderer and that he hid in the clothes closet. Investigation discloses that Cleaver had been seen with her a lot and he is brought in for questioning.

CHAPTER XVII.

"I CAN eliminate myself easily enough," Cleaver proclaimed, with easy confidence. "There's a speeding summons from Boonton, New Jersey. Note the date and the time: September the 10th—last night—at half past eleven. Was driving down to Hopatcong, and was ticketed by a motorcycle cop just as I had passed Boonton and was heading for Mountain Lakes. Got to appear in court there tomorrow morning. Damn nuisance, these country constables."

He gave Markham a long, calculating look. "You couldn't square it for me, could you? It's a rotten ride to Jersey, and I've got a lot to do tomorrow."

Markham, who had inspected the summons casually, put it in his pocket.

"I'll attend to it for you," he promised, smiling amiably. "Now tell me what you know."

Cleaver puffed meditatively on his cigar. Then, leaning back and crossing his knees, he spoke with apparent random.

"I doubt if I know much that'll help you . . . I liked the Canary, as she was called—in fact, was pretty much attached to her at one time. Did a number of foolish things; wrote her a lot of damnfool letters when I went to Cuba last year. Even had my picture taken with her down at Atlantic City."

He made a self-condemnatory grimace. "Then she began to get cool and distant; broke several appointments with me. I raised the devil with her, but the only answer I got was a demand for money. . ."

He stopped and looked down at his cigar ash. A venomous hatred gleamed from his narrowed eyes, and the muscles of his jowls hardened.

"No use lying about it. She had those letters and things, and she touched me for a neat little sum before I got 'em back. . . ."

"When was this?"

There was a momentary hesitation. "Last June," Cleaver replied. Then he hurried on: "Mr. Markham"—his voice was bitter—"I don't want to throw mud on a dead person; but that woman was the shrewdest, coldest-blooded blackmailer it's ever been my misfortune to meet. And I'll say this, too: I wasn't the only easy mark she squeezed. She had others on her string. . . . I happen to know she once dug into old Louey Mannix for a plenty—he told me about it."

"Could you give me the names of any of these other men?" asked Markham, attempting to dissemble his eagerness. "I've already heard of the Mannix episode."

"No, I couldn't." Cleaver spoke regretfully. "I've seen the Canary here and there with different men; and there's one in particular I've noticed lately. But they were all strangers to me."

"I suppose the Mannix affair is dead and buried by this time?"

"Yes—ancient history. You won't get any line on the situation from that angle. But there are others—more recent than Mannix—who might bear looking into, if you could find them. I'm easy-going myself; take things as they come. But there's a lot of men who'd go red-headed if she did the things to them that she did to me."

Cleaver, despite his confession, did not strike me as easy-going, but rather as a cold, self-contained, nerveless person whose immobility was at all times dictated by policy and expediency.

Markham studied him closely.

"You think, then, her death may have been due to vengeance on the part of some disillusioned admirer?"

Cleaver carefully considered his answer.

"Seems reasonable," he said finally. "She was riding for a fall."

There was a short silence; then Markham asked:

"Do you happen to know of a young man she was interested in—good-looking, small, blond mustache, light blue eyes—named Skeel?"

Cleaver snorted derisively.

"That wasn't the Canary's specialty—she let the young ones alone, as far as I know."

At this moment a page-boy approached Cleaver, and bowed.

"Sorry to disturb you, sir, but there's a phone call for your brother. Party said it was important and, as your brother isn't in the club now, the operator thought you might know where he'd gone."

"How would I know?" fumed Cleaver. "Don't ever bother me with his calls."

"Your brother in the city?" asked Markham casually. "I met him years ago. He's a San Franciscan, isn't he?"

"Yes—rabid Californian. He's visiting New York for a couple of weeks so he'll appreciate Frisco more when he gets back."

It seemed to me that this information was given reluctantly; and I got the impression that Cleaver, for some reason, was annoyed. But Markham, apparently, was too absorbed in the problem before him to take notice of the other's disgruntled air, for he reverted at once to the subject of the murder.

"I happen to know one man who has been interested in the Odell woman recently; he may be the same one you've seen her with—tall, about forty-five and wears a gray close-cropped mustache." (He was, I knew, describing Spotswoode.)

"That's the man," averred Cleaver. "Saw them together only last week at Mouquin's."

Markham was disappointed.

"Unfortunately, he's checked off the list. . . . But there must be somebody who was in the girl's confidence. You're sure you couldn't cudgel your brains to any advantage?"

Cleaver appeared to think.

"If it's merely a question of some one who had her confidence," he said, "I might suggest Doctor Lindquist—first name's Ambroise, I think; and he lives somewhere in the Forties near Lexington avenue. But I don't know that he'd be of any value to you. Still he was pretty close to her at one time."

"You mean that this Doctor Lindquist might have been interested in her otherwise than professionally?"

"I wouldn't like to say," Cleaver smoked for a while as if inwardly debating the situation. "Anyway, here are the facts: Linquist is one of these exclusive society specialists—a neurologist he calls himself—and I believe he's the head of a private sanitarium of some kind for nervous women. He must have money, and, of course, his social standing is a vital asset to him—just the sort of man the Canary might have selected as a source of income. And I know this: he came to see her a good deal oftener than a doctor of his type would be apt to. I ran into him one night at her apartment, and when she introduced us, he wasn't even civil."

"It will at least bear looking into," replied Markham unenthusiastically. "You've no one else in mind who might know something helpful?"

Cleaver shook his head.

"No—no one."

"And she never mentioned anything to you that indicated she was in fear of anyone, or anticipated trouble?"

Not a word. Fact is, I was bowled over by the news. I never read any paper but the morning Herald—except, of course, The Daily Racing Form at night. And as there was no account of the murder in this morning's paper, I didn't hear about it until just before dinner. The boys in the billiard-room were talking about it, and I went out and looked at an afternoon paper. If it hadn't been for that, I might not have known of it till tomorrow morning."

Markham discussed the case with him until half past eight, but could elicit no further suggestions. Finally Cleaver rose to go.

"Sorry I couldn't give you more help," he said. His rubicund face was beaming now and he shook hands with Markham in the friendliest fashion.

"You wangled that viscid old sport rather cleverly don't y' know," remarked Vance, when Cleaver had gone. "But there's something deuced queer about him. The transition from his gambler's glassy stare to his garrulous confidences was too sudden—suspiciously sudden, in fact. I may be evil-minded, but he didn't impress me as a luminous pillar of truth. Maybe it's because I don't like those cold, boiled eyes of his—somehow they didn't harmonize with his gushing imitation of open-hearted frankness."

"We can allow him something for his embarrassing position," suggested Markham charitably. "It isn't exactly pleasant to admit having been taken in and blackmailed by a charmer."

"Still, if he got his letters back in June, why did he continue paying court to the lady? Heath reported he was active in that sector right up to the end."

"He may be the complete amorist," smiled Markham. "At any rate, he gave us, in Doctor Lindquist, a possible source of information."

"Quite so," agreed Vance. "And that's about the only point of his whole passionate unfoldment that I particularly put any stock in, because it was the only point he indicated with any decent reticence. . . . My advice is that you interview this doctor without further delay."

"I'm dog-tired," objected Markham. "Let it wait till tomorrow."

Vance glanced at the great clock over the stone mantel.

"It's latish, I'll admit, but why not, as Pittacus advised, seize time by the forelock?

'Who lets slip fortune, her shall never find:
Occasion once past by, is bald behind.'

But the elder Cato anticipated Cowley. In his "Disticha de Moribus' he wrote——"

"Come!" pleaded Markham, rising. "Anything to dam this flow of erudition."

(To Be Continued.)

Greasy Heads.

In these days of shiny, glistening heads, it is wise to protect the wall paper over the top of the box couch or daybed by placing a tapestry or print over this place. They can be cleaned much more readily than greasy wall paper.

KOA, Denver, Colo., owned and operated by the General Electric Co., will join the network of the National Broadcasting Co., at 7 o'clock tonight. Programs from the New York, Chicago and Washington studios will be sent through to Denver and broadcast over KOA nightly from 7 to 8:30.

"Since I became president of the National Broadcasting Co.," says M. H. Aylesworth, "I have tried to take the programs of the NBC to the vast listening audience of the intermountain states. But the cost, which will exceed $100,000 a year, was prohibitive until now. An arrangement, just completed, provides that the General Electric Co. and the National Broadcasting Co. share the cost of the wire lines and all overhead expense. Already a number of the 50 or more industries sponsoring programs through the systems of the National Broadcasting Co. and 52 associated, but independently owned, stations throughout the United States have agreed to take their programs to Denver."

KMBC, Kansas City, owned and operated by the Midland Broadcasting Co., has joined the Columbia chain. This station operates on 270 meters (1110 kilocycles) with 1500 watts. It formerly was known as KLDS.

KOIL, Council Bluffs, Ia., on 319 meters (940 kilocycles), with a power of 5000 watts, hereafter will use 10 hours of Columbia chain programs a week.

The key station of the Columbia system is WOR, Newark.

Excellent dinner music may be tuned in from 5:15 to 6 o'clock weekday evenings on KDKA. On four evenings the KDKA Little Symphony Orchestra plays; the Westinghouse band gives the concerts the other two evenings.

Dinner music from 6:35 to 7 o'clock may be picked up on WGN, which broadcasts music at that time every week-day evening by the Drake concert ensemble and Blackstone string quartet.

ON THE AIR TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S network programs over St. Louis stations are noteworthy for variety and general excellence rather than for famous names, although many listeners will regard Nellie and Sara Kouns, who will be featured in the Palmolive hour over KSD, as real headliners. The Kouns sisters, widely known both abroad and in this country, are considered by many variety writers to be the greatest singing team in vaudeville.

The chain broadcasting this evening will begin at 6 o'clock with a recital by Delphine March, contralto, on WJZ. She will sing: "Romance de Pauline," an aria from Tschaikowsky's opera, "Pique Dame;" "Song of the Heart," by Rosamond Johnson; "Deep in My Heart a Lute Lay Hid" by Aylward, and "Little Raindrops."

At 6:15, Norman Hamilton, poet, will read "Jesse James," by William Rose Benet and "The Highwayman," by Alfred Noyes, over WJZ.

At 6:30 Miss Rosa Lee, the "Castoria Rock-a-Bye Lady," will sing Nevin's "Life's Lesson" on WJZ, and also Mozart's "Lullaby," "Moon Boat" and "Dutch Lullaby." The Slumberland Trio will play Faure's "Melody in D," Friml's "Twilight" and Delibes' 'Passepied."

At 7 KSD will broadcast the Cities Service Hour with the following program:

Cities Service March ....Bourdon

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

MABEL.—President Wilson was elected in 1912. He was re-elected in 1916. His veto of the Volstead act was Oct. 27, 1919.

B. R. B.—Treat the milk stains on silk as you would any stain by oil or grease. Cleaning of the whole garment, preferably by a professional cleaner, is recommended where much of it is injured.

MRS. R. E.—The Missouri Apicultural Society or State Beekeepers' Association is the local source of information on bee culture. Write them in care of the College of Agriculture, Columbia, Mo.

PIPE EXPERT.—To sweeten a brier pipe one smoker places it in boiling sweet (not condensed) milk for ten minutes, after the stem, or any hard rubber part has been removed. A genuine brier will stand the boiling. This smoker recommends scraping a pipe clean of all accumulation in the bowl, and boiling in sweet milk once a year. If you fill a new brier with tobacco, light it, and cover the bowl with a damp cloth, blowing through the pipe slowly until all the tobacco is consumed, it is said to take off the worst of the "new" flavor. The process should be repeated several times when a pipe is new.

RED O. S.—The Mississippi River was frozen at St. Louis the last time from Jan. 23 to about Feb. 9, 1918, but this was not smooth ice such as a team might have crossed on, about which you ask. It was floating ice packs congealed by freezing and was not safe for persons to cross on, though some did so. In the recollection of those connected with the Weather Bureau there has not been ice on which a team hauling coal could have crossed the Mississippi at St. Louis in the last 17 years.

J. S.—Aquarium cement: Litharge three ounces, fine white sand three ounces, plaster of Paris three ounces, rosin, in fine powder one ounce, linseed oil (enough), drier (enough). Mix the three ingredients, add sufficient linseed oil to make homogeneous paste, and then add a small quantity of drier. This should stand a few hours before it is used. It is said that glass joined to iron with this cement will break before it will come loose. No result of its use with glass and cement are available. Any formula of the kind is to be regarded as a basis for experiment, especially with cement, or concrete, both of which are variable in composition.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

A. B.—If the bill is against a man who is dead, his wife cannot be made to pay it, but a claim can be filed against the estate of the man.

QUESTIONER.—A foreclosure of mortgage is barred when the notes which it secures become barred by the statute of limitations. Ordinarily this is 10 years after the notes become due.

A BARBER.—A barber must work two years as an apprentice before he may operate shop of his own, but he may own the shop if he has a licensed barber to operate for him. Consult Barbers' State Board, 406 Market street. The Barbers' Union is located at 3745 West Pine boulevard.

MOST UNHAPPY.—In Illinois the chief grounds for divorce are: Impotency, another husband or wife living at time of marriage, adultery, desertion for two years without reasonable cause, habitual drunkenness for two years, attempt on life of spouse by poison or other means showing malice, extreme and repeated cruelty, conviction of felony or infamous crime, and communication of a venereal disease. Plaintiff must have resided in Illinois one whole year next before filing the suit.

ANXIOUS WIDOW.—(1) If you were not negligent, and if the other party's negligence caused the accident, you can recover damages. You should consult a lawyer. (2) In Oklahoma the law requires 30 days' notice by a house renter before vacating. The law as to Texas is not available at this writing.

THINKING.—If you fail to pay any rent on the rent day, the landlord can sue you out in five days' time. If you pay, or offer to pay the old rent not increased, he will have to give you one month's written notice to vacate, serving it before the next rent day. This would give you two months' occupancy. You would have to pay rent for all of this time.

J. E. O.—If the persons lived in open and notorious adultery, they could be prosecuted on the complaint of any person. The penalty is imprisonment in jail for not more than one year, or a fine of not more than $1000, or both such imprisonment and fine.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

MRS.—There is no fixed time for resumption of the function under the conditions you ask about, and if your general health is good and you feel no ill effects there is no occasion for alarm or of interference to promote such return.

MRS. H. O. B.—After bathing in hot water for five or ten minutes and thoroughly drying, apply the following powder to the affected surface: Boracic acid 2 drachms, oxide of zinc 1-2 ounce, talcum powder 1-2 ounce; mix, make a powder, and use night and morning as directed.

VERY ANXIOUS.—So-called Cuban itch is ordinary itch or scabies and due to the presence of an animal parasite. It may be cured by using some such ointment as the following: Precipitated sulphur 1 drachm, petrolatum 1 ounce; mix and apply at bedtime. Take a hot soap and water bath in the morning and change undearwear and bed linen, repeating this three nights in succession.

L. B. O.—The constipation might be relieved by diet, for which you may send stamped, addressed envelope if you wish, repeating the request. Taking a powder in the early evening of 10 grains of bromide of potash and 5 grains of bromide of soda dissolved in half glass of water, and a hot bath just before retiring should relieve the nervous tension, enable you to sleep better and so correct the trouble.

Cheese Ring.

One-half pound American or cottage cheese, salt and paprika, two teaspoons chives or green peppers, chopped; one tablespoon gelatin, one pint cream, whipped.

Grate the American cheese or strain the cottage cheese several times until smooth. Use either one, or half of each kind. Season to taste. Dissolve gelatin in a little cold water and beat all together until light. Place in ring mold, let stand to harden and chill. Remove from mold, place bowl of oil mayonnaise in center and surround with any desired fruit salad.

ARGENTINA CALLS FOR LAW AGAINST INFRINGEMENT ON NATIONAL RIGHTS

Pueyrredon at Havana De clares Diplomatic o Armed Intervention Blow to Independence.

ATTACKS REPORT HUGHES INDORSE

Contends That Person Who Go Into Countr Subject Themselves to It Jurisdiction.

By the Associated Press.
HAVANA, Feb. 4.—Honori
Pueyrredon, head of the Arge tine delegation to the Pan-Amer can Conference, today demand that the sovereignty of states, co sisting of "absolute right to enti internal autonomy and comple external independence," must consecrated in law and practic in fact or "international juridic harmony no longer exists."
"Diplomatic or armed interve tion, permanent or temporary, an attempt against the indepe dence of states without finding justification in the duty of protec ing the rights of its nationals sin the same rights could not be exe cised in their turn by weak cou tries should their subjects suff from convulsions in strong cou tries," he said.
Considering the rights of f eigners abroad, Senor Pueyrred continued: "The citizen who lea his country to go under the so ereignty of another civilized cou try subjects himself to its jur diction, its laws and shares fate."

Necessary for Democracy.

"It is preferable to establish t principle despite its possible dra backs on account of the infin benefits deriving from the respe of the sovereignty of most n tions," he continued. "The Arge tine Republic considers that t respect is necessary so that t young American nations may through the experiences of ho government which naturally evolved to the teachings of poli cal institutions to reach final without foreign interventions, the perfect maturity of democra which must finally control its de tinies in internal peace and inte national concord."
The reply of the Argentine de gate was to a report on the fun mental rights and duties of nati which Dr. Victor Maurtua of P had presented to the Public ternational Law Committee. report had received unqualified proval by Charles Evans Hugh chief of the American delegati who spoke before Senor Pueyr don. The report incorporated subordinating principle of in pendence to respect for the ri of other countries.

A Magna Charta, Says Hughe

Hughes in his address said t
the Maurtua report was a forc expression of the collective du of nations.
"The fundamental conception that we are a family of states bound together in the concept of the relations of civilized tions," Hughes said of the rep
"that conception of fundame unity is the very postulate which we must erect our struct of the juridical exposition of in national law, we cannot ente family of nations, we cannot form the duties of civilized tions with each other without application of principles wh must guide our actions."
The American delegate said he believed that Dr. Maurtua expounded the "Magna charta the Western Hemisphere."
In presenting his report,
Maurtua asserted that the p ciples included in it contained fundamental rights of all st which were above treaties s they were not within the powe such states to contract away.

"Independence Limited."

"This is an age of interdep ence and solidarity among tions," he said. "Independenc not an absolute right, but is ited by the duties of internati co-operation."
In the American continent
pecially, Dr. Maurtua contin
"international co-operation ha special physiognomy. It is m intense than in the rest of world. It is based, however, internal sovereignty and the ternal independence of nation
